Massed Airpower

London (Wednesday), June 23. Formations of R. A. F. heavy bombers thundered over the southeast coast toward the Continent early today after American Flying Fortresses, completing round-the-clock smashes on the German Ruhr for the first time, kindled a square mile of flames that raged through the German synthetic rubber town of Huls yesterday.

The American raid, which plunged directly into the heart of Nazi war production, came shortly after the R. A. F. had blasted the important Ruhr steel town of Krefeld with upward of 2000 tons of bombs.

On the deficit side of the ledger, London early today had a brief air-raid warning—its fiftieth of the year and 648th of the war.

Allied Raids Keep On

Today's R. A. F. operation indicated the Allies were keeping up the bombings, which a German war reporter in a Berlin broadcast described as "conveyor-belt actions."

Other Flying Fortresses also struck by daylight at the former General Motors plant at Antwerp, and R. A. F. Mitchells smashed docks and shipping at Rotterdam, while great forces of American and British fighters made wide, diversionary sweeps to complete 24 hours of tremendous activity.

The Flying Fortresses thrust without escort through strong enemy air and ground defenses to strike Huls, near Recklinghausen, seeking to knock out plants that supply the Germans "a considerable amount of buna rubber," the communique said.

Area Turned Into Flame

Fortress crewmen said mounds of earth appeared raised atop the plant buildings, with trees planted in them. The rubber factory beneath the trees is a modern installation, built since the start of the war. But the American bombers turned the area into sheets of flame.

They left fires and destruction nearly as disastrous as the R. A. F. saturation attack by more than 700 planes during Monday night upon Krefeld, 40 miles southwest of Huls, when the British delivered "one of the heaviest bomb loads so far released on any German target." The Air Ministry gave no other description, but unofficial sources esti-

Compromise Gives Giraud African Reins

De Gaulle to Take Command Elsewhere; Showdown Averted

By Noland Norgaard
Associated Press Staff Writer

Algiers, June 22.—The French Committee of National Liberation designated two commanders-in-chief today—Gen. Henri Giraud for French forces in North and West Africa, and Gen. Charles de Gaulle for forces in other empire territories—thus averting a threatened disruptive showdown on military authority.

A communique announced that a "permanent military committee" composed of Giraud and De Gaulle with their respective chiefs of staff for army, navy and air would proceed "toward fusion of French forces and constitution of a new single armed force."

The compromise was reached after the United States and Britain were reported to have stipulated that Giraud must remain in command of French armed forces in North Africa while this area is a base of Allied military operations.

Chiefs of Staff Named

The brief communique added that the committee had approved the "respective nominations of Gen. Alphonse Juin and Gen. Eduard Rene Marie de Larminat as chiefs of staff of the armies of the two commanders. The designation of chiefs of staff of the navy and air force will be made shortly."

De Gaulle and Giraud were reported to have shaken hands after the agreement was reached.

In effect, the action meant the two commanders agreed only to maintain the status quo on the control of the French armed forces in hopes that a full agreement satisfactory to both sides as well as to the United States and Britain could be worked out.

Explaining the committee's decision to continue the present dual commands for the time being, Monnet said "it is obvious that the habits of the army of General de Gaulle are different from the habits of the Army of North Africa, but the desire to participate in the liberation of France is the same."

Parley Called Today in Fight For Rollback

Administration Sees Hold-the-Line Structure at Stake

By Robert C. Albright
Post Staff Writer

With hopes pinned entirely on the Senate, the Administration last night was fighting to preserve the bare principle of a subsidized rollback of prices as a hold-the-line "must."

Senator Bankhead (Democrat) of Alabama, leader of the Senate's potent farm bloc, entered the fight on the Administration's side, as the tug-of-war for price subsidies neared a Senate decision.

Bankhead called a meeting of the Senate Banking Committee for this morning in a last effort to modify the committee's flat prohibition on use of Commodity Credit Corp. funds for the rollback.

The Alabama Democrat will sponsor both in the committee and later on the Senate floor an amendment to the CCC bill authorizing use of 500 million dollars for the rollback—the minimum authorization required for setting back prices on coffee, butter and meat for year.

Acting Senate Majority Leader Lister Hill, Bankhead's Alabama colleague, meanwhile told reporters that OWM's whole hold-the-line structure is at stake, in his opinion, in the coming Senate subsidy test.

"Unless we indorse at least the principle of price subsidies, we may find ourselves without anything to take its place," Hill told reporters. "The only alternative would be ever-rising prices. "For persons with fixed incomes, that would be disastrous. This is something on which the Administration cannot afford to accept defeat."

Leadership negotiations for a Senate price compromise came after the House last week voted to shut out OPA subsidies, and as storm warnings went up in the Senate:

Developments:

1. Senator Bennett Champ Clark (Democrat) of Missouri introduced legislation even more drastic than the House antisubsidy vote, repealing all price act authority "with respect to the making of subsidy payments." Clark will offer his bill as an amendment to the Senate's billion-dollar CCC loan bill, due before the Senate today.

2. The House Rules Committee voted clearance of the House

Bombers Set 25 Big Fires In Naples

BULLETIN

London (Wednesday), June 23 (AP)—R. A. F. bombers were over Germany again last night, the British announced today.

By Harold V. Boyle
Associated Press Staff Writer

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, June 22.—Waves of American and British bombers, striking in whipsaw fashion from bases in both North Africa and the Middle East, rocked the Italian mainland yesterday with shattering assaults on Naples, the toe cities of Reggio Calabria and San Giovanni and several other southern industrial towns.

American Flying Fortresses and British Wellingtons intensified the announced campaign to bomb Italian industry out of the war with daylong attacks which left the vital factory area of Naples smoking from 25 great fires, one covering an area a mile wide.

No Allied planes were lost on these smashes.

These devastating smashes at Italy's greatest port and the nearby air stores depot of Cancello, beginning before dawn and continuing into the afternoon, followed Allied broadcasts urging Italian workers to remove themselves and their families from industrial areas and "demonstrate for peace."

Harbor Facilities Demolished

At the same time, British and American heavy bombers from the Middle East Command struck at Reggio Calabria and San Giovanni with predawn and daylight attacks, demolishing harbor installations and starting huge fires.

American twin-engined Mitchells joined in the offensive against Mussolini's mainland for the first time. Supported by P-38 Lightning fighters, the medium bombers battered railroad yards and other targets at Salerno and scored 28 direct hits on railroad sidings at Batipaglia. Both towns are south of Naples.

Malta-based Spitfires and Intruders also participated in the widespread Allied assault, plastering rail communications in Sicily and southern Italy with bombs and cannon fire.

Blockbuster-carrying Wellingtons opened the Naples attack, starting a number of fires with high explosives and incendiaries. Then 100 Flying Fortresses renewed the assault by daylight.

Rail Center Devastated

Two fleets of the four-engined B-17s smashed through 30 to 40 enemy fighters to dump their bombs on roundhouses, locomotive repair shops, the royal arsenal and torpedo factory, stores and oil dumps.

At Cancello, direct hits smashed several buildings and left at least

Contract Called Worse Than Teapot Dome Leases In Some Respects

By Robert De Vore
Post Staff Writer

A hint that the Navy might resort to condemnation proceedings against the Standard Oil Co. of California to gain full control of the fabulously rich Elk Hills petroleum reserve came yesterday from Secretary Frank Knox after a Justice Department official declared that, in certain aspects, the Navy's about-to-be-canceled contract with the firm went "far beyond" oil leases of the notorious Teapot Dome scandal.

Knox, who last week followed disclosure that the contract had been pronounced "illegal and invalid" in a Department of Justice report, with announcement that the agreement would be terminated promptly, declared in identical letters to chairman of House and Senate Naval Affairs Committees:

"Perhaps in the circumstances the best alternative (to negotiation of a new contract) is condemnation."

Two Contracts Compared

Earlier in the day, Norman M. Littell, assistant attorney general in charge of the Justice Department's land division, told the House Public Lands Committee which is investigating the deal with Standard, that the contract went "far beyond" the Teapot Dome-Elk Hills oil leases of 1922 to the extent that it "actually conveys an interest" in the reserve to the oil company.

Leases negotiated in Elk Hills and Teapot Dome reserves by the late Albert B. Fall, Secretary of the Interior, Littell pointed out, provided merely for the exchange of a certain amount of oil for assignment of pipeline and petroleum storage facilities to the Government.

The now virtually abrogated contract with Standard would have permitted the company to draw 27,500,000 barrels of oil from the field without payment of any kind to the Navy for five years, and to share in the production of the reserve thereafter.

Standard Continues Production

For these considerations, plus payment of $1,748,408 in cash, Standard agreed to convey to Navy control forever approximately 8300 acres of oil lands held by the company out of the reserve's total of 43,793 acres, the balance of which belongs to the Navy.

4 Million Tons a Year

Strike's End Saves WPB Drive To Increase Steel Production

The action of John L. Lewis in calling off the 2-day-old general coal strike apparently saved the War Production Board's ambitious campaign to get a million more tons of steel every three months through a labor-management production drive.

War Production Chief Donald M. Nelson warned yesterday afternoon while the strike was still in full swing that the program—needed to meet our production goals in the third quarter of the year—might have to be dropped if the strike continued.

The end of the strike also averted closing of 13 steel blast furnaces previously expected to go out of business tomorrow because of lack of coke. Closing of seven blast furnaces yesterday was reported by the Associated Press.

Nelson said that a drop in steel production would have "a disastrous effect on the production of airplanes, escort vessels, merchant ships, 100-octane gasoline and badly needed armament of all kinds."

The United States Steel Corp., the country's largest steel producer, was hit hardest, with six furnaces belonging to three subsidiaries down.

The other furnace banked was one of two operated by the Shenango Furnace Co. at Sharpsville, Pa.

"It seems to me unthinkable," Nelson said, "that any Americans, knowing the facts, would cut the life-blood of the all-important steel industry.

"I am not attempting in any way to pass upon the economics of the coal miners situation. I do wish to emphasize, however, that the needs of our country come first and that we are today in a situation in which, in the interest of our country, no man, no group and no class has a right to hamper war production."

Nelson said that the coal stoppage is affecting the production of benzol for aviation gasoline and synthetic rubber, and chemicals for explosives, plastics and medicines.

"In addition," Nelson said, "any drop in steel production would im-

Slaughterers Cut Output In Price War

Live Cattle Increase Creates Problem as Packers Meet Today

By Christine Sadler
Post Staff Writer

In their continued strike against OPA price policies, major beef slaughterrers of the country yesterday reduced their daily kill to 29,100 head or less than half of normal.

Livestock dealers with "animals piling up on the range" urged quick action to relieve them of a costly surplus, and in some States retail meat dealers were threatening to suspend business unless a greater quantity of meat were made available for sale.

Unless the price bottleneck is broken, the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association declared, the surplus animals on range at end of the year will total 15,400,000 head.

The War Meat Board, meeting in Chicago, reported increased pork production last week almost offset the reduction in other types of meat—but expressed concern over the fact the armed forces are unable to obtain their full requirements of beef.

Representatives of the Independent Meat Packers Association will open a meeting here today to decide "what the strategy will be" if the Government does not remove them from a price squeeze under which they contend they are losing 3 cents on each pound of beef put on the market.

These small packers, a spokesman said, have been caught in the squeeze between no ceiling on live animals and a set retail price for

See FOOD, Page 6, Column 3.

Slight Increases In Prices Promised

The Office of Price Administration yesterday promised food wholesalers and retailers a partial restoration of mark-ups on certain foods, reduced by OPA last month pending "further study."

While this would mean increases of 1 or 2 cents a can in retail prices of rice, pickles, relishes, and a few canned fruits and vegetables, no price would be permitted to go above that of April 8, when the President issued his "hold-the-line" order, OPA said.

Senate Passes $55,568,210 District Budget

Approval Unanimous; Goes to Conference On $775,776 Increase

By Mary Spargo
Post Staff Writer

Without debate the Senate unanimously passed a District appropriation bill for 1944 totaling $55,568,210 yesterday and sent it back to the House for conference so that it can become law before July 1, when the new fiscal year begins.

Addition of $775,776 by the Senate to the measure as it passed the House, and adoption of five amendments, with a motion that the Senate insist upon retaining them, necessitated the appointment of five Senate conferees, Senators O'Mahoney, Glass and McCarran, all Democrats, and Senators Nye and Holman, Republicans.

The amendments and the additional moneys provided in the bill were chiefly concerned with benefits to the children of the District.

$75,000 for Penny Milk

Senator O'Mahoney (Democrat) of Wyoming, chairman of the subcommittee on District appropriations, in an amendment proposed the appropriation of $75,000 for the continuation of the penny milk program for District school children. The sum includes the supervision of "Victory" gardens and the canning of products for use in school lunch programs.

Senator McCarran, chairman of the Senate District Committee, sponsored an amendment giving the District Commissioners permission to obtain the services of a psychiatrist, a psychologist and a nurse from the United States Public Health Service for a mental hygiene clinic for the Juvenile Court.

McCarran, who has been deeply interested in the problem of juvenile delinquency in the District, sponsored another amendment to authorize pupil guidance teachers in junior high and elementary

Strike Bill Speculation Raised by Settlement

Settling of the coal strike raised immediate speculation on what President Roosevelt would do with the Connally-Smith anti-strike bill, now on his desk.

He has until midnight Friday to sign or veto it, or allow it to become law without his signature. Observers pointed out that John L. Lewis' new deadline—October 31—might give the President a chance to veto the measure and then lay down the prescription for a more comprehensive measure which Congress could consider at leisure. Most presidential labor advisers favor a veto.

Union Insists U.S. Continue Operation Of Mines

Return to Work Expected Today or Tomorrow; Davis Sees WLB Victory

By Ben W. Gilbert
Post Staff Writer

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, last night called off the third general strike since May 1 with the reservation that the Government continue to operate the mines.

The action, taken by the U. M. W. policy committee, ordered work in the pits resumed until a deadline more than four months away—October 31.

Back-to-work orders were expected to go out today, providing for full resumption of coal operation tomorrow or Friday.

Appeal To Roosevelt

Earlier, the War Labor Board sent the case to the White House for presidential action with the request that all necessary governmental power be used to enforce the WLB directive turning down Lewis' demand for "portal to portal" pay.

The policy committee stated that "the custodian of the mines (Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes who has been Government operator of the mines since the May 1 strike) has assured that the minimum wages and conditions prevailing as of this date will be continued."

Presumably, this arrangement was made in the course of conferences held by Ickes and Lewis Monday and yesterday.

The policy committee statement made clear that Lewis had not abandoned his demand for "portal to portal" pay, although he was willing to work for the Government without it. Lewis was expressly authorized at his discretion to file "suits at law" or to use other means "to protect the equity of the membership in the matter of portal to portal compensation, both as to current and deferred liability."

It was assumed that Lewis would endeavor to use the threat of possible lawsuits or action before the Wage-Hour Division of the Department of Labor to pry an agreement on the portal-to-portal issue out of some of the coal operators. WLB's decision left room for such an agreement provided its terms are submitted to the board for final approval.

The demand for continued Government operation of the mines was phrased as follows:

Denounced by Operators

"This arrangement is predicated upon operation of the mines and their collateral production units by the United States Government, and will automatically terminate if Government control is vacated prior to the above-mentioned date."

A spokesman for the Northern and Southern groups of coal operators denounced the arrangement as "in direct violation" of the WLB directive.

"If the President permits the mines to be operated under the terms laid down by John L. Lewis, the main issue goes unresolved—nothing is settled. The present

No Individuals

Men on Troopship Only Units, Each Using Space 6x3x2 Feet

Writing from England, where he has just arrived on an assignment as a war correspondent for The Washington Post, John Steinbeck continues his description of life aboard a crowded troop transport.

By John Steinbeck

Somewhere in England, June 22.—The first morning on a troopship is a mess. The problem of feeding thousands of men in such close quarters is profound. There are two meals a day, spaced ten hours apart. Mess lines for breakfast form at 5 and continue until 10. Dinner lines start at 5 in the afternoon and continue until 10 at night. And during these times, the long, narrow corridors are lined with men, three abreast, carrying their field kits.

On the first day the system does not take effect. There are traffic jams and thin tempers. At 10 in the morning a miserable private in chemical warfare whines to a military policeman, who is keeping the lines shuffling along, "Please mister. Get me out of this line. I have had three breakfasts already. I ain't hungry no more. Every time I get out of one line, I get shoved into another one."

Men cannot be treated as individuals on this troopship. They are simply units, which take up 6 feet by 3 feet by 2 feet, horizontal or vertical. So much space must be allotted for the physical unit. They are engines which must be given fuel to keep them from stopping. The products of their combustion must be taken care of and eliminated. There is no way of considering them as individuals. The second and third day the method begins to work. The line flows smoothly and on time, but that first day is a mess.

The men are rested now and there is room to move about. They will not be able to have any exercise during this voyage. There are too many feet. The major impression on a troopship is of feet. A man can get his head out of the way and his arms, but lying or sitting, his feet are a problem. They sprawl in the aisles; they stick up at all angles. They are not protected, because they are the part of a man least likely to be hurt. To move about you must step among feet, must trip over feet.

There are big, misshapen feet; neat, small feet; shoes that are polished; curl-toed shoes; shoestrings knotted and snarled, and careful little bows. You can read character by the feet and shoes. There are perpetually tired feet and nervous, quick feet. To remember a troopship is to remember feet. At night on a blacked-out ship you must creep and feel your way among acres of feet.

The men begin to be restless now. It is hard to sit still and do nothing. Some have brought the little pocket books and others go to

Patterson Explains

Addition of 200,000 Workers Planned by War Department

Undersecretary of War Patterson told the Ramspeck Committee yesterday that his recent statement that the War Department was dropping 100,000 employes this year was "incomplete," and that next year the department planned to add 200,000 employes to perform added duties.

Patterson's "incomplete" statement so far has cost approximately 227 million dollars. When the House Appropriations Committee learned that 100,000 employes were to be dropped, they cut the War Department's budget by 127 million dollars. At about the same time the Public Buildings and Grounds Committee, learning that Patterson had told the Ramspeck Committee the War Department was nearing the end of its expansion, cut the building program for warworkers by 100 million dollars.

Patterson was called back yesterday before the House Civil Service Committee to explain why he had said the department was dropping 100,000 workers when at the same time he was telling the Appropriations Committee that the department would increase next year by 200,000 employees.

Patterson said that he was speaking of the next few months of this calendar year, before the Ramspeck Committee, but that he was discussing the fiscal year of

Diplomats Met Call Girls In Hotels, Vice Jury Is Told

Diplomats and businessmen were involved in the Government statement made yesterday in the trial of Carmen Beach Martin, on trial before Justice Matthew F. McGuire in District Court, charged in three indictments with violating the White Slave Act.

The Government charged that most of the woman's customers were members of the Latin-American Diplomatic Corps and that several attaches of Washington embassies were mentioned in the testimony that would be brought out at the trial.

The Government's star witness was Mrs. Dorothy Smitley, 22, of Arlington, Va., who, answering questions asked by Assistant United States Attorney Bernard Margolius, said that she first met Carmen Beach in September, 1941. She testified she went to the Beach apartment at 1322 Fifteenth Street Northwest, being taken there by a professional male dancer.

She told the court she was invited to take a job as a dressmaker in Carmen Beach's office in the Kresge Building, Eleventh and G Streets Northwest, and after working several days as a dressmaker, she was invited to get into the "big money."

Margolius said that she then moved into the Beach apartment and began to accept "call dates" to various prominent hotels.

The Smitley woman testified that during September and October of

Nazis Promise Italy Aid in Major Battle

London (Wednesday), June 23 (AP). The Germans, who so often left the Italians in the lurch in North Africa, tried today to bolster Italy's shaken morale by promising to help "in case of a decisive battle on Italian soil."

The assertion was made in a German broadcast recorded here by the British Ministry of Information amid fresh signs that the Nazis are reinforcing the Calabrian coast line with large numbers of troops and planes.

It came a day after a German press chief declared that "in this hour fraught with tension" the signs indicate an Allied offensive "directed primarily against Italy," but "of course the other Mediterranean coasts, especially the Balkans, must be watched, too."

Calling Troops Home

The Germans indicated in today's overseas broadcast that Mussolini was calling home all his troops policing occupied territory.

The broadcast said that "during the war only part of the Italians' arms have been reserved for the defense of Italy, but now all armed Italian forces are defending their mother country."

Erich Schneyder, editor in chief of the German news agency, Transocean, broadcast yesterday that "Italy is expecting invasion."

The Allied preparations for an assault, he asserted, included "a concentration of warships, especially in Gibraltar and Alexandria," fleets of landing craft, including tank-carriers, and troop concentrations, among them "strong parachute units" of British soldiers.

Doubt of Italy Attack

But all this, said Schneyder, betraying the anxiety haunting the Axis people, does not "guarantee" an attack against Italy. The plan, he said, might be simply to try for Sicily, Sardinia and Corsica, and not the Italian mainland, in order to clear the Mediterranean.

The Berlin correspondent of the Social Demokraten in Stockholm quoted the Nazi-dominated Bruesseler Zeitung as stating that "all conditions which favored the Axis before now favor the Allies."

The Bruesseler Zeitung added that "last month showed that the German must not only be a victory soldier but also a defensive soldier." The Axis armies in Tunisia collapsed last month.

Nazis' Reserve Air Army

At the German Frontier, June 22 (AP).—Reliable non-Nazi quarters reported today that Germany has a carefully guarded reserve air army for use as a defense against invasion wherever it may come.

These sources, who cannot be further identified, said this air army has been organized as an independent unit, and very probably includes at least two divisions, which would mean at least 1500 first line planes. It is in addition to those forces at present "in service"—one army on the Eastern Front, another in the west, and a third in the south, it was said.

R. A. F. bombers from the Middle East also started the scissors-like attacks on Reggio Calabria and San Giovanni. Then American Liberators of the Ninth United States Air Force swept in by daylight and rained nearly 275,000 pounds of high explosives and incendiaries on the same targets.

A Cairo communique said the American bombers shot down 20 of 40 enemy fighters which challenged them, destroyed a harbor mole at San Giovanni and capsized a ferry with a direct hit.

At Reggio Calabria bombs were dropped on the Mole area, ferry terminus, railway siding and station.

"Our formations met unusually heavy fighter opposition and underwent aerial bombardment," the Cairo communique said, indicating that enemy planes had renewed their tactics of attempting to drop bombs on the raiding planes from above.

Cairo dispatches said heavy fighter forces have been concentrated by the Axis in southern Italy to combat the nonstop Allied attacks on both sides of the Strait of Messina. They said yesterday's raiders encountered about 50 Messerschmitt 109s and 110s, Macchi 202s, Focke-Wulf 190s and Heinkel 113s.

War Sidelights

Red Warriors Get 60 U. S. Decorations

Moscow, June 22 (AP).—Sixty American Army and Navy decorations have been awarded to Russian soldiers and sailors for the first time in history. Ambassador William H. Standley made the presentation at a ceremony in the Kremlin today, with Foreign Commissar Molotov accepting the decorations on behalf of the Russian fighting men.

Twenty Distinguished Service Medals, 20 Distinguished Service Crosses, 10 Navy Distinguished Service Medals, and 10 Navy Crosses were presented, all for "combat service."

Recipients of the awards ranged from sergeant to colonel general and from sailor to vice admiral.

Brig. Gen. Joseph A. Michela, United States military attache, and Rear Admiral Jack Duncan, United States naval attache, attended.

In a brief speech, Standley said the medals were bestowed in recognition of outstanding achievements against a common enemy. Through the Russians thus decorated, he said, Americans "desire to pay tribute to all the armed forces and the civilian population of the Soviet Union."

He expressed the hope that from comradeship in arms would spring lasting collaboration.

Nazis Fear Belgians

New York, June 22 (AP).—Any Belgian who "dispenses medical treatment to members of the German army or administration, except in cases of extreme urgency" may be imprisoned at hard labor by provisions of a new security code instituted by Nazi occupation authorities in Belgium.

Although the code did not say so, it was presumed that the occupation authorities feared the results of any medical treatment administered by subjugated Belgians.

Leads Underground

London, June 22 (AP).—Marshal Edward Smigly-Rydz, who was commander in chief of the Polish army at the outbreak of the war, now is the leader of one of Poland's most effective underground groups, London newspapers reported today.

The Polish government-in-exile said that it was unable to confirm information published by the Telegraph and the Daily Herald. Smigly-Rydz last was reported in Rumania. A report in 1940 said he had escaped from an internment camp there.

Allies Repulse Big Jap Force On New Guinea

By C. Yates McDaniel
Associated Press Staff Writer

Allied Headquarters in Australia (Wednesday), June 23.—The largest Japanese force to be hurled against Allied lines on the ground front of New Guinea at Mubo was thrown back by Australian troops with American Air support Monday afternoon, leaving more than 100 dead or severely wounded.

Today's communique reported the enemy ground defeat in a sector 12 miles below Salamaua, where jungle fighters have faced each other without major activity for many weeks.

The ground action was presaged in yesterday's communique telling of strafing action over the area by planes of both sides.

"The attack was sharply repulsed with over 10 enemy casualties; our losses were light," a communique said. "Our attack planes executed close support with a bombing and strafing raid on enemy positions between Pimple Hill and Buigap Creek."

Four-engined bombers and long-range fighters attacked the Japanese seaplane base at Taberfane, Arol Islands, 500 miles north of Australia. Bombing results were obscured by unfavorable weather. Two enemy float planes were damaged at their moorings by low-level strafing.

Several float planes tried to intercept the raiders. One was shot down and four were damaged. The communique said we lost no planes.

More Warplanes Pledged Australia

Canberra, Australia, June 22 (AP). Prime Minister John M. Curtin declared tonight that President Roosevelt had promied Australia enough planes to increase the R. A. A. F.'s strength by 60 per cent.

Replying to a motion of nonconfidence offered by former Prime Minister Arthur W. Fadden, Curtin said External Affairs Minister H. V. Evatt had obtained the pledge in his recent visit to Washington.

Margaret Sanger's Husband Succumbs

Tucson, Ariz., June 22 (AP).—J. Noah H. Slee, 82, founder of the Three-in-One Oil Co. and husband of Margaret Sanger, birth-control crusader, died from a cerebral hemorrhage at his home last night. Slee came here from New York City in 1937 for his wife's health.

He is survived by his wife and three children by his first wife, Mary Roosevelt West: Capt. James N. Slee of Santa Ana, Calif.; Lincoln Slee and Mrs. Elizabeth Willis, both of Seattle, Wash.

HOW MANY OF THESE QUESTIONS CAN YOU ANSWER?

1. What is the most widely read book ever written? (No, it's not the Bible!)
2. Among what people is suicide practically unknown?
3. What single numeral made the modern science of calculation possible?
4. If you saw a man pick up a piece of paper from the street and tuck it carefully into a hole in a wall, would you know why?
5. What name is given to more male children than any other in the world?
6. What alphabet, next to the Latin, is the most widely used system in the world?
7. Where is bread a luxury?
8. The people of what land have successfully resisted all invaders and have remained virtually the same throughout all recorded history?
9. What religion is the triumph of a language and a book?
10. What people contributed most to human progress in the Middle Ages?

THE Arabs
A SHORT HISTORY FOR AMERICANS
by Philip K. Hitti

Now that our soldiers are stationed throughout the Arab world—in North Africa, Egypt, Syria, Iran, Iraq—it is important that we know something about the people who live there. The author of this book is the world's leading historian of the Arabs. He presents here one of the truly magnificent panoramas of history—the rise and greatness of Islam. It is a story of bloodshed, intrigue and splendor . . . a story more wonderful than any tale from the Arabian Nights. $2.00 mated 2000 tons of bombs were dropped, raining down at one time at the rate of five two-ton blockbusters, or 20,000 pounds of bombs every minute. Nazi ground defenses were "soon overwhelmed."

U. S. Fortresses Fire Nazi Rubber Town; 700 R. A. F. Planes Blast Steel Works

Raids Take Heaviest Toll

But the raids took a heavy toll—20 United States bombers and 4 fighters Tuesday, and 44 British bombers and 1 fighter Monday night.

The double blows into the Ruhr gave a new indication of close British-American air cooperation.

The sudden employment of United States bombers in an area heretofore pounded only by the British—plus the sudden British pounce against Le Creusot which had been an American bunting ground—hinted at a strategy to keep the Germans guessing about where to concentrate their limited day and night fighter forces.

Smoke from fires set at Huls rose 6000 feet as tons of explosives were dumped upon the rubber plant, returning airmen said.

The Air Ministry said the attack on Rotterdam was a diversion to draw German fighters away from the Fortresses as the Americans were about to go into Germany unescorted.

Fighters Beaten Off

When the Fortresses were coming back, more squadrons of Spitfires and Typhoons met them with split-second precision at a rendezvous, beating off formations of German fighters which followed the bombers across Holland.

A United States communique said, "Bombing results were good and fires were started in both targets." "A considerable number" of enemy fighters were reported destroyed and seven German planes were destroyed by Allied P-47s.

Aviation circles here listed today's attack by United States bombers as their first upon the strategic Ruhr area. An assault by Flying Fortresses on March 4 upon Hamm, junction of six German trunk railways, was not regarded as a Ruhr raid, since Hamm lies northeast of the Ruhr-Rhine triangle.

These day-and-night attacks upon the Ruhr, a fountainhead of German war might, added new havoc to the destruction of German industries and cities already described by the Air Ministry as "greater than anything known in any country."

The Ruhr area supplies Germany with three-fourths of her coal, four-fifths of her coke and two-thirds of her iron and steel.

Krefeld, hit by the R. A. F., is 4 miles west of the Rhine, a city of 170,000 peacetime population that is the site of heavy steel industries, coal mines and chemical works. Special steel is vital in war machines are made in Krefeld. 13 miles northwest of Duesseldorf.

Returning fliers said that tremendous fires were left raging, with Krefeld's glow visible from the Netherlands coast, and that one stupendous explosion lasted six seconds.

One airman described the blazes as the "the biggest concentration I have ever seen."

The 44 big bombers lost over Krefeld were the highest toll suffered by the R. A. F. so far this year.

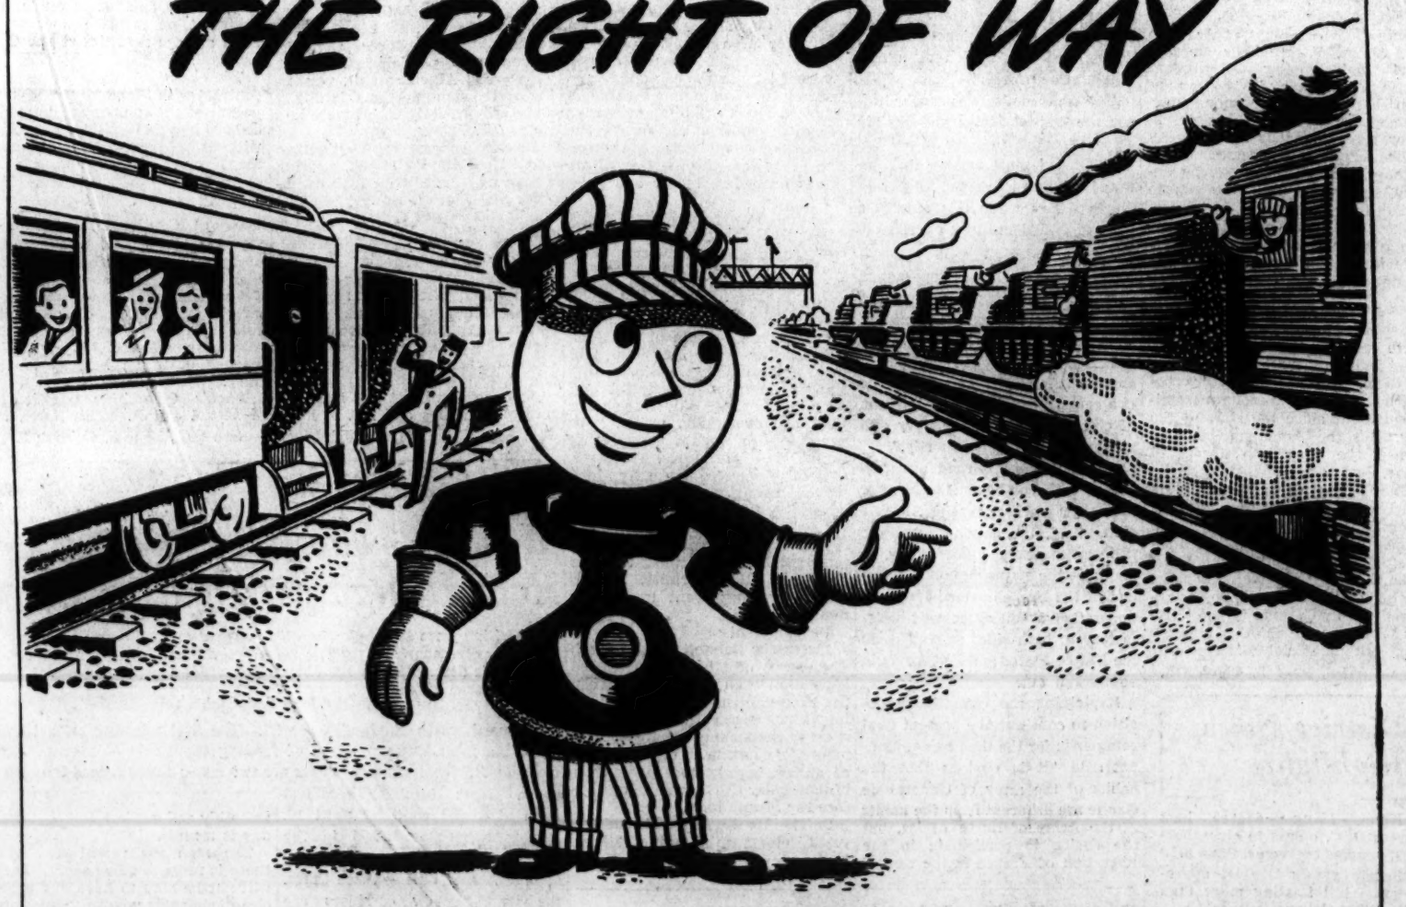
THE RIGHT OF WAY



Maybe you've waited on a siding while a troop train, or fast freight loaded with munitions roared past. And you said, "Sure—that's right. We've got a war to win!"

Like the railroads, Long Distance telephone lines today are carrying a vastly increased load of wartime traffic . . . and the congestion can't be relieved by adding equipment because the needed materials are going to the front.

You'll help give vital war calls the right of way if you'll remember these three things:

Make only really urgent Long Distance calls.

Especially avoid calling the congested centers busy with the war.

Be as brief as you can.

Troops Patrol Detroit Streets: 29 Now Dead

By the Associated Press

Detroit, June 22.—Under orders to "load your guns and don't take anything from anybody," Army troops patrolled Detroit streets today, restoring calm to this great armament producing center after 29 hours of racial conflict that brought death to 24 persons and injuries of varying degree to at least 700 others.

All but three of the dead were Negroes. Of the injured, 74 remained in hospitals today, 6 of them policemen.

An estimated 1300 persons were under arrest. Police officials said that about 85 per cent of them were Negroes averaging in age around 21. Most of them were held in specially established prisons guarded by Michigan State troops.

Police reported sporadic outbreaks in various areas tonight, but they were quelled quickly. Few persons were on downtown streets.

In one area, police reported several shots were fired as a mob of white youths chased three Negroes through a park. The Negroes escaped. Police had no reports of any persons injured up to the 10 p. m. curfew time.

Thousands of Negro factory workers, said to be fearful of renewed outbreaks, stayed away from work, an Officer of War Information survey indicated Negro factory absenteeism today ranged from 50 to 90 per cent. The effect upon war goods production, plant spokesmen said, probably would not be apparent until tomorrow.

Canceled were today's Cleveland-Detroit baseball game and the day's horse racing program at the Michigan State Fair Grounds. Theaters were permitted to remain open only until 9:15 p. m. (Eastern War Time) and a curfew ordering all persons off the streets from 10 p. m. until 6 a. m. also continued in effect.

Gov. Harry F. Kelly, who invoked these restrictions, announced after a conference with Army officers that the troops would stay in the Detroit area indefinitely.

In Recorder's Court today 31 men and three women, all Negroes convicted of disturbing the peace in yesterday's rioting, were sentenced to 90-day terms in the Detroit House of Correction.

Main Thoroughfares Patroled

Sent into the area under a proclamation of President Roosevelt that took note of "unlawful and insurrectionary proceedings," the troops in trucks and jeeps from which protruded muzzles of rifles and machine guns, patrolled the main streets and yesterday's battle sectors.

Yesterday those streets and the outlying sectors were the seenes of savage hand-to-hand conflict between whites and Negroes.

The troops were enforcing a limited form of military control. There were more than 1000 of them on duty, with as many more held in reserve in nearby Army posts.

Governor Kelly's state-of-emergency order covered Wayne County (Detroit) and adjoining Oakland and Macomb Counties, where many of the larger armament factories are located.

The Army forces were under command of Brig. Gen. William E. Guthner of the Sixth Service Command. He explained that martial law had not been proclaimed. The President's proclamation, he said, "gave Federal assistance to the state of emergency." This form leaves the military subordinate to the civil authority.

Most of the debris of yesterday's rioting in the downtown area—overturned and burned automobiles, shattered glass from smashed store fronts—had been cleared away today.

Police Lieut. Albert Hartsig, who toured the upper East Side Negro area, told of signs on some houses reading: "This is a colored home; do not break in." These homes, Hartsig said, were untouched, while others which bore no placards were wrecked and plundered.

At another point in the Negro section, police halted a Negro driving an automobile from the radiator of which flew a white flag. "That flag means I'm neutral," the driver explained.

The officers said they found a revolver inside his shirt and booked him on a concealed weapons charge.

What led up to yesterday's clash still was debated today. A group of prominent Negro citizens, in a statement urging Negroes to refrain from spreading inflammatory rumors and to pursue normal activities, charged it was fifth-column inspired.

John S. Bugas, head of the Detroit office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said he had no evidence that the riot was in any way planned or organized and that he did not believe any foreign power or Axis propaganda had any connection with it.

Knox Sees Little Chance of Russo-Jap War Now

By John G. Norris
Post Staff Writer

Secretary Frank Knox said yesterday that there seemed little chance that Japan would attack Russia or that the Soviets will enter the war against Nippon in the near future.

The Navy chief expressed this view at a press conference after stating that Allied preparations for an invasion of Europe are "going forward."

The latter statement was made in response to a request for comment on new Russian insistence on a "second front" against Germany.

Knox said that naturally he couldn't talk about operations specifically as to time and place but added that "There is no cessation in the activities."

His comment on Russian-Japanese relations was in reply to questioning about the supply route from our West Coast to Vladivostok: Has Japan ever hindered or halted the movement of lend-lease shipments to the Soviets over this route, which moves through Japanese-dominated waters?

The Navy Secretary said he didn't know whether or not Japan was stopping ships bound for Siberia and searching them. However, the supply line is "functioning," he made plain. In no case that he knows of, Knox said, has Japan seized any ships plying between the United States and Vladivostok.

He recalled that once, "a long time ago," Japan sank a Russian ship and "tried to blame it on us," but said that nothing of the sort had occurred lately.

"Then nothing has occurred which might provoke an international incident," a reporter observed.

"No," replied Secretary Knox. "And you can add to that with entire truth that both sides apparently are keeping very carefully away from anything that would precipitate an incident.

"Russia doesn't want an involvement out there while she has a German enemy engaged on the west. And Japan doesn't want to take on Russia at present."

Discussing the naval aviation program, Knox told reporters that by December the Navy will have "several times as many" aircraft carriers in service as at the beginning of the war. "We then had eight—seven regular carriers and a converted merchantman—forerunner of many other such "auxiliary carriers."

This indicates that we will have upward of 24 carriers of all types operating then. "Plenty" of planes are being turned out for the new craft, while the pilot training program is coming along "very satisfactorily" and in balance with plane procurement, Knox said.

The Navy chief scoffed at Jap claims that their planes were "very effective" against our Pacific supply lines. Our losses in this respect have been "negligible," he said, and all have been announced.

Later, the Navy reported some additional air action in the South Pacific. Three Navy Wildcat fighters shot down an enemy Mitsubishi bomber north of Florida Island Sunday. It apparently was on a reconnaissance mission.

Sunday evening, Army Liberators bombed the Jap bases at Kieta, Bougainville Island, and at Kahili, near Buin, in the northeast Solomons. Results were not observed. The next day Navy Dauntless dive-bombers, Avenger torpedo bombers and Wildcat fighters attacked the enemy base at Munda, in the middle Solomons. Several anti-aircraft batteries were silenced.

Two Maryland Men Enemy Prisoners

Two Maryland men were among 180 United States soldiers reported held prisoners of war by the enemy, the War Department announced yesterday. The list included 83 held by Germany and 97 by Japan.

Staff Sergt. Ralph C. Tarr of Salisbury is held by Germany, Pvt. Robert L. Morris of Frederick is interned by the Japanese.

Sabotage Charged to Makers of Bombs and Grenades for U. S.

J. Edgar Hoover, FBI director, announced yesterday that seven persons had been arrested at Rochester, N. Y., on charges of sabotage in connection with allegedly faulty manufacture of incendiary bombs and hand grenades for the United States armed forces and their allies at the Antonelli Fireworks Co., Inc., Spencerport, N. Y.

Hoover said that those arrested were charged with "wilfully failing to properly load the powder charge in the bombs and grenades," and it was alleged that there were attempts made also to pass material previously rejected by the Army inspectors.

He named these as having been arrested:

Amerigo Antonelli, 52, a native of Italy, who became a naturalized citizen of this country, president and treasurer of the company; Bennie Piteo, 31, a native of Rochester, a foreman; John Deritis, 28, a native of Rochester, plant superintendent; Joseph Deritis, 30, born at Lattimer Mines, Pa., a plant superintendent; Dominick Barbollo, 29, a native of Saratoga, N. Y., a foreman; Angelo Costanza, 34, a native of Italy, a foreman, and Frank Bianchi, 31, born in Rochester, a foreman.

The company, which has been in the fireworks business since 1919, and engaged in Government work since April, 1942, has contracts with the Army Chemical Warfare Service for the manufacture of several million bombs and grenades, Hoover said.

The allegedly illegal practices were continued despite warnings by Government officials, he said in a statement, adding that "employes of the company admitted they were instructed by some of the persons arrested to load the munitions properly only when under the direct observation of Government inspectors."

The seven men were to be arraigned before a Federal judge at Rochester under a charge which carries a maximum penalty of 30 years in prison and $10,000 fine.

Lewis Halts Coal Strike Until Oct. 31

strike is merely postponed. The main question now is—can Mr. Lewis continue to defy the sole agency designated by the United States Government to make final determination in labor disputes."

Davis' Interpretation

WLB Chairman William H. Davis issued the following interpretation of the Lewis action:

"We take Mr. Lewis' statement to mean that the production of coal will be resumed under the conditions ordered by the War Labor Board, and I think that is all the country is interested in. It appears that the new deadline is Halloween when pumpkins frighten children."

Public Member Wayne L. Morse, compliance officer of the board, declined to comment.

Representativve Wadsworth (Republican) of New York viewed the arrangement as "just another postponement of settlement of the fundamental issue: Is the Government as representative of the whole people in time of war superior to John L. Lewis? That issue had better be settled, and the sooner the better."

Lewis told reporters that the action was based on the Sunday night announcement of the miners' readiness to "make any necessary sacrifice" to work for the Government.

In Utmost Good Faith

"The mine workers are going to work for their Government and not for the coal operators," Lewis said. "They do so in the utmost good faith in hope that their Government will treat them with the same good faith."

Ickes authorized the following statement:

"The mine workers understand that my job is solely to produce the coal necessary for war purposes and to heat American homes this winter. To do this will require the utmost cooperation of the mine workers and of the entire coal industry. I feel sure that this cooperation will be given."

Wage Scale Undisturbed

The hectic course of the coal dispute has found Lewis in repeated efforts to pry wage concessions out of Ickes which he could not obtain from the War Labor Board. This arrangement leaves existing wage conditions undisturbed.

WLB Letter Made Public

The board reported the coal situation to the President in a letter which the White House made public.

Mine operation by Ickes since May 1 has been nominal with actual operation in the hands of the owners. It was believed that Ickes now would exercise closer supervision over the mines, but it was said that nationalization of the pits or permanent Government operation was not contemplated.

Adolph Pacifico, vice president of District 6 of the U. M. W., declared in Bellaire, Ohio, that, "It will be hard to get many of our men to go back to work."

"I never saw a group of men so dissatisfied with the way the Administration has kicked our contract around," Pacifico said.

Sees Compliance

However, William Hargest, secretary-treasurer of District 5, at Pittsburgh, said:

"The men will carry out the advice of their international policy committee, no doubt about that. Of course they won't get the word in time to return tomorrow (Wednesday) but I expect they can start back by Thursday."

The text of the board's letter to the President follows:

"June 22, 1943.

"Dear Mr. President:

"On June 18, the National War Labor Board issued its order in the bituminous coal case directing the parties to enter into agreements based on the old Appalachian agreements with certain special wage adjustments within the stabilization program.

"We have received from the operator groups a telegram of June 19 in which they accept the order of the board and offer to put it into effect. We have also received from them a second telegram in which they say they have met with the United Mine Workers on June 19 and 20, but have not been able to reach any conclusion 'due to the fact that the United Mine Workers of America are unwilling to make a contract until their claim for pay for portal to portal travel time is satisfied.' We have not received any communication from the United Mine Workers.

"As you know, the refusal of the Mine Workers to accept the order of the board was followed on Monday by interruption of production in the coal mines, which in accordance with your executive order of May 1, 1943, are now in the possession of the Secretary of the Interior for operation.

"Although the War Labor Board was not unanimous in voting for the directive order of June 18, it is unanimous in advising you that in its opinion the directive order should be enforced and that all the powers of Government necessary for its enforcement shall be exercised.

"A copy of our directive order of June 18, together with the telegrams above referred to, are forwarded to you herewith.

"Respectfully,

"WILLIAM H. DAVIS,
"Chairman."

P. S. Ballou, 42, assistant general manager of Greyline Sight Seeing Co., died yesterday at his residence, 2828 North First Road, Arlington, Va., after a long illness.

Funeral services will be held at Ive's funeral home at 3 p. m. tomorrow in Chestnut Grove Cemetery.

Mr. Ballou was a member of the Board of Trade and an associate member of the Hotel Greeters Association. He is survived by his wife, his daughter, Evelyne, and his mother, Mrs. Eva Starr Ballou, all of Arlington.

Strike's End Saves Drive to Increase Steel Production

mediately affect our essential civilian economy. A prolonged lack of steel would hit the railroads, the production of vital repair parts for trucks and buses, the production of vital repair parts for trucks and buses, the production of farm machinery and other items of equal importance."

Plan Drive for More Steel

Nelson said that he and Executive Vice Chairman Charles E. Wilson had planned to open a campaign for more steel in the country's steel-producing centers.

The coal stoppage may make the drive impossible, he said.

"We therefore face the prospect that instead of getting a greatly needed increase in steel production we may get a sharp decrease. This would come at one of the most critical moments in our war-production effort. We vitally need every ton of steel we can get for our war programs—both for our own boys, fighting an enemy who allows neither strikes nor anything else to hamper his own war production, and to fill our obligations to our Allies, who are fighting the same enemy.

OPA May Cut Down Payments In Sale of Rented Property

By the Associated Press

Paul A. Porter, rent control administrator, told a House committee yesterday consideration was being given by the Office of Price Administration to a reduction in the down payment required for sale of rented property in rent control areas.

In view of the passing of the high tide of inmigration into defense areas, Porter testified it was probable that a reduction of the present 33 1-3 per cent down payment requirement to 20 per cent would not unduly upset the stabilization program.

He emphasized, however, that any reduction must be watched carefully to prevent transfers intended to "evade or circumvent" the purposes of the rent control program.

Porter agreed that the existing 33 1-3 down payment requirement "cut across" standards of other Government agencies, mentioning specifically the Home Owners Loan Corporation's standard of 10 per cent, but he contended the OPA practice as necessary to prevent evasion of rent control.

(The Rent Control Administration was created to prevent inflationary rents in crowded defense areas.)

Irving G. McCann, counsel for the committee headed by Representative Smith (Democrat) of Virginia said that maximum rents fixed for Oklahoma City froze the rent levels there at 90.38 per cent of rents in effect in 1939.

Asked whether he considered such a situation "fair and equitable," Porter replied that "the OPA has so determined."

Denying testimony of complainants before the committee that the tenant always was favored in rent adjustment cases, Porter said that of about 500,000 complaints and petitions filed by landlords, about 90 per cent had been acted on and 173,000 had been given relief by upward adjustment of rents.

Banking Committee's 500 million dollar CCC loan bill, also carrying a comprehensive subsidy restriction. The rule provides three hours' House debate on the measure, starting tomorrow.

3. Representative Everett Dirksen (Republican) of Illinois, leader of last week's revolt against OPA, said he will offer a tightened amendment to seal the House action against subsidies.

While Administration leaders battled to retain at least limited subsidy authority, Chairman Hampton P. Fulmer of the House Agriculture Committee revived demands for appointment of a food "czar."

Fulmer told reporters his committee will report out today a bill transferring OPA food price and rationing authority to War Food Administrator Chester Davis.

The food "czar" bill has steadily lost strength since the President and War Mobilizer Byrnes opposed the shift, but Fulmer claimed sufficient votes to report it. House floor action may be delayed until after the midsummer recess.

Australia Faces Food Shortage

New York, June 22 (AP).—Albert Badman, member of the Australian parliament, said today Australia faced a serious shortage of food for the same reason that he claimed the United States faced one—"short-sighted policy in dealing with war manpower problems."

"If the war lasts another two years," he said at a press conference, "both the United States and Australia will be forced to release men from the armed forces to return to work on the land and in industrial production."

Condemnation Suit to Gain Full Control of Elk Hills Oil Hinted by Knox

torney in Knox's office, developed these salient points:

1. That while final disposition of the contract is being held up pending a formal opinion from the Attorney General, Standard is continuing production in the field and that the Navy, therefore, is compelled to keep its wells running to prevent Standard's operations from draining from Navy reserves.

"The Navy can't do anything about that," stated Kane, who later told reporters that oil was being drawn from the field at the rate of 15,000 barrels a day, the maximum production allowed under the contract.

2. That the contract was ordered rescinded by Office of War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes, in the absence of the President, who had approved it last November 18, and by the Acting Attorney General.

3. That questions of such major importance as the Elk Hills deal, with its background of public scandal, customarily are referred to the Justice Department for review.

"I would have thought it would have been quite natural for the Navy to have referred this to us," said Littell after suggesting that the committee ask the Navy to explain why the Standard contract was not submitted to the Justice Department.

The Assistant Attorney General took pains to emphasize his belief that the Navy Department acted in "perfectly good faith." Asked specifically for his opinion about the possibility of collusion in the department, Littrell's reply was a positive "No," as to the principals." He mentioned, in this connection, Secretary Knox and the chief negotiator for the Navy, Rear Admiral H. A. Stuart.

He was asked if he felt the same way about the Standard Oil Co. He refused to make a direct answer, but finally stated:

"The answer is that I don't know what the motives were. I might have some ideas."

America's might puts to sea...

BEFORE the might of American war production can be felt, it must be moved across many seas . . . to far-off battlefields where it will spell the difference between victory and defeat.

The American Merchant Marine is performing this heroic task—brilliantly. Compare its accomplishments in this war with its wonderful record in the last one. Six times as much freight, for the Army alone. Distances as great as 14,000 miles, instead of the maximum of 3500 last time. Ports that are frequently small, poorly equipped, on hostile shores . . . compared to the safe, well-organized harbors of World War I.

All this despite ferocious opposition . . . despite the acute need for more ships, more men. How is it possible? Because of efficient supervision by the Maritime Commission and the War Shipping Administration. Because of experienced direction by the shore staffs. Because of the greatly improved ships. And because of the courage, the skill and the will of the men who man them.

This is our Merchant Marine at war . . . getting the supplies where they are needed—when they are needed . . . writing a glorious record in the annals of man's fight for freedom.

First Day's Chaos on Troopship Quickly Replaced by Order

the ship's library and get books. Detective stories and short stories. They take what they can get. But there are many men who do not consider reading a matter of pleasure and these must find some other outlet for their interests.

Parchesi Popular Game

Several months ago Services of Supply in reporting the items supplied to the soldier's exchanges, included several hundreds of thousands of sets of dice, explaining that parchesi was becoming increasingly popular in the Army. Those who remember parchesi as a rather dumpy game may not believe this if they have not seen it, but it is so. The game has been streamlined to a certain extent but there is no doubt of its popularity. The board, with its string pockets has disappeared in the interest of space. Parchesi is now played on an Army blanket.

It is a spirited, healthy game, and it seems to hold the attention of the players. Some tournaments of parchesi continue for days. One, indeed, never stopped during the whole crossing. Another game which is very popular in the Army is casino. Its most common forms are stud casino and five-card draw casino. It is gratifying to see that our new Army has gone back to the old-fashioned virtues our forefathers lied about.

The ship is very heavily armed. From every point of observation the guns protrude. This troopship could fight her way through considerable opposition. On the decks, in addition to the lifeboats, are hundreds of life rafts ready to be thrown into the sea. These boats and rafts are equipped with food and water and medicine and even fishing tackle.

Now the men who slept on the decks last night move inside, as the inside men move out. The wind is fresh. The soldiers take out the shelter halves and begin to build ingenious shelters. Some erect single little covers between stanchions and rails, while others pooling their canvas, are able to make windproof caves among the life rafts. In these they settle down to read or to play parchesi or casino. The sea is calm and that is good, for great numbers of the men have never been on any kind of boat. A little rough weather will make them seasick and then there will be an added problem for the worried and tired permanent force on the boat.

Many Delicate Problems

The decks cannot be flushed for there is no place for the men to go while it is being done. There are many delicate problems on such a ship. If another ship should be sighted, the men must not crowd to one side, for that would throw too great a weight on one side of the ship and might even endanger her. Our cargo is men and it must be shifted with care.

Every day there is boat drill. The alarm sounds and after the first day of pandemonium, the men go quietly to their stations. There are so many problems to be faced on a troopship.

several weeks. The subsidy and rollback of recent days were but an added last straw, he declared.

Linked with the meat situation was the even more critical feed problem, especially with relation to corn.

Ezra T. Benson, executive secretary of the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives, yesterday charged the Administration with "playing politics with food production by blindly refusing to adjust corn price ceilings to permit normal flow of corn into feed-deficit areas where dairy and poultry farmers are being liquidated by inability to get feed."

Cooperatives on the East Coast already are beginning to ration their customers to 65 per cent of the fed they bought last year, although the Department of Agriculture has called for an increase in milk production.

Although War Food Administrator Chester Davis several weeks ago threatened to requisition corn unless the supply in the Middle West started moving to market, it is not believed this will be attempted—especially since recent floods have given farmers an additional reason for hanging on to their surplus until they see what this year's crops will be like.

A special feed-grain-livestock committee is in session at the Department of Agriculture this week, and some method of persuading growers with surplus to share with the depleted areas possibly will be worked out.

WPB Acts to Aid Home Canning

As an encouragement to home preservation of fruits and vegetables, the War Production Board yesterday approved a plan for producing 100,000 domestic food dehydrators before September 1.

Such a program has been urgently requested by the War Food Administration as needed in the war food effort.

War Department Plans to Add 200,000

1944 in his testimony before the Appropriations Committee.

He said that the department expected new activities in the coming fiscal year. Asked what new activities were expected, he said that although the United States has only a few Axis prisoners now, the number might increase to 500,000 next year. He said caring for those prisoners and scores of other duties which might be added would necessitate the increase.

Chairman Ramspeck (Democrat) of Georgia flatly charged the management of the War Department was confused.

"This indicates to me," he asserted, "that the management of the War Department is confused by its own situation and conflicting testimony of its own witnesses. Of course, it was not intentional. It is a lack of over-all management. Perhaps they did not inform you that the Budget Bureau had made this request for the additional 200,000 workers for the coming fiscal year."

Patterson denied the management was confused, and stressed the fact that he had merely not thought to tell the committee about next year's plans.

He said the War Department now has 1,300,000 civilian workers.

"We have conducted studies and they resulted in the conclusion that the present work load could be handled by 1,200,000 workers."

He emphasized that this was only during the current year, however, and not next year, when greatly increased duties are anticipated.

Apple "Honey" helps keep Old Golds

NEW MOISTENING AGENT
We're using a new moistening agent to protect the freshness of the famous Old Gold blend—Apple "Honey"! It guards the natural moisture tobaccos need to help keep them fresh and flavorful—replaces glycerine, gone to the battle fronts—tends to keep Old Golds pliable and moist on their way to you.

WE CALL IT APPLE "HONEY"
This new moistening agent—extracted from the juice of fresh apples—was developed originally by scientists in the Eastern Regional Research Laboratory of the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture. It's a smooth, golden, tasteless liquid—looks so much like honey we named it Apple "Honey."

PROTECTS OLD GOLD FRESHNESS
Old Gold tobaccos are sprayed with Apple "Honey" until every shred is reached—the precious natural moisture well protected so that you may enjoy a fresher smoke. We think it's finer, in many ways, than glycerine. But mind you—there's no change in taste! Apple "Honey" is not a flavoring.

SAME FINE TOBACCOS, SAME DELICIOUS FLAVOR

Diplomats Are Named In Vice Trial

1942 she had numerous room appointments with a Mr. Salazar in the Mayflower Hotel.

On an appointment at the Wardman Park Hotel, Mrs. Smitley testified, she had a date with a Chinese. She said she was sent there by Carmen Beach and had some trouble in finding the room. She added, in her testimony, that she was not sure how much money she received from the man but that Carmen Beach gave her $5 on her return to the Beach apartment.

A half-dozen Washington hotels were named in the list of places visited by the Smitley woman. She told the court her appointments would average four or five a day. At one point in the proceedings she testified that she had entertained a group of South American fliers at the Burlington Hotel.

Carmen Beach's defense counsel, Harry Whelan, said yesterday that the woman had fainted shortly after the ending of the day's proceedings and that her husband was there to take his distraught wife home.

The trial will be resumed this morning with additional witnesses expected to be called.

Dr. H. B. Wooding Named Moderator By Presbyterians

Frederick, Md., June 22 (AP).—Dr. Henry B. Wooding, pastor of Eckington Presbyterian Church, Washington, was elected moderator of the Baltimore synod today by delegates to the eighteenth annual synod conference convening at Hood College.

The organization embraces Presbyterian Churches in Washington, Baltimore and Newcastle, Del. Dr. Wooding will succeed Dr. Elliott Field of Dover, Del.

Burr Williams, a layman of Chevy Chase church, was named vice moderator.

The Rev. A. Brown Caldwell, minister of Walbrook Presbyterian Church, Baltimore, was chosen as stated clerk to fill the vacancy created by the resigantion of the Rev. George M. Cummings, Washington, who held the post 23 years.

Lieutenant Pitts, Formerly of D. C., Missing In Action

Lieut. Marc F. Pitts, 20, former Washingtonian, stationed with the U. S. Army Air Forces in Great Britain, has been missing in action since June 13, his parents have been notified. The youth, who participated in many sorties over Germany, is the son of Frederic Pitts, of the staff of the Wilmington (Del.) News Journal, who was formerly Sunday editor for The Washington Post, and Alice Fox Pitts, a former employe in The Post Women's Department who currently is assistant to the secretary of the American Association of News Editors.

A graduate of the Sherwood School in Sandy Spring, Md., Pitts attended the University of Delaware before joining the Air Force two years ago. He is a native of Buffalo, N. Y.

Roosevelt to Get Plea for Stephan

Nicholas Salowich, attorney for Max Stephan, convicted traitor, sought desperately last night to obtain a personal audience with President Roosevelt—the one person now who can save Stephan from hanging July 2.

Earlier yesterday, the Sixth United States Circuit Court of Appeals at Cincinnati had denied Stephan a new trial, holding that "there is no reversible error on the record."

Senate Unanimously Passes $55,568,210 District Budget schools, a program hitherto confined to senior high schools.

O'Mahoney introduced an amendment to permit the Board of Education to assign to the acting superintendent of schools the salary scheduled for the superintendent during the time the superintendent is on lave of absence without pay. Because of his health, Dr. Frank Ballou, superintendent, is on leave with pay until June 30, but has been granted a six months' leave without pay to recover his health.

The fifth amendment, sponsored by McCarran, allows the District Commissioners to settle the claim of the District against the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Co., growing out of construction of the Franklin Street Bridge and approaches and the Eastern Avenue Bridge and approaches for $43,279.28. The original claim, which dated back to 1901, totaled $60,861.19.

The Senate subcommittee, in its report, recommended the retention of the housekeeping aide service, putting it under the District Health Department, and appropriating $38,745 for its operation.

Health Engineer Provided

The Senate also recommended the employment of a Health Department sanitary engineer to coordinate all inspection services, allotting the position a salary of $5600.

The sum of $21,120 was appropriated to convert Henry Street School as a health center and maintain it.

The committee also appropriated $79,358 for the Recreation Department to provide playground directors and maintenance for 14 recreational areas developed under the Lanham Act.

For Gallinger Hospital physicians, the committee recommended raises and changes in titles. Titles of each of the six resident physicians were changed to chief medical officers and their salaries increased from $5600 to $6000. Each of two associate medical officers were boosted from $3200 to $3500. Provision was made for an assistant superintendent at a salary of $5600.

Reporting that the added strain of the times demanded special precautions to combat juvenile delinquency, the committee appropriated $11,840 to increase the Board of Public Welfare's staff. The appropriation provides for three case workers, one supervisor and two clerks.

The sum of $82,000 was appropriated for acquisition of a site in Maryland and construction of a new National Training School for Girls. The sum of $15,000 was appropriated to repair the Industrial Home School on Loughborough Road Northwest. Holman, a member of the Appropriations subcommittee, was delegated to keep close check of the developments.

The committee recommended the employment of two occupational therapists for Blue Plains, each to be paid $1800.

For public assistance the total sum recommended, with reappropriations, was $511,740. The Senate concurred with the House in lifting relief ceilings, but specified that a ceiling should be put on the amount permitted for personnel. The ceiling is $73,170, added so that the appropriation will go chiefly to the needy.

The Senate added $455,000 for District street cleaning and collection of refuse.

Concurring in the House recommendation for a people's counsel before the Public Utilities Commission, the Senate added an appropriation of $2500 for secretarial service.

Four senior audit clerks were given to the Auditor's Office to help with the making out of pay-as-you-go taxes.

An inspector was authorized for the Minimum Wage Safety Board.

The committee added 40 additional clerks for elementary schools to assist in making out records.

Additional personnel was authorized for the Public Utilities Commission at a cost of $12,000.

Dr. A. G. Martin, 68, Dies At Home Here

Dr. George C. Martin, 68, 3126 Thirty-eighth Street Northwest, died yesterday at his home after a long illness. He was executive secretary of the United States Board on Geographic Names. Dr. Martin had been consultant oil geologist in the United States and Mexico since 1924.

He is survived by one son, William E., at present in Peru for the Department of Agriculture, and a daughter, Louise. Funeral services will be announced later.

Let peanut butter be the home front standby

It's time we realized the importance of peanut butter as a nutritious food, and not as a delicious snack food. Its flavor is only one of the things in favor of peanut butter. It is a protein food and that means that it can take the place of meat on the menu. It is a food high in energy value, the kind of food that gives that power needed for heavy work. As for minerals and vitamins, peanut butter scores high. It is particularly high in some of those all-important B vitamins. Let it be your standby food when the menu needs building up in flavor and heartiness. Here are just a few of the many ways you can put peanut butter to work in a nutritional way

PEANUT BUTTER CUTLETS · Combine 1 cup hot medium thick white sauce and ½ cup peanut butter. Add 1 well-beaten egg and mix well. Add 2 cups soft bread crumbs and seasonings and mix well. Form into cutlets or patties, dip in beaten egg, then cracker crumbs and fry until well browned. Serve with cheese sauce.

PEANUT BUTTER IN SOUPS—Add 2 or 3 tbsps. peanut butter to cream soups for additional nourishment and tempting new flavor.

PEANUT BUTTER SAUCE—Blend in 1 to 2 tbsps. peanut butter into white sauce, tomato sauce and gravies. It adds extra richness and intriguing nutty goodness.

DESSERT SAUCE — Blend together 5 tbsps. peanut butter and 1 cup powdered sugar, then add well-beaten egg yolk and ¼ cup lemon juice or some other fruit juice. Just before serving, fold in stiffly beaten egg white. Serve on fruit, pudding, custard or cake.

PEANUT BUTTER PUDDING — Mix ¼ cup of cornstarch with a dash of salt and 1 tbsp. sugar, and ½ cup cold water. Combine 3 tbsps. honey or corn syrup with 4 tbsps. peanut butter. Mix with cornstarch mixture, and cook in double boiler for 10 minutes, stirring constantly. Then cover and cook 15 minutes longer, stirring occasionally. Cool, pour into sherbet dishes and chill.

PEANUT BUTTER AS A SPREAD—Serve peanut butter on the table instead of butter. The family will like the change.

. . . . When making sandwiches, spread the bread with peanut butter-salad dressing combination. It supplies added food value, and is good around lunch-time.

. . . . To make butter go farther, cream it, add an equal portion of peanut butter, and blend well. mold and chill. Grand for toast, hot biscuits, waffles, muffins, and as a between meal snack.

OWI

OWI's new director of domestic operations, Palmer Hoyt, finds himself in a curiously anomalous position—by no means of his own creation. He arrived in Washington on Monday, as he said, not "to take a job," but "to do one." Just prior to his arrival, the House of Representatives, in its exasperation against bureaucratic deficiencies or excesses, declared that the job should not be done at all. We cannot agree with the House. It is one thing to say that the existing OWI has defects which should be remedied, quite another thing to say that there is no need for an OWI.

This newspaper in the past has criticized OWI, and will undoubtedly do so again. It feels that Elmer Davis' blanket strictures against the press for the reporting of the Washington scene came with ill grace from the head of an organization which has itself committed many publicity blunders and which in the nature of things should be building up publicity cooperation. His psychological warfare should be directed at exposing the problems of the home front instead of ignoring those problems and rebuking the newspapers that do a job of plain unvarnished exposition. This newspaper has its doubts respecting the efficiency with which this large bureaucratic organization has been managed. Withal it thinks that there is need for an OWI while this war is going on. Some central agency must be kept in operation in order to bring coherence into the confused information activities of the Government and to free the clogged channels of legitimate news about military and naval affairs. As the War Agencies Correspondents Association says, "A more vigorous, not a dead, OWI is needed."

These are undertakings essential to warmaking. They comprise two of the three sensible objectives which Palmer Hoyt set forth in defining his program at his first press conference. The third facet of this program is "To make all the news available to the public, as quickly and clearly as possible, through the media whose job it is to inform the public." An OWI, in other words, must be a news clearing house. This is a kind of assistance which the media—newspapers, radio, motion pictures—must have, and are entitled to expect from the Government, if they are to do their jobs effectively. This is the kind of assistance that in wartime the Government must have in making known its purposes and policies at home as well as abroad. In wartime, reporters cannot wrest information from admirals, generals and policy-making civilian officials with varying notions about the demands of security. They must have the interposition of a central agency which is as authoritative as the other departments of Government and which at the same time is cognizant of publicity problems and devoted to the solution of them in a cooperative spirit.

There is every reason to believe that the new domestic director will undertake his relations with domestic media in the cooperative spirit indispensable to their success. He is himself experienced in the operations of newspapers and radio, understands their problems, and can be counted upon to serve as an advocate for their needs. The Senate should lose no time in repairing the action of the House and give Palmer Hoyt an opportunity to do a job which imperatively requires doing.

Air Strategy

In the air over western Europe the R. A. F. and the U. S. A. A. F. are now putting to the test certain theories about air power developed and agreed upon by their major strategists. Theirs is no haphazard experiment. They are striking at certain predetermined objectives for carefully defined purposes as part of a comprehensive military campaign. It is reassuring that they are not mere enthusiasts for a new weapon, convinced that it can win the war unaided, but men with a sober appreciation of its limitations as well as of its uses.

A realistic definition of our strategy was offered in an address last week by Brig. Gen. Edgar P. Sorenson, Assistant Chief of Air Staff for Intelligence. "Air power," he declared, "revolutionizes in many respects, but does not necessarily outmode, older concepts of warfare. It lengthens our reach, ignores obstacles which deny movement to surface forces, increases the distance over which we can strike and the speed with which the blow can be delivered, but it does not change the basic principles of warfare." Which is all very obvious to everybody but the extremists or the wishful thinkers. Air zealots seem to forget even that air power requires ground organization to support it in the air.

General Sorenson does not view the air weapon as a substitute for invasion, as some Britons seem to do. He sees it, rather, as an indispensable preliminary, designed to decrease the time as well as the cost of the final victory in life and wealth. Our air strategy, according to his outline, must progress through four stages. The first of these consists of shallow penetrations striking primarily at targets which will reduce the enemy's air defense. The second phase hits deeper and ends only when the opposing air strength is definitely on the downgrade. The third phase really gets down to the business of knocking the heart out of enemy production—on a highly selective basis, not indiscriminately. The fourth and final phase embraces the cleaning-up process and the destruction of any new resources developed by the enemy.

From the lay point of view, it would seem that we are now in the third stage of this development, perhaps entering upon the last stage. "The invasion should start," said General Sorenson, "when to delay longer would waste effort, but when its cost has been reduced to a minimum." The doctrine seems indisputably sound. Its difficulty lies in the nice balance required between these twin considerations. Military commanders are sometimes perfectionists, losing the moment of opportunity through endless preparation. There is a time beyond which delay increases, rather than diminishes, the inevitable cost of a military venture. We must be alert not to let that time pass us by.

Detroit Tragedy

No American can escape a feeling of shame as well as sorrow over the race riots which cost 29 lives and injured many hundreds in Detroit this week. When men so far forget their own institutions as to override them in brute fury, they call into question their capacity for self-government. Such an outbreak is at its ugliest when it stems from race hostility. For then it derides the first principle upon which a democratic society is based—the principle that all men are created free and equal.

It is, in a sense, doubly tragic that this outbreak should have occurred when we are in the midst of a war for human freedom. The purposes for which we have declared that we are fighting are besmirched by it. The sincerity of our aims is exposed to the skepticism of our enemies, and even of our friends. And to put the matter on the lowest or most practical level of consideration, the effectiveness of our war efforts is dangerously deranged. Detroit is one of the major centers of our war production. It will not easily readjust itself to the normal tempo and pattern of its workday life.

All of this represents a battle triumph for our enemies. It is perhaps no accident that the tragedy occurred in a city which has spawned some of our prinicipal native Fascists. The immediate cause of the uprising, to be sure, lies in the inadequate living facilities of a community which has become desperately overcrowded as a result of the war. But beneath this is the poison of a contempt for democratic processes, of a denial of democratic principles.

What happened at Detroit is no isolated incident. It is of a piece with the rioting experienced last week in Beaumont and the "zoot suit" disorders which disgraced Los Angeles. We are in a dangerous state which can find its remedy only in wise and firm leadership at the community as well as the national level. No mob and no Caesar must be allowed to pull the strings of our Government. As for individuals, now is a time for restraint, for closed ears to ugly rumors, for temperance, for firm adherence to democratic ways on the part of men who lead any ethnic group—and above all on the part of men who influence the dominant white element of our society. Anyone who seeks to stir enmity between races is an enemy of the United States. Any individuals who take the law into their own hands assail the essential security of this Nation.

De Gaulle

So far as his personality is concerned, Gen. Charles de Gaulle, the Fighting French leader, may be all his vehement critics here and in Britain say he is. He may be uncooperative, stiff-necked, ambitious, and altogether a terrible person. But it is certainly more than passing strange to find Americans, of all people, assailing him because he insists that Gen. Henri Honore Giraud must not be allowed to double in brass as commander in chief of the French army and member of the French Committee for National Liberation. Certainly if there is one thing which, from the very beginning of our national life we have insisted on, it is the subordination of military authority to civil control. The same thing has been true in France since the establishment of the Third Republic.

In this particular as in every other stand he has taken since he first hoisted the banner of continued resistance some three years ago, Gen. de Gaulle has hewed straight to the line. He has never once deviated from uncompromising republicanism. He continues to do so now. This does not make him popular with our officialdom, which in the months since the landing in North Africa has demonstrated that its ignorance of the basic realities of the French problem is matched only by its incompetence in dealing with it. The truth of the matter is that in opposing De Gaulle because he is taking a position which, however lacking in sweet reasonableness, is in line with republican preachments and democratic practices, we are not only making a mockery out of our claim of noninterference in French internal affairs but also providing De Gaulle with additional support among his own people. And by the same token, that fine old patriot, General Giraud, bids fair to become identified in French minds as the tool of Washington and London. He might well say with Voltaire: "May God defend me from my friends; I can defend myself from my enemies."

Italian Depths

The letter which 67 Italian citizens of Pantelleria have written to the Allied commander on that island is a straw which shows which way the wind is blowing in the beleaguered kingdom. The Fascist regime, say these Italians—the first outside of Libya to be liberated from Mussolini's yoke—has "sucked, like a monstrous octopus, the best energies of true Italians for 20 years" and is now "reducing Italy to a mass of ruins and misery for one motive only: the insane personal profit of its chiefs." Denouncing Mussolini in unmeasured terms, the letter went on to declare that the Italian people hoped for an Allied victory so as to bring liberation to their long-suffering people.

This cry from the depths reveals the degree of Italian disillusionment with the regime and the dictator who have betrayed them. It explains why Mussolini is running around in circles these days trying to bolster up Italy's waning morale. And it also suggests that the Allies, in urging the Italians to stage demonstrations against their rulers, are not premature in the timing of their current psychological offensive. Italy is ripe to revolt.

However, we must not expect that this anticipated rebellion will come soon. The fact remains that a small number of armed men can still cow a great multitude that is disarmed. But the letter of the citizens of Pantelleria suggests that when the Allied armies of liberation land on the peninsula they may get a warm welcome.

Prose Poem

Quite apart from the merits of the controversy involved, it is edifying to study the statement issued on Sunday by the United Mine Workers policy committee from a purely literary point of view. One may reasonably attribute authorship to Mr. John L. Lewis. The statement bears the imprint of his unique prose style. The delicacy of phrase, the restrained expression of opinion —even the inevitable split infinitive—are all unmistakably in the Lewis vein.

Mr. Lewis' literary efforts nearly always possess an adjectival richness unmatched by any other contemporary writer. The authentic Lewis touch seems evident, for example, in the reference to the coal operators as "puppets of the designing and malicious minds dominating the membership of the War Labor Board." It is apparent in the rotundity of phrase employed for the observation that the "coal negotiations have been marked by bad faith, collusive dealing, political maneuvering and private vengeance . . ."

A careful analysis of the statement leaves one with the impression that Mr. Lewis is not wholly satisfied with the conduct either of the War Labor Board or of the Appalachian coal operators. And the conclusion that he is displeased by the proposed basis for settlement seems almost inescapable from his reference to it as "an infamous yellow-dog contract" — an evaluation on which we commented in an editorial yesterday. Mr. Lewis is not an exponent of the terse, economical style so much in vogue among our younger writers today. He manages, nevertheless, to make his general intent reasonably clear to the penetrating reader.

Perhaps the only Government representative who can hope successfully to cross pens with John Lewis is the Custodian of Mines, Harold L. Ickes. In the sphere of invective, Mr. Ickes is no tyro. Like Mr. Lewis, he has won a considerable reputation for the forthright expression of his distastes. But he had better look to his laurels. Mr. Lewis is not addicted to reticence. Whatever the outcome of the coal strike, the public is likely to be treated to the most enlivening denunciatory dialogue of modern times, if Mr. Ickes gets wound up.

NAZI GRAVE

Nearby their bomber crashed, and three charred Huns
Were gathered up and laid in precious ground;
Now anxious mothers make their daily round,
And mindful of their own imperilled sons
Strew flowers on the barrow, drop their tears,
For carrion that lately wrought with flame
And slew for ever many an English name,
Till struck down in the vigor of young years.
So perish fascist power! Let such kindness
Live as a harbinger of golden light,
When man shall cease the fratricidal fight,
And wake from mournful centuries of blindness!
After this war, O build upon our bones
One house, where no blood taints the alter-stones!

Coal Strike

By Mark Sullivan

Ominous Aspects

AMONG SEVERAL aspects of the coal strike, two are especially ominous. They can be measured by yardsticks. One is: At a time when some 8 million Americans are under arms, when a large part of them are abroad in active combat with the enemy, at a time when the war is in an especially critical stage—in that condition some 500,000 Americans quit the production of a commodity basic in the production of our war supplies. By that they have brought about material reduction of the supplies upon which our soldiers depend, without which they run risk of defeat, and as a certain consequence will be obliged to slow down their attack and cause the war to be prolonged. This is unthinkable—but it has happened.

The other can be stated thus: In a time of war, some 500,000 Americans gave to one private citizen, their union leader, an allegiance superior to their allegiance to the man who is at once the head of the Nation and the Commander in Chief of the armed forces. This fact is embedded in the record. The coal miners accepted the authority of their union head, and obeyed his direction; did not accept the authority of the President and did not obey his direction. In the first phase of the coal strike, President Roosevelt told the miners not to strike—and they struck. Two days later the union head, Mr. John L. Lewis, told them to return to work—and they returned to work. It is true that almost simultaneous with Mr. Lewis' direction to return to work was a similar direction by the President. But it was clear from the circumstances that it was Mr. Lewis whom the miners obeyed, that the authority of the President was ignored.

TO LOOK upon this only as an indictment of Mr. Roosevelt's labor policy over a period of some ten years would be incomplete and superficial. The greater importance of the condition lies in its relation to the pattern of underlying trends throughout the world. Mr. Roosevelt's labor policy, possibly without his fully understanding where it might lead, was likely to arrive, if maintained, at possibilities which include two ominous ones.

Either it might end in a labor government, with authority resting in a labor leader or a group of them—the labor leader becoming, in the final stage, the formal head of government, perhaps through the ordinary process of a presidential election. This would be totalitarian government exercised by a class, the workers, analogous to the condition in Russia.

In the other possibility, Mr. Roosevelt's labor policy, if maintained, might come to a crisis at which the Government, finding labor union heads unwilling to accept the authority of government, would dissolve the unions, forbid them to exist. This would be totalitarian government of the fascist type, as in Italy and Germany.

AGAINST THESE possibilities we have some safeguards. One is the fact that no one labor leader is supreme over all labor, or even over a majority portion of it. The most aggressive of the labor leaders, Mr. Lewis, while he has extraordinary authority over his own union, is disliked by other labor leaders and members of other unions. It is ironic that Mr. Roosevelt, as a detail of his labor policy, has tried to bring about a condition that would now be most perilous to him and to the country. He has tried persistently to bring about unity of all labor in one group. Had he succeeded, the united group would inevitably have one leader, and this leader would probably be the one having the most aggressive temperament. To visualize what Mr. Roosevelt and the country might now face, had he succeeded in bringing about unity of all labor in one group, imagine Mr. Lewis today, not as the head of a relatively small union, but as head of all organized labor.

Our other safeguard against these possibilities has been the wisdom of some of our labor leaders, indeed their statesmanship, more farseeing than some who have the responsibility of statesmanship. Heads of the long-standing American Federation of Labor, such as Mr. William Green and Mr. John P. Frey, with some others, have always foreseen the danger to labor in totalitarian government, whether that of Russia or that of Italy and Germany. They have been watchful against American tendencies that might lead toward the totalitarian condition. They have steadily resisted suggested courses which would have carried organized labor closer to the function of government. They have maintained that the functions of organized labor are in the field of labor, and had best be focused on the special interests of labor, higher wages and better working conditions. They have held that labor does best in the capitalist system of society as carried on in the United States and Britain, and have warily avoided courses that might undermine the American system.

Attack

By Paul Schubert

Warfare Of 1943

WHAT A COMPLEX business war has become!

And how much we have learned about it since the attacking began back in the remote past, in 1939, when the Germans rumbled over the frontier into Poland!

At first we learned about tank warfare—about armored divisions, entire armies on tractor-tracks and wheels, rumbling across the countryside, crushing all obstacles before them. This, it appeared, was what conquered Poland . . . and we thought of war as mechanical might.

Then the Germans turned westward. We heard of parachutists dropping from the sky into Belgium and Holland to seize airdromes and telephone exchanges, to wreck power plants and public utilities—to paralyze the front behind the front.

At Rotterdam we learned the lesson of bomb-destruction . . . an awe-inspiring display of aviation's capacity to level cities to rubble. This display seemed to mean more, there at Rotterdam, than has been the case at Guernica.

We heard the name Eben Emael—and from it got a sense of the new attack upon fortifications as carried out by assault troops who were really skilled engineers of destruction, and whose plan had been worked out in cold detail, practiced for months, and executed with deadly efficiency.

AND THEN, about the time the warfare got into France, we became aware of the Stuka, and of the effectiveness of close cooperation between aircraft and tanks during attack.

Later that year the air blitz against England taught us about warfare at long range, with the Germans reaching out hundreds of miles to strike at English cities far behind the ground "front." And in 1941 we had the sensational capture of Greta, in which knowledge of glider and transport-borne troops was added to our growing education.

So many of these early lessons were painfully acquired—taught us by the enemy.

But then the word Commando came along, to signify a new kind of triple-cooperation between the forces of air, land and water in striking at the enemy . . . That word belongs to our side.

FROM COMMANDOS we learned of things like landing-barges—and as we grew interested in the idea of invasions, we became aware that the storming of a beach, in modern warfare, involves many types of assault craft, large and small.

When the Pacific warfare began, our education in amphibious operations reached the high-school stage . . . We began thinking in terms of sea power, and the radius of air power—of bases and transport, of "stepping stones" and outposts.

We had some very unpleasant lessons in submarine warfare, but as the air power of the United Nations grew stronger, we began discovering that our side had "secret" weapons, such as radar, with which to back up the war production that was proving to be as important an element of the contest as the battles fought in the field.

And as 1942 went along and passed into 1943, we rediscovered the power of the gun. Russian cannon stopped the Germans at Stalingrad. British-operated cannon made in the U. S. A. stopped the Germans at Alamein and then blasted a hole through Rommel's front to start the Eighth Army's advance. American cannon mounted in American cruisers and battleships punched Japanese men-of-war to defeat in gun duels fought at night at long range . . . As the war went along toward the great attack of 1943, warfare had become more and more complex . . . For the attacks of 1943 include all these many details.

Tanks and parachutes, bombers and dive-bombers, transport and air transport . . . gliders landing boats and landing barges . . . engineers and stevedores, infantrymen and cavalrymen—commandos and laboring men. The motor vehicles number into the thousands of jeeps, trucks and command cars, and the ships plod along ceaselessly across the seven seas.

Modern attack is complexity itself. The fundamental plan of operations is a giant scheme of organization, covering months of systematic effort in assembling the attacking force, training it, equipping it, moving it to the operational areas.

Hundreds of thousands of men work to a master time table, all directed toward striking the big blow at the zero hour—and going on from that point toward the desired victory.

Where does the individual soldier fit into all this?

Where the civilian onlooker?

Each of us, in his small way, is a part of it.

By pooling our effort we have made ourselves into an organized force that will make history—that must now either shape an orderly world or destroy "civilization" by its own deadly complexity.

Brooklyn Irish

Mr. Selden Menefee in your issue of June 10 says:

"The Brooklyn Irish spawned the Christian Front whose leaders went on trial before the war on charges of sedition." As a matter of fact, the Christian Front was an insignificant, crudely organized group which never rated the publicity given to it. It seems to have been held together by only one issue: anticommunism. Some of its members were charged with sedition but, as Mr. Menefee neglected to mention, the entire case collapsed; it was generally regarded as a "frame-up" and none of the seventeen indicted was convicted. Incidentally, only 2 of the 17 defendants were of Irish extraction. Practically all of those up on "charges of sedition," and eligible for service, are now in the U. S. Army and Navy.

"The Brooklyn Tablet . . . inspired by Fathers Coughlin and Curran" is another falsehood, repeated only, as far as we know, by the Communist and pro-Communist press. This paper has been no more inspired by these clergymen than by you. We have printed articles respecting them, as we have of hundreds of other clergymen and laymen, Catholic, Protestant and Jewish, for we are a newspaper. It would be just as sensible to say: "The Tablet is inspired by Monsignor Sheen" or dozens of others whom it has reported over the years.

Regarding the charge, supported with no evidence, that we "have consistently attacked our officials and our Allies," may we assert it is a downright falsehood.

In reference to the innuendo about our war service, might I say that we have on record official testimonials for our contribution to the selling of bonds and stamps and for our extraordinary contribution to Red Cross work and all defense activities.

We are willing to let the record, not false charges or innuendos, speak. Away with the division created on racial or religious grounds which is fundamentally Nazi propaganda!

Maestro Kindler

Maestro Kindler deplores Washington's lack of "music appreciation and sponsorship" for its "own symphony orchestra." He of course fails to mention that his orchestra has contributed, and still does, far less to such "music appreciation" than orchestras bearing the names of other cities.

Washington is expected to pay, and liberally, for every contribution from its "own symphony orchestra," then dig down for its yearly sustaining fund. For which support nothing except what is paid for is donated by the orchestra.

During the summer a few concerts are given, this allegedly a gift to the public by the orchestra, but such gift fully is paid for through the sale of seats, in addition to which a choice spot is donated free by our Park Board, from which concerts all except subscribers are excluded.

The New York Philharmonic, the Philadelphia Orchestra, the Cleveland and Indianapolis Symphonies and other famous orchestras contribute most liberally over the air.

May I inquire just what has been the air contribution of "our own symphony orchestra" aside from its yearly appeal for sustaining contributions from its neglected public?

This undeniably is the age of radio, and if our orchestra fails to take full advantage of such medium, the while other orchestras do, it ill becomes it to berate those of the public who give nothing for nothing for their lack of support.

Time Tables

The Seaboard Railway completely changed its timetable by May 22, 1943. Neither in hotels nor on railway stations are the new timetables available. Tens of hundreds are burdening personally and on the phone railway information services inquiring about the new schedules. Many people missed trains because Seaboard did not find it convenient to risk a few hundred dollars for advertising these changes in daily papers. Why does the Interstate Commerce Commission tolerate the waste of time of many people and ruining of nerves of men who intend to travel. JOHN PORTER SMITH.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Diary Of A 1943 Vacationist

My vacation began today. Packed my bags early and went into my own back yard at once, picking a nice spot between the clothes pole and the apple tree. It is not hot and uncomfortable enough in my yard to fit the requirements for a standard vacation, but it will have to do.

TUESDAY

Feel quite rested, which starts any vacation off all wrong. Here it is the second day, and I haven't had ptomaine poisoning yet.

WEDNESDAY

It is so cool and quiet that it's disturbing. I had some sand, mud and shells dumped in a corner of the yard. Scattered a lot of broken bottles in it to get the effect of being at a popular bathing beach. Something missing. Didn't get quite the right atmosphere. Suddenly realized what was wrong. No banana peels, lunch remnants, eggshells or tin cans. Had them scattered around at once.

THURSDAY

Think of it! Three full days on a vacation and not annoyed once by invitations to make a fourth at bridge! Took a little trip around to see the sights. Finnegan's Saloon, Ye Old Homestead Tavern, Epstein's delicatessen store and a new excavation down at the corner where they must be putting in a new sewer pipe. Wish I knew where there was some poison ivy. I've had it every vacation in my life by this time.

FRIDAY

Up early and peeked into the garage to see the flivver. It seemed so wonderful to look at it and know that I wouldn't be needing it. Haven't the slightest idea whether it has any oil or gas in it or how the tires are. And don't give a damn. Never recall being on a vacation this long before with that automobile still in one place. Have lived at this address 15 years, but this is the first time I ever knew my back yard was shady.

Just the same, I got a little yearning for an old-time vacation this afternoon, so ate four poorly cooked all-hots which gave the necessary feeling of distress to which my vacations have accustomed me. Had mom put some red ants in the dessert this evening. Having a fine time. Wish you were here.

SATURDAY

I just can't believe it! A full week gone and I haven't had to have the doctor for sunburn, snakebite or a nervous breakdown! Six days without having to clean a white shoe!

SUNDAY

Got up early to write letters and postcards to my family. Suddenly realized I was home and in their midst. Never had such a feeling of joy and relief. Feel so relaxed, refreshed and rejuvenated that it makes me a little sick.

Charlie Chaplin at 54 has married Cona O'Neil, who is 18. Charlie is still throwing custard pies, but now they are in the face of public opinion.

Do You Remember—

Away back when a woman could say, "If I were a man I'd be in uniform?"

"Spend your vacation as near home as possible," urges the ODT.

Out in the garden between the beetles and the cutworms, for instance.

"We firmly believe in the successful prosecution of this war by Germany and Italy, whose impregnable position has been assured." —Tojo.

Man's Best Friend

I cannot help but answer the stupid and inhumane letter of the evidently "kindly" Mr. Chapin. His statement alone that dogs in the city are worthless—is to my mind—the ravings of a moronic "dog hater" of which Washington D. C., is now overcrowded. These same "worthless" dogs guard our coast lines (I know he has no objection to that—it protects his own skin) and every day one reads where some valiant dog risked his life to protect some citizen (probably as undeserving as C. L.) and usually saves their necks. But as Mr. Chapin points out—they are not deserving of our attention or kindness—just "dumb brutes." Well, believe me, I've known dogs (I don't own one, unfortunately) that would outlive any human in loyalty. And to even compare a stupid garden with a living thing is a mockery of God's creation.

FAIR PLAY.

De Gaulle

Please accept our congratulations and warmest thanks for your editorial in The Post, "De Gaulle's Victory." We have followed closely your editorials on this subject in which, from the beginning, you have spotlighted the blindness and folly of our State Department's policy in regard to Vichy and our conduct of political matters in North Africa.

In our view (and neither of us is French) nothing can stop the ascendency of De Gaulle, Right-minded Frenchmen will demand his leadership because, in the dark days of June, 1940, and for long months afterward, he provided them with their only symbol of dignity and hope.

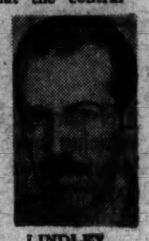
Home Front Crisis

By Ernest Lindley

Action Of House Regarding OPA

THE RESURGENT crisis on the home front involves so many parties and so many lively collateral issues that the central question is easily lost sight of. It is whether the present price level is to be maintained or the inflationary spiral is to resume. If the spiral is resumed, the cost of the war in dollars will increase; internal bickerings, which are bad enough now, are bound to sharpen, and either the economic readjustment at the end of the war will be more severe or the people's savings in Government bonds, the Government insurance system, life insurance and other fixed investments will be depreciated. If the present level is held, some people may feel that they have been treated unjustly, but nearly all of them will suffer less than if the price level is allowed to continue rising.



LINDLEY

In the national defense period, which began three years ago and continued until Pearl Harbor, and even during the first six months of actual war, the Administration could properly be accused of abetting inflation. Labor was the favored child of the national defense and early war period. Wage increases were handed out with an open hand. The Administration balked at suspending during the war the penalty rates for work over 40 hours per week. It also failed to recommend taxes of the kind and amount necessary to aid in the control of inflation. OPA, however, did a very creditable job under difficulties in trying to hold prices within reason. And, gradually, the War Labor Board swung into the anti-inflation line and has now become one of the strongest fortresses on that line.

DURING THIS period, not a single constructive anti-inflation proposal issued from Congress with the backing of either major party. The Seventy-seventh and Seventh-eighth Congresses in common have shown little comprehension of the importance of preventing a serious inflation. But of all the inflationary actions which either has ventured, the House action on OPA was the most serious. In forbidding the paymem of subsidies, the House, in effect, ordered the abandonment of the roll-back of food prices. More than that, it sought to decree that food prices should rise even higher. In cutting drastically the funds to administer OPA, it jeopardized the whole effort to control prices to consumers and to achieve a fair distribution of essential foods and other goods by rationing.

No detached observer could maintain that OPA has not made mistakes, some of them serious. Its policies now are by no means clear and its administration is not satisfactorily effective. Similar indictments can be supported against every agency of the executive branch concerned with checking inflation. But the action taken by the House was in no sense corrective. It was outrightly destructive—comparable to cutting down the appropriations of the Army and denying it the use of tanks because it was defeated at Kasserine Pass, or because some manufacturers thought they were being unfairly treated in the renegotiation of contracts.

IF FOOD PRICES to consumers are to be rolled back, or even to be held, subsidies are essential. For, to get more production and to assure orderly distribution, some prices to producers and distributors have to be raised or allowed to rise in response to demand. Others may have to be adjusted in the future. The attempt to stabilize was not made until prices and wages already had risen considerably. These rises were not all reflected in prices to consumers. Moreover, to get maximum output of critical items, including food, more must be paid, at least to marginal high cost producers. Under such circumstances subsidies somewhere along the line become necessary. They must be used judiciously. Above all, they must not be allowed to grow until they become an indirect inflation. Their circumspect and successful use depends on holding the main wage-price line. And without subsidies this line, as a practical matter probably cannot be held.

The executive branch has not done a good job of explaining its inflation-control policies to either Congress or the public. This is partly because the policies have not been evenly worked out and well administered. It is partly because the top men have hesitated to appeal to the public over the heads of Congress and the pressure groups at work on it.

But the blunder of the House framed the issue most favorably to the executive branch. As this is written, some of the farm bloc leaders in the Senate already have warned against indorsing the House's action. The moment seems propitious for the President, Justice Byrnes and Judge Vinson to explain what they are trying to do—and then, do it.

Father Draft Pushed Back

Hangs On How War Goes

By the Associated Press

Columbus, Ohio, June 22.—Fortunes of war may set the date for drafting fathers, the Nation's Manpower and Selective Service chiefs said today.

The time of the call is indefinite and may be determined by moves of the enemy, Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the War Manpower Commission, and Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service chief, told the thirty-fifth annual Governors' conference.

Lowering of physical requirements and increasing the number of WAACS and WAVES has "pushed back" the date for inducting fathers, McNutt declared in an address read for him by Robert C. Goodwin, regional WMC director.

Cannot Foretell Time

"We cannot yet say how far," McNutt added. "We do not yet know what the yield will be as the result of the change in physical qualifications. In the days and weeks to come the military forces may again find it possible to reduce their physical requirements, or they may take more older men for limited service, or the fortunes of war may require other adjustments in their plans. We may find the date changed again."

General Hershey said factors governing inductions were so variable he did not know "what the call was going to be for September," adding:

"I suppose General (George C.) Marshall (United States Army chief of staff) would like to know what the Japs are going to do in August."

Hershey's comments were in reply to a question by Gov. William H. Wills of Vermont on whether it was possible to say "just when" fathers would be drafted.

Fathers Want to Know

"I'm having a great deal of disturbance in my State because fathers are confused by changing reports concerning when they will be drafted," Wills commented. "Daily they ask: 'What shall I do with my business?'"

Both Hershey and McNutt agreed that the call for men with families would be delayed as long as possible.

"When we are perfectly sure that every last alternative—as measured by the stern priorities of war—has been exhausted, then and only then, will fathers be called," the WMC chief declared.

Hershey expressed belief some single men holding agricultural and industrial deferments and a number classified 4-F because of physical disability would be inducted ahead of fathers.

In the 4-F group are many who "should go, but I'm having a terrible time selling them to the Army and Navy," he said.

The Governors' Conference adopted unanimously a resolution extending "heartiest congratulations" to the people of Russia on this the second anniversary of Germany's attack upon the Soviet Union.

"Today, June 22, 1943, is the anniversary of the dastardly attack made by the Germans upon the Russian people," the resolution said. "Since that time the Russians have resisted that attack with a fortitude that has inspired the admiration of every American. Their brave efforts in the face of all the might and cruelty that Hitler and his minions could muster command the praise of all their Allies.

"Therefore, the Governors of the several States of the United States in conference at Columbus, Ohio, representing the peoples of their separate States, on this anniversary, extend their warm greetings to the millions of Russian people and express their keen admiration for their courage, and heartiest congratulations upon their victories over the Germans, accomplished after great sacrifice of life and destruction of Russian cities and homes."

Nazis Finish Deportation Of Dutch Jews

By the Associated Press

London, June 22.—Aneta, Netherlands news agency, said today that the last Jews in Amsterdam had been deported to Poland by the Germans, which, it said, completed the removal of Holland's entire Jewish population.

The news agency said that the Netherlands had approximately 180,000 persons classified as Jews by Nazi standards at the time of the 1940 German invasion.

Their deportation was carried out in three stages, on a geographical basis. April 10 was set for the beginning of the removal of Jews from 8 of Holland's 11 provinces. Jews in the remaining three provinces were ordered removed beginning April 23, except for the City of Amsterdam.

In Amsterdam, where a large concentration of Jews was held behind ghetto barriers, the final stage began with a deportation decree issued on May 14.

Aneta said some Dutch Jews were thought to have escaped and were hiding in the provinces, helped by Christian compatriots. The Germans have arrested scores for harboring Jews.

Reynolds to Seek Hearings on Legislation Boosting Armed Services' Dependent Benefits

Senate Military Affairs Chairman Reynolds (Democrat) of North Carolina, said yesterday that he would seek to arrange hearings to start late next week on legislation boosting the scale of allowances for dependents of men and women in the armed forces.

Although he said there was no likelihood that Congress would pass such legislation before its projected summer recess, Reynolds said he would ask his committee Monday to decide the question of hearings for a bill introduced yesterday by Senator Wagner (Democrat) of New York, and for similar measures to increase the dependents' benefits.

Senator Wagner's bill would leave the allowance for a soldier's wife at its present level, $50 a month, but would boost the allowance for a wife with one child from the present scale of $62 a month to $78 a month, and double the present $10 allowance for each additional child.

Wagner declared that about 10 per cent of the enlisted men now in the Army are fathers. He pointed out that men whose children were born after September 15, 1942, are now being called for induction and that "millions of pre-Pearl Harbor fathers" have been warned they will be subject to call shortly.

"It is doubtful," he said, "whether the present schedule of allowances was framed from the viewpoint that large numbers of men with children born prior to Pearl Harbor would have to be called into the armed forces."

Virginia Mother Of 2 Shot to Death; Husband Hunted

Edna Crabtree Mullens, 24, mother of two children, was killed instantly yesterday afternoon at the home of her mother in Lincolnia, Va., 4 miles west of Alexandria, when she was shot in the face with a .32-caliber pistol during what Fairfax County police described as a "family squabble."

Police quoted several members of the family as saying that the dead woman's husband, Archie Mullens, 27, a laborer at the Quartermaster Depot near Alexandria, fled from the house with the pistol after the shooting, shouting that he was going to kill himself. He ran across the nearby fields into the woods. Bloodhounds from Lorton Reformatory were immediately put on his trail and he was followed for 2 miles, but he had not been found early last night.

Mullens, accordingto police, lived with his wife and two children, Harold, 7, and Betty, 4, at Weynoke, Va., about a mile south of his mother-in-law's home. Police said several members of the family witnessed the shooting.

THE WORLD OF THE FOUR FREEDOMS
Selected Addresses
By SUMNER WELLES

Here is the answer of a man who knows, "a man of the highest motives, of clear intelligence and with a broad grasp of the historic process . . . coherence, clarity and a moving vision . . . The book makes a fundamental document in the development of American policy."—WALTER MILLIS, N. Y. Herald Tribune. $1.75

THE TRAGEDY OF EUROPEAN LABOR
1918-1939
By ADOLF STURMTHAL

"Written with a knowledge of the facts and a feel for their importance . . . well worth the study of labor leaders, of publicists and of ordinary folk who care about what will happen to American labor."—MAX LERNER

"A very important contribution to our thought."
—REINHOLD NIEBUHR. $3.50

BUSINESS AS A SYSTEM OF POWER
By ROBERT A. BRADY

"Pioneering work, of equal importance in its field to that of Berle and Means . . . it is difficult to overestimate the importance of the evidence that is here collected."
—HAROLD J. LASKI, New Statesman and Nation

"Timely in the accurate sense of that over-worked term."

SEC Reports 'Death' Clause Compliance

By the Associated Press

Philadelphia, June 22.—The Securities and Exchange Commission reported to Congress today that need for enforcement of the "death sentence" clause of the Public Utility Holding Company Act has been reduced greatly through cooperation of holding company systems and increasing tendency on their part to institute their own corporate simplification proceedings.

In view of the progress already made, or in prospect, the SEC said in its annual report, "the commission's major administrative concern today relates to the final steps in achieving objective of the statute, namely, the choice between the various alternative methods available under the act for bringing about compliance with the requirements of Section 11-B in the determination of what treatment of the various claims of security holders is fair and equitable."

The report, streamlined because of wartime conditions, contained only 100 pages, as compared with 361 last year, and was reproduced in the commission's own duplicating section. Chairman Ganson Purcell said in his letter of transmissal that an effort was made to keep it concise and as inexpensive as possible.

An increase in the number of irregularities found in inspections of registered brokers and dealers was reported during the year covered by the report. There were 368 instances of irregularities among a total of 1054 inspections, the commission said. Last year about one-fourth of the inspections disclosed irregularities.

The war was blamed by the commission for sharp declines in the number of broker-dealer registrations and in the membership of the National Association of Securities Dealers, Inc.

Snider Packing Votes Merger With Gen. Foods

Rochester, N. Y., June 22 (AP).—Snider Packing Corporation stockholders approved today a proposed merger with General Foods Corporation under which they will receive four shares of General Foods stock for every five of Snider held.

Physical merger of the properties is scheduled to take effect shortly.

Burt C. Olney, Snider president, will become general manager of General Foods' Snider packing division, while S. E. Comstock, retiring as Snider board chairman, will be retained for consultation.

Norfolk & Western Votes Dividends

Philadelphia, June 22 (AP).—Directors of the Norfolk and Western Railway Co. today declared a quarterly dividend of $1 per share on the adjustment preferred stock, payable August 10 to stock of record July 22. The directors also declared a quarterly dividend of $2.50 a share on common stock, payable September 10 to stock of record August 21.

Net income for May was $1,812,639.12, equal to $1.24 per common share, compared with $1,554 961.03, or $1.80 per common share for the same month last year.

Whirlaway Bows in First '43 Start to Stablemate

Vernon Hits Homer, Triple as Nats Win, 3-2

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

New York, June 22.—And who do you suppose is the National League's leading pitcher as of this week? Sure enough, it's Buck Newsom, old Bobo hisself, who was supposed to be washed up seven years ago when Washington shipped him off to Boston.

POVICH

At the moment Bobo is the chief reason why the Brooklyn Dodgers aren't in the second division. He has pitched them to seven victories. The two games he lost weren't exactly disgraceful. The other day, Mel Ott of the Giants beat him with a home run, 3-2. The only other club which has licked Newsom are the very amazing Phils, but it took 'em 10 innings to do it on three runs.

If you don't think Newsom is hot stuff in Flatbush, you haven't been in Flatbush. Big Bobo's autographed picture looks out at you from the bars and store windows. He's crowding Dixie Walker as the peepul's cherce in Brooklyn. Newsom and Brooklyn were meant for each other. Newsom being what he is, and Brooklyn fans being what they are, fate was being put asunder all the years that the Mr. Show Boat wasn't pitching for Brooklyn.

Somebody once called Newsom the only man in history who could strut sitting down. After his winning ball games, Bobo swallows his native modesty, which is not much at all, and sashays into Toots Shor's as unobstrusively as a brass band. That's the place to be seen in New York and Newsom insists on being seen by the best people if not all the people.

The big guy is a sure shot to be named as one of the National League's all-star pitchers for the game with the American League All Stars next month. "If that happens," Bobo slyly reminds us, "you'll have something to write about."

What Bobo was trying to get across is the fact that he'd be the only player in history to be named to the All-Star game pitching staff of both Major Leagues. He made it three years ago as an American Leaguer, and, as we were saying, he's sure fire to make it as a National Leaguer this season. "Old Bobo will be giving them something to shoot at," said old Bobo who likes to refer to himself as old Bobo.

Newsom's success with the Dodgers this season is being noted by Leo Durocher and Branch Rickey with a mixture of pleasure and embarrassment. The embarrassment stems from the fact that both of the Brooklyn bosses last spring tried to trade away the man who is now their leading pitcher.

They tried to trade Newsom to the Phillies. They didn't like the shape he was in when Bobo reported to the Dodgers' Bear Mountain Camp weighing 235 pounds. Durocher was feeling no great sense of loss when he suggested to Rickey that the latter try to make a deal for the aging Bobo. Rickey tried. He offered him to the Phillies for Charley Fuchs, a young righthander Bucky Harris had claimed from Detroit.

But it was no dice. One of the reasons Harris liked his job with the Phillies was because he was rid of Newsom who he had managed for two different periods at Washington. He didn't dislike Bobo personally, but he disliked trying to manage him; the uncertainty of it all, Newsom's, er, shall we say peculiar, training routine. So Bobo remained with the Dodgers.

"We saw him beat the Giants the other night at Ebbets Field. He was very much the same old Bobo on a day when he had his stuff. He griped at the umpires' decisions, he acted considerably aggrieved at a boot behind him and he suffered from the heat and humidity, but he pitched a beautiful ball game.

Bobo was out there helping himself, too. He made two hits. One of his hits was the one that moved the tying run to third base with only one out. The fellow always has been more than a pitcher. He knows what a bat is for. He always could lay down a pretty bunt and, believe it or not, even at his age, he's one of the fastest of the Dodgers in getting down to first base.

That old rubber arm of Bobo's, though, is his biggest asset. He ought to will it to medical science. Bobo's flipper has never been sore in his life and it has taken more punishment than any other pitcher's. He doesn't have that blazing fast ball he owned a few years ago, but he can still cut loose pretty well and he's plenty smart out there in the box. Eh, what, Bobo?

Yanks' Lead Is Reduced To 2 Games

Johnson's Triple In Eighth Scores Winning Run; Wynn, Scarborough Hurl

By Shirley Povich
Post Staff Writer

New York, June 22.—The Nats slipped the Yankees a Mickey this afternoon—Mickey Vernon, the knockout drop kid, who knocked out a home run, a three-bagger and the Yankees. Washington won, 3 to 2.

Vernon brewed a potent potion with his bat. After the Nats had kicked away a 1-0 lead he gave them with his homer into the right field stands, Mickey found the tying run on first base with two out in the eighth inning and knocked it all the way home with a triple into center field.

Only Two Behind

And so the Nats lopped a full game off the Yankees' league lead and are now in second place only two games in arrears. A crowd of 4438 customers watched the rollback.

Early Wynn was the winning pitcher, but he got a powerful assist from Relief Man Rae Scarborough. Between them they held the Yankees to six hits while the Nats were collecting eight off Borowy and Marius Russo.

Scarborough was the private hero of Manager Ossie Bluege, who watched his young pitcher give a nice demonstration of guts in the ninth inning when the Yankees threatened to tie up the ball game.

Picks Same Spot

Nick Etten led off that ninth with a two-bagger into right field, and Joe Gordon attempted the conventional sacrifice bunt. Scarborough fielded the ball and gambled all on a throw to third, disdaining the safety-first throw to first base. He made a perfect peg to Clary to get Etten sliding into third. Then he went back to his

Riot Ruling

Detroit Halts Ball Game And Racing

By the Associated Press

Detroit, June 22.—Michigan's Gov. Harry F. Kelly slapped a riot emergency-inspired "no assembly" ban on Briggs Stadium and the Detroit Fair Grounds race track today, forcing postponement of an American League baseball game and cancellation of a day of horse racing.

Detroit was scheduled to meet Cleveland in a twilight game beginning at 6 p. m. (E. W. T.). The racing card would have begun at 4:30 p. m.

Gov. Harry F. Kelly said late tonight he would permit tomorrow's baseball double-header and racing program to proceed as scheduled, pointing out that conditions were "much improved" in Detroit.

Baseball sources said 350 Michigan State troops would be guests at tomorrow's game.

As far as records here showed, the postponment of the ball game was without precedent. Horse racing was called off on the West Coast in the early stages of the war, to satisfy an Army request that large crowds not congregate in one place.

Seeking to prevent any new outbreak of racial violence between Negro and white persons, Army and civil officials have taken strict measures to prevent public assemblies. A crowd of approximately 10,000 normally would watch the horses run, and the twilight ball game was expected to draw something more than 15,000 persons.

Before Clarence E. Lehr of the Detroit Racing Association announced cancellation of the card, the track had made preparations to operate with white grooms alone.

Today's was the second day of racing cancelled during the current fair grounds meeting; one other card having been called off because wet weather had produced a shortage of entries.

No decision had been reached this afternoon on the playing of Wednesday's Cleveland-Detroit baseball double-header. The racing association announced that it was accepting entries for Wednesday's running.

Red Sox Rise To Third by Beating A's, 7-1

Philadelphia, June 22.—Tex Hughson pitched the Boston Red Sox into a thir-place tie with Cleveland in the American league tonight by twirling a five-hitter to beat the Athletics, 7 to 1, before 8689 at Shibe Park.

Whirly Runs Third In First '43 Start

By the Associated Press

Chicago, June 22.—Whirlaway, all-time leading money winner, returned to the races, after a lay-off of 191 days, in Arlington Park's program at Washington Park today and finished third to his stablemate, Mar-Kell, in a 1-mile tune-up for the $10,000 added Equipoise mile Saturday. Whirlaway is one of 23 eligibles for the Equipoise.

The money winning champion, which went into today's $2500 event with a bankroll of $560,911 to his credit, picked up a paltry $250 as third money, but the effort was worth it. It convinced Ben Jones, his trainer, and owner Warren Wright of Chicago, that "Mr. Longtail" was ready for serious and wealthy competition. It was his first start as a 5-year-old and his first start since winning a stake at New Orleans last December 12.

Whirlaway, packing top weight of 122 pounds, and with Jockey Wendall Eads on his back, finished three quarters of a length back of King's Abbey, while his stablemate, named after Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago, was two and a half lengths ahead of King's Abbey. Valdina Orphan, the early pacesetter, was fourth, Aonbarr was fifth, Put In sixth and Devalue seventh.

The entry paid $3 to win and $2.20 to place and show; the place price on King's Abbey was $4.80 and $3.20 to show.

Mar-Kell, ridden by F. A. Smith, a Cuban rider, ran the mile in 1:37 3/5.

The executive committee of the Police Boys' Club attended the weekly Touchdown Club luncheon as guests of the club. H. Clifford Bangs, C. B. Dulcan, sr., Dr. Malcom Gibbs, Morris Cafritz, James Colliflower, James Councilor, R. F. Garrity, J. A. Remon and Thomas N. Beavers were in the group.

Dodgers Win 4th Straight; Rout Giants

By the Associated Press

Brooklyn, June 22.—The Brooklyn Dodgers moved within two games of the idle Cardinals today as they made it three straight over the New York Giants and their fourth successive victory, with a 7-to-4 decision.

Kirby Higbe was the winning pitcher for his third triumph of the season, but he failed to go the route. He gave way to a pinch hitter in the sixth when the Dodgers, trailing 2 to 1, pushed over five runs and drove Rube Fischer from the mound. Ed Head finished for the Dodgers and was tagged for the other two Giant runs.

In their big inning Leo Durocher's boys bunched 4 of their 10 hits with 2 walks to do the damage. Joe Medwick, batting for Higbe, drove in two of the tallies with a single, and Arky Vaughan accounted for two more with a double off the scoreboard. Three singles and an error produced the

Gil Dodds Sets American Record For 2000 Meters

By the Associated Press

Passaic, N. J., June 22.—One world track record was broken and an American standard was established in another event at an invitation track and field meet which was featured by assaults on seldom-challenged marks.

William Hulse of the New York Athletic Club lopped three and two-tenths seconds off the world record in the two-thirds mile run. Hulse was clocked in 2 minutes 42.2 seconds, for the odd distance. The old record of 2:45.4 was set by Mel Sheppard in 1910.

Gil Dodds, the Boston divinity student, set a new American mark of 5 minutes 38.8 seconds, for the 2000-meter run. Dan Ferris, A. A. U. secretary, said it was the first time the event had been run in the United States. The world mark of 5:11.8 was established by Gunder Hagg, the Swedish long-distance champion, in his native land last year.

Pollet Would Join Army Air Corps

St. Louis, June 22 (AP).—Howard Pollet, southpaw pitcher of the St. Louis Cardinals, applied to his draft board today for voluntary induction to enter the Army Air Forces as an aviation cadet.

The left-hander will rejoin the Cardinals in Cincinnati to morrow and will play with the team until he is called for duty. The date is not known. He passed the Air Corps' mental and physical examinations last month.

Pollet will be 22 years old next Saturday. He is married.

Belmont to Stage Saratoga Races

New York, June 22 (AP).—The New York State Racing Commission announced today that the application of the Saratoga Racing Association to hold its summer meeting at Belmont Park on Long Island from July 26 to August 28 had been granted.

A recent ODT ruling will permit race trains to be run directly to Belmont Park.

A Farewell

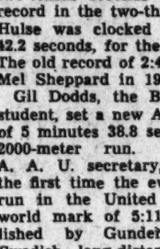
On the Line . . .

—With Considine—

(This column will be Bob Considine's last for several months. He is going abroad on a special war assignment for International News Service, details of which will be announced later.)

New York, June 22.—These things were wonderful, at least they were for me:

Babe Ruth coming over to Lou, that day they gave the stricken first baseman his "day at the Yankee Stadium, and putting his arm around him and busting out crying — as all the rest of us wanted to do.



CONSIDINE

. . . Dizz, musceling in on a Detroit Tigers' batting practice, just before the 1934 World Series, audaciously snatching a bat out of some Tiger's hands, and walloping out three line drives to center.

Whirly, hopelessly out of the running, running over horses in the stretch . . . Big Bobo, pitching against the Reds on top of his father's death . . . Louis getting sore at Galento—not for calling him a bum, which he'll never be, but because Tony posed for a newspaper picture showing himself drinking out of a milk bottle while his baby drank out of a beer bottle.

Walter Johnson, warming up between innings, late in the last game of the 1924 series, resurrecting "stuff" that he hadn't used for years . . . Ambers, the night he gave Bummy Davis his come-uppance . . . The disgusted fight fan, who, watching two tramps striking postures in the middle of the ring, without delivering a blow., yelled "Hit him now, y'bum, y'got the wind with ya . . ." Billy McCarney's stories, Mike Jacobs' teeth, and the perennial "mads" of J. J. Johnston . . . Mickey Walker, talking about the night he had a fistfight with Harry Greb in front of the Old Tavern—after they had fought 15 bloody rounds.

Sarazen, sinking a 25-footer, downhill, to stay in the running for the 1940 Open. . . . Snead, the day he took an eight on the last hole, when he had the Open in his paw. . . . Hagen, crushing a pompous official who, when Walter showed up late, asked

Silver Beam Wins Charles Town Purse, Claimed for $1000

Goss Obtains Mare After Lucky Toss

By Walter Haight

A Staff Correspondent

Charles Town, W. Va., June 22.—Mrs. P. G. Simms' Silver Beam won her fifth purse of the meeting and gained a new owner in today's sixth race, best offering on the Tuesday program. The 6-year-old mare, a model of consistency here came through with a stretch drive that was not to be denied and finished a neck in advance of R. S. Wise's Juliette with R. J. Costello's Miss Addie third in the field of seven going over the Charles Town course of 120 feet more than 6 furlongs.

Silver Beam's new owner is M. B. Goss of Winchester, Va. He took the mare for the $1000 claiming price, but had to "shake" for Silver Beam, as Trainer Norman Haymaker had entered a claim in the name of Mrs. Mary E. (Liz) Whitney. It had been reported that Mrs. Whitney previously tried to purchase the good-looking gray mare.

Silver Beam was operating in the interests of the favorite players while in charge of Jockey Carson Kirk of Silver Spring, Md. She paid a $4.60 mutuel.

Teco Tack set the early pace accompanied by Juliette and Miss Addie. The first-named finally tired on the backstretch. Juliette and Miss Addie kept up their battle. In the meantime Silver Beam gained gradually on the outside and finally gained full momentum. Approaching the wire she disposed of her rivals and was going away at the end.

Gallagher Named to G. U. Fitness Staff

Marty Gallagher, veteran of 94 heavyweight bouts and now a licensed referee in the District, was added to the staff of physical instructors for the Army trainees at Georgetown University, Joe Gardner, graduate manager of athletics, announced yesterday.

Gallageher will work with John Shields on the combatant phase of training, which includes boxing and wrestling and will be on a full-time basis as long as the Army students continue training at the Hilltop.

Gallagher expects to continue refereeing and will also operate his tavern. Gallagher, 34 years old, is married and has four children. Marty fought 15 years as a professional and included in his record two victories over King Levinsky and one over Tony Galento.

Although Georgetown has abandoned intercollegiate sports for the duration the quadrangle is not devoid of star athletes. Included in the 1000 Army trainees are Jack Donaldson, tackle on Penn's 1942 eleven, and Don Freedman, all-Pennsylvania, State College courtman with Gettysburg.

Georgetown will be represented by Jack Donohue, three-time champion of Sioux City, Iowa, and Dick Meyer, former District junior and Manor Club champion, the National Intercollegiate Golf Championship in Chicago, starting June 28. Entries of both Hoya golfers have been forwardded to the committee.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FLICK, $6.00, $3.20, $2.80; CHANCER, $14.60, $8.80; LADY MASCARA, $3.00.

FLICK, off well, opened long lead on turn and was not threatened while being kept to a hard hand ride in closing test. CHANCER assumed brief lead but could not resist winner. LADY MASCARA closed well when able to save ground in last quarter. TIME HER moved through on inside to reach leader and then faltered.

SECOND RACE—Charles Town course. Purse, $400. For 4-year-olds; claiming. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 1:41. Off at 1:43. Winner, Pete Deer's b. m. (7) by Flag Pole—Junetta. Trained by E. R. Jones. Value to winner, $300; second, $60; third, $30; fourth, $10. Time, 1:16⅘.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FLAG ETTA, $17.00, $8.40, $3.60; INCENTOR, $5.20, $2.80; MISTAKE, $2.40.

FLAG ETTA outsprinted field early, was well rated while setting pace and won under a mild drive. INCENTOR lost ground early, disposed of MISTAKE, reached contending position after a half but failed to rally when shaken up. CRIMSON LANCER closed some ground. AIR DEFENSE quit.

Daily Double—FLICK and FLAG ETTA paid $91.00

THIRD RACE—About 7 furlongs. Purse, $400. For 3-year-olds; claiming. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 2:08. Off at 2:10. Winner, Heloria Stable's b. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—GLORENE, $4.40, $3.20, $2.60; FREE BOY, $4.80, $3.80; PONE, $9.40.

GLORENE disposed of BOWSPRIT to take command after first five-eighths, opened good lead entering stretch but was ridden out to stave off bid of FREE BOY. The latter, within striking distance throughout, was hard ridden in closing test and had no mishaps. PONE failed to threaten top pair. BOWSPRIT stopped after setting early pace. CHIFF CHAFF was knocked out of contention early.

FOURTH RACE—About 4½ furlongs. Purse, $400. For 2-year-olds; allowances. Start good. Won easily; place same. Went to post at 2:36. Off at 2:38½. Winner, Mrs. M. E. Whitney's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ROYAL STEP, $3.20, $2.40, $2.20; SIR WINKS, $3.40, $2.40; PRECISE, $2.40.

ROYAL STEP assumed command in opening quarter, widened lead steadily and won with speed in reserve. SIR WINKS was second best but could not reach winner. PRECISE showd good speed throughout. STING LEA should benefit by this race.

FIFTH RACE—Six and one-half furlongs. Purse, $400. For 3-year-olds; claiming. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 3:06. Off at 3:07½. Winner, John Bosley, Jr.'s b. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—KAYMARION, $8.00, $5.20, $3.80; OYSTER BAR, $16.60, $8.00; LENA GIRL, $7.00.

KAYMARION outran field early without being extended, opened long lead gradually but was all out to last. OYSTER BAR raced close up from start and was wearing down winner. LENA GIRL was forced to race on outside from start and showed a good effort. NEON LIGHT had no excuses. RETURNED was off last and raced in close quarters.

SIXTH RACE—Charles Town course. Purse, $400. For 3-year-olds; claiming. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 3:36. Off at 3:37½. Winner, Mrs. P. G. Simms' gr. m. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SILVER BEAM, $4.60, $3.00, $2.60; JULETTE, $3.60, $2.60; MISS ADDIE, $4.40.

SILVER BEAM was forced to lose ground from start, challenged leaders soon after entering stretch and won in going-away fashion. JULETTE raced with pace throughout, responded to pressure in stretch run but was forced to race between horses. MISS ADDIE was hard ridden to displace TECO TACK in front, held on gamely until last 70 yards and quit. TECO TACK tired gradually after showing in front early. The others had no excuses.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $400. For 3-year-olds; claiming. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 4:03. Off at 4:03½. Winner, S. Delise's ch. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MISS DEFIANCE, $23.20, $6.60, $3.40; CHRONOS, $6.20, $4.20; BIG SNEEZE, $4.00.

MISS DEFIANCE, well handled while racing within striking distance, challenged leader on outside in stretch run and was up in final stride. CHRONOS, in first flight throughout, disposed of GINOBI to take command and just failed to last. BIG SNEEZE was outrun early, lost ground and closed willingly. CAMPMEETING was eased back when outrun by GINOBI, moved up to again challenge and flattened out in final test.

EIGHTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $400. For 4-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 4:30. Off at 4:30½. Winner, L. S. Stewart's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ROUGH EGG, $7.20, $5.80, $4.00; WAR TARGET, $14.40, $6.80; SIR JEROME, $3.60.

ROUGH EGG stumbled repeatedly through first half, circled entire field while improving position and was up in final stride on outside. WAR TARGET took lead in opening strides, saved ground while setting pace and just missed. SIR JEROME improved position gradually to assume command after a half but weakend in last few strides. TIME PLAY had no excuse.

Cubs Shut Out Pirates, 1 to 0; Win On Error

By the Associated Press

Chicago, June 22.—Before a morning crowd of 3788, Paul Derringer shut out the Pittsburgh Pirates on seven hits today, while a single by Shortstop Lenny Merullo cashed a two-base error by a substitute third baseman for a 1-0 victory for the Chicago Cubs.

Outfielder Frank Wyrostek, filling in at third because Bob Elliott had been injured earlier in the game, and Huck Geary, only infield reserve, had a bad leg, made the wild throw into the dugout on Outfielder Harry Lowrey's grounder.

Merullo's blow was one of but four singles the Cubs got off Johnny Podgajny, their nemesis, when he pitched for the Phillies, and Max Butcher.

Elliott was hurt in the second inning when a bad bounder off Lowrey's bat caromed off the left side of his head so hard Podgajny picked it up near the mound in time to retire the runner. Elliott had to be helped off the field but was able to return to his hotel after the game.

Masi's Homer Helps Braves Beat Phils, 7-6

By the Associated Press

Boston, June 22.—Catcher Phil Masi's second home run of the season, with Chet Ross on base in the fifth inning, gave the Boston Braves a tight 7-to-6 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies at Braves Field today. The home run was off the Phillies' "Lefty" Jack Kraus after Ross had made a base hit.

Boston bunched six of their nine hits off Kraus for a big five-run second inning and then coasted to the fifth. The Phillies outhit the Braves, but did not bunch them enough to pile up a winning score.

Yoeman Breaks Leg In Stealing Third

Julius Kessler, yeoman second class, who plays with the Bureau of Ships nine in the Potomac River Naval Command League, suffered a broken ankle yesterday in a steal of third base in the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts game.

Kessler was taken to the Naval Medical Center in Bethesda from the South Ellipse diamond where the game was played. He was safe at third, but his ankle caught under him in the attempt. BUSANDA

Candini, Carrasquel Picked To Put Nats Even With Yanks

New York, June 22.—The Nats and Yankees, now separated by only two games, will play a double-header here tomorrow and Managers Ossie Bluege and Joe McCarthy are in no mood to trifle with their pitching selections.

McCarthy is turning loose his two best pitchers for tomorrow's program, Spud Chandler and Ernie Bonham. Bluege will unveil the former Yankee property, Milo Candini, unbeaten and with six straight wins to his credit. Alex Carrasquel will pitch the other game for the Nats.

Chandler, who has won seven and lost only one, held the Nats to one hit and shut them out earlier in the season. . . . Candini has not yet pitched against the Yankees. . . . Bob Johnson's resurgence with the bat hasn't been doing the Nats any harm. . . . He has batted exactly .500 in the club's last six games with 13 hits, including two triples and three doubles, in his last 26 appearances. . . . Gerry Priddy emerged from his batting slump as soon as the Nats hit Yankee Stadium. . . . But Johnny Sullivan is in a woeful slough, with nary a hit to show for his last 19 times at bat. . . . George Case was out of the line-up today with a painful stiff neck. . . . Early Wynn notched his fifth win of the season when he got credit for the Nats' victory today after being removed for a pinch hitter in the eighth. . . . He had allowed the Yankees only one earned run. . . . Priddy was too completely pleased with himself after he led off the third inning with a single to center. . . . A moment later, Sears picked him off first base. POVICH.

Vernon Stars As Nats Beat Yankees, 3-2

pitching and retired the last two Yankees with ease.

Vernon, who on Sunday clouted a two-run homer into the right field stands to win a game for the Nats, picked the same spot in the fourth inning for the same kind of clout to set the Nats up in their 1—0 lead. It was only the second hit off Borowy at that point.

Wynn was pitching clever one-hit ball until the fifth when the Yankees came up with two runs with the aid of a wild throw by Johnny Sullivan. Sears commenced it by bouncing a hit off Wynn's shins. He was sacrificed to second, and Gordon drew a walk. Bill Johnson scored Sears with a single to left, but Borowy popped up for the second out. Stainback hit a ball down to Sullivan and everybody was safe when Sullivan's low throw was dropped by Priddy. Gordon scored from second on the play while Sullivan was scampering into centerfield for the loose ball which was kicked by Johnson as he slid into second.

The Nats owned only four hits off Borowy going into the eighth inning, and there was no immediate sign that they would win the ball game. Sherry Robertson batted for Wynn and flied to right, and Clary flied to center.

But Spence drove in the opening wedge with a single into right field to put the tying run on base. Vernon's contribution was the triple we were telling you aboot, a long drive in almost dead center which fell between Keller and Stainback. Vernon hit a 3-and-1 pitch.

Vernon could have crawled home from third on his hands and knees and still score when Johnson crashed another triple against the left-field wall, but he chose to jog in.

Trade Board Opposes D. C. Liquor Stores

Establishment of Government liquor stores in the District under control of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board has been protested by the executive committee of the Board of Trade as a venture in competition with private industry. The plan was proposed in the House by Representative Milton H. West (Democrat) of Texas.

The committee indorsed a bill introduced in Congress "to redefine the powers and duties of the Board of Public Welfare, and to establish a Department of Public Welfare." Confusion has resulted from division of authority between the Commissioners and the board, it was stated. This bil would place full administrative authority in the hands of the Commissioners, classify paid workers as employes of the Department of Public Welfare instead of the board, and give to the board advisory powers only.

The committee went on record urging War and Navy Departments to detail commissioned officers back to school physical education departments to carry on programs in high schools, where there is a scarcity of instructors.

Edgar Morris was named chairman of the executive committee of the greater National Capital committee for 1943-44 and other committee appointments were made as follows: George Plitt, vice chairman; Francis C. Addison, jr., treasurer; Clarence A. Arata, secretary; Thomas D. Carson, Edward F. Colladay, James E. Colliflower, W. W. Everett, Robert V. Fleming, E. C. Graham, Thomas J. Groom, Granville Gude, John J. Hasley, Joseph D. Kaufman, Mack L. Langford, C. J. Mack, Arthur J. May, B. M. McKelway, L. P. McLachlen, E. D. Merrill, L. Gardner Moore, Claude W. Owen, E. Barrett Prettyman, John A. Reilly, H. L. Rust, jr., John Saul, Frederick P. H. Siddons, Fred A. Smith, Wilmer J. Waller, Lawrence E. Williams and Lloyd B. Wilson, members.

Liquor Dealers Protest

Stifling of free trade in the liquor business was charged yesterday by 500 retail liquor dealers who filed with the District Commissioners a protest that the new no-credit ruling ordered by the District A. B. C. Board for wholesaler-retailer liquor sales would create a monopoly and raise prices to consumers.

The protest, which called for staying of the cash sales ruling ordered into effect July 22, charged it had been adopted without public hearing, was discriminatory, and was in violation of Sections 18 and 19 of the A. B. C. Act which provide for the allowance of reasonable credit.

Commissioners referred the petition to Chairman Thomas E. Lodge.

4000 Centenarians Listed, But Bureau Doesn't Believe It

Census figures showed yesterday nearly 4000 centenarians in the country, but even the Census Bureau didn't believe it.

Commenting on the 1940 canvass which showed 3679 persons at that time claiming to be 100 or older, the bureau said the data "undoubtedly exaggerates the number of centenarians."

Very old people, officials suggested, frequently forget their real age.

Another census report showed that there were more males than females in 1940 at each year of age up to 18 and between 41 and 64. Females were in the majority between 20 and 33 and over 67.

COMFORT'S CONGRESSIONAL MEDAL. Roy Comfort, cocktail hour maestro of the Lounge Riviera, owns a Congressional Medal—by right of heirship. It was bequeathed him by his cavalryman great uncle who won it in the Indian fighting following the War Between the States. Roy's father garnered a Medal of Honor in the Spanish-American War. Maestro Comfort says pensively, "I dunno what I'll do, but I've got to win a medal, somehow—to uphold the honor of the third generation of Comforts."

Crossroads' jiving band leader, Ralph Hawkins, has written an "Air-Raid Wardens' Song." will play it at the forthcoming meeting of around 7000 District wardens. (What a night for a blackout!)

RUSSIAN VAUDEVILLE will blossom all through the new Balalaika revue, opening tomorrow night. Skits will include "The Deacon and the Widow," played rollickingly by Lola and Basile; the razor flourishing "Barbershop;" the "Hungarian Rhapsody" finale with czarda dancing. There'll be solos by Baritone Slipooskin and Violinist Vensko, a Bulgarian dance by Yourloff and Yoder.

BOBBY, THE BUZZ-SAW. Chubby Bobby Bernard, new Lotus emcee, shouts, sings and claps to such good purpose that he transforms apathetic hot weather audiences into cheerful crowds convinced they're having a wonderful time. He also knocks himself out doing a Cohan medley. It's all very good showmanship, though Bobby's patter is a shade too much on the flowery side.

Milton Page, El Patio's new and modernistic young maestro, has written a saga in 4-part harmony called "Pardon My Frightened Love." Please roll your own comment. It bewilders us, too.

EXCITEMENT IS KING in the Victory Room. One of Eddy Cantor's daughters came in the other night and now it's rumored that Peggy Mann of Teddy Powell's band will replace Dinah Shore on the Cantor program this fall. Teddy Powell is now playing Tommy Dorsey's former spot on the Treasury program. Singer Gene Howard is due for an early screening by Twentieth Century-Fox. Gene looks like Jimmy Stewart, has had acting experience in the Community Theater of his native Nashville, Tenn.

PATS ON THE BACK are given to both the public and rationing boards by Bobby Siebold, partner in Restaurant 823. "Our customers have been wonderfully considerate and understanding about certain shortages," he says, "and the ration boards are doing a fine job under difficulties. But with restaurant business going up by leaps and bounds, it's getting harder every day to meet food demands. I wish that key food administration executives would tour the restaurants and what we are accomplishing and see what we are accomplishing and what we are up against."

COSTUME HARMONICS. Mayfair's Dardanelle wears a maroon chiffon formal when her bandsmen wear maroon dinner jackets, black chiffon and lace to go with their black coats, a pale blue gown when they're in blue uniforms, a tan gabardine tailleur that matches their cocktail hour suite.

ATMOSPHERE DEPARTMENT. Most romantic aircooled twilights around town belong to the Anchor Room and King Cole Room. The lighting's so soft it's hard to recognize people 10 feet away . . . Ruby Foo's is kind to customers waiting for tables. There's a roomy lounge where they can puff ciggies and rest their arches . . . We love the seaside murals at the Copocabana. But what are those barber poles doing on the beach? . . . The china at the Old New Orleans is in authentic Confederate gray and was baked to order in the United States . . . The murals in the Metronome Room contrast old fashioned courtship and other sports with modern manners . . . The pictures on the walls of the Brown Derby get more askew every night. Must be the effect of the successive jiving of the Jones Brothers, Fats Waller and T-Bone Walker . . . The 400 Club is plastered with the handsomest photomurals of Washington you'll ever see . . . You can hardly see the Neptune Room for the customers, but its highly detailed murals of undersea life are delightful . . . The carved marble mantelpiece at Troika is a grand place to park big hats. Mischa hung ours on an andiron the other night. Lucky it was summertime or we'd have had a broiled chapeau.

KAVAKOS KRAZES. Georges Adams, the baritoning charm boy of Kavakos Grill, is now in his sixth week, heads the new and frisky revue that goes on twice a night. There's so much high-power fun that most Kavakos customers stay for both shows. Dancing to Al Shay's music.

House Refuses Incentive Pay To Farmers

The House yesterday approved a 100-million-dollar Senate increase in farm soil conservation payments, but narrowly restricted the use of the fund and flatly refused to grant incentive payments to farmers.

House action came on the first of a series of deadlocked differences between House and Senate on the controversy-laden 875 million dollar Agriculture Department bill.

Increase in soil conservation payments to 400 million dollars, from the 300 million dollars originally approved by the House, was approved by a close 186 to 175 margin, after opponents of price subsidies led a fight on the additional amount.

House managers of the bill denied there was any relation between OPA's subsidized rollback of prices, disapproved by the House only last week, and the long-standing item for soil-building benefits.

Use of Fund Limited

One the very next vote, the House partially offset the effect of the increase by limiting use of the 400 million-dollar fund for Agricultural Adjustment Act programs, and for compliance with soil building and water conservation practices.

Members voted 177 to 167 against the broader Senate language, after roll-back opponents charged this might permit use of the money for price subsidies.

The House insisted on its original flat ban on incentive payments to farmers for increased war production, after defeating, 150 to 34, an amendment by Representative Pace (Democrat) of Georgia, conditionally acquiescing in the incentive benefits. Pace made it a condition that the payments not be reckoned in computing price parity, a provision the Administration has opposed as inflationary.

Main Controversy Up Today

The main farm bill controversy over continuance of the Farm Security Administration was put over until today, when the House must decide whether to stick by its earlier provision for FSA liquidation, or to compromise Senate appropriations for rural rehabilitation programs.

The Senate had asked $29,607,000 for FSA administration, $97,500,000 in FSA borrowing authority for loans to individual farmers and 30 million dollars for tenant purchase loans. House farm bill managers were expected to ask the House to slash these amounts practically in half, which would permit continuance of the agency on a greatly limited basis. Other items in dispute and awaiting a House veto include Senate increases for wheat and cotton crop insurance and rural electrification loans, and provision for continuing parity payments on 1943 and 1944 crops.

Chinese Advance On Jap Stronghold

Chungking, June 22 (AP).—The Chinese high command announced tonight the capture of a number of strategic points in the outer defenses of Owchihkow, near the Yangtze River, 40 miles south of Shasi, and said more than 200 Japanese were killed in the advance.

Owchihkow, also known as Lotus Pond Inlet, is one of the last important Japanese-held strongholds south of the Yangtze and west of Tungting Lake.

Joseph A. Conry, Representative In 1901-03, Dies

Former Representative Joseph A. Conry, 77, former Boston city official and Russian consul there for nearly 30 years, died here yesterday at the George Washington University Hospital.

Mr. Conry, who had lived for a number of years at the Cosmos Club here, was a native of Brookline, Mass. He practiced law in Boston and served as president of common council and chairman of the board of aldermen before entering Congress. He served as a Representative from 1901 to 1903. Later he became director of the Port of Boston.

In recognition of his outstanding service as Russian consul in Boston for there decades, Mr. Conry was decorated by Nicholas II, Czar of Russia.

Questions, Answers On New Withholding Tax

Following are more questions and answers on the withholding tax, effective July 1, as issued by the Treasury:

Q. How much will my employer hold out of my pay?

A. There will be withheld from your pay an amount equal to 20 per cent of the excess of your wages over your family status withholding exemption, or 3 per cent of the excess of your wages over the victory tax withholding exemption, whichever is greater.

Q. What do you mean by exemption?

A. The amount of your wages which is exempt from the withholding tax.

Q. What does that amount to?

Personal Exemptions

A. On an annual basis, $624 for single persons; $1248 for married persons; and $312 for each dependent. On a weekly basis, this is $12 for a single person; $24 for a married person, and $6 for each dependent.

Q. How does my employer know how much of my wage is exempt from withholding?

A. Because he gives you a slip of paper called "Withholding Exemption Certificate. On it you indicate whether you are single or married, how many dependents you have, and so forth. Then you sign the certificate and return it to your employer. From that information he can tell exactly how much of your pay is exempt from withholding, and how much bears the 20 per cent tax.

Q. What if I do not hand in one of these certificates to my employer?

A. Then he is required by law to withhold the 20 per cent tax from all of your wages without any exemption. So it will save you money to be sure to turn one in.

Q. Do I turn my withholding exemption certificate in to my foreman, to the payroll department, or where?

A. The withholding exemption certificate must be given to your employer, or some one designated by him to accept it.

Status of Couples

Q. Suppose both my wife and I are employed. How does the exemption work?

A. The personal exemption may be divided and each take one-half, or one may claim it all. Each has the same victory tax withholding exemption.

Q. Suppose I am married, have two children, and earn $54 a week—how much pay will I receive after the withholding tax has been deducted?

A. You will receive $50.20 if your employer elects to use the wage bracket withholding table provided by law, or $50.40 if your employer computes the tax at 20 percent of your wage, less exemptions.

Q. If my husband has filled out an EMPLOYEE'S WITHHOLDING EXEMPTION CERTIFICATE and has claimed half of the personal exemption and exemption for one dependent, and after a couple of months is drafted; can the wife claim the full personal married exemption and the dependent child's exemption?

A. The Withholding Exemption Certificate filed by the husband can be changed. Where there is a change of status, a new certificate should be furnished the employer, which may take effect, at the employer's election, with respect to any payment of wages made on or after the date the certificate is furnished; but in no event later than the first payment of wages made on or after the following first day of July or January which occurs at least 30 days after the certificate is furnished to the employer.

U. S. Sub Trails Jap Vessel Until it Shows Red Cross

Abroad United States submarine in the Pacific, June 23 (AP).—This sub trailed one Japanese ship several hours, then had to pass it up. It proved to be a hospital ship, guaranteed safe passage under the Geneva constitution.

"She was sailing a straight course, not zigzagging like a warship or freighter usually does," said Ensign E. W. (Si) Lake, 38, of New Britain, Conn., submarine communications officer. "We trailed her until nightfall, then closed. Suddenly all her lights came on and there was a Red Cross blazing on her hull. So we had to pass her up. But what a target.

"And then we came 'home' and read that those dirty——had sunk one of our hospital ships!"

De Luxe Bus Service

Charlotte, N. C.—Bus Driver J. H. Galloway stopped his bus in front of the Kit Kat Soda Shop.

He mopped his brow and went in. He brought back 15 cones of ice cream—one for himself and one for each of his 14 passengers.

Needless Delay

Chambersburg, Pa.—Thieves open the safe of a bottling plant the hard way, by battering off the knob.

They needn't have bothered, though. The combination was pasted on the door.

Senate Votes D. C. Water Registrar

Creation of $4600 Job Is First Step To Better Service Of Department

The Senate yesterday took preliminary steps to improve the services of the Water Department in the wake of a slashing attack upon Water Department practices by Lindsay C. Warren, Comptroller General of the United States.

Without a dissenting voice the Senate passed the District Appropriation bill recommending the creation of a new position of water registrar at a salary of $4600, with the present registrar to serve as first assistant.

Warren's report, released with the hearings of a subcommittee of the Senate Appropriations Committee, assailed the present water system in the District, charging that hudreds of thousands of dollars have been lost.

"In general," Warren said in a letter addressed to the President of the Board of Commissioners, "the affairs of the office of Water Registrar are far from satisfactory. Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been lost as the result of the policy of holding only occupants of premises (not owners) responsible for payment of water bills; delayed billings; charging of improper rates; cancellations and adjustments of accounts receivable, and failure to bill all accounts which should have been billed, etc.

Reasons for Conditions

"The factors contributing to this condition appear to be lack of foresight and planning, poor management, inadequate supervision, faulty system, lack of systematic and orderly procedures, and inefficient and dissatisfied employes.

"Until such time as these policies, procedures and other conditions in the water registrar's office are corrected, it will continue to be in arrears and inefficiently operated, as a result of which thousands of dollars will be lost annually."

Warren charged that contrary to District statutes, the water registrar is not bonded. He further charged that checks and money orders sent in are sometimes withheld from deposit and are not kept in any one place.

Probe to Be Contniued

Julia C. Sourwine, counsel for the Senate District Committee, announced yesterday that he hopes the committee's investigation of the water department, which has been going on for some months, will be completed within two months. R. V. L. Wright is committee investigator.

Beside providing for a new head for the water service, the Senate yesterday allotted $69,500 to allow for construction of a covered reservoir of 20 million gallons' capacity.

The subcommittee report recommended that the "methods and practices" of the water department "be reorganized and improved."

OPA Adopts 'Sensible Men' Idea for Staff

First of the 58 Federal agencies in Washington to fall in line with the "sensible dress" policy, advocated here by the Brotherhood of Sensible Men established a week ago, was the Office of Price Administration.

Making the policy official, Prentiss M. Brown, OPA chief, issued the following memorandum to all employes in his agency, it was disclosed yesterday:

"Several employes' suggestions have been received by the Employes' Suggestion Branch proposing that the wearing of slack suits or other acceptable summer attire be made permissible for male employes. It is felt that there is merit in these suggestions. Employes are therefore informed that acceptable informal attire may be worn during working hours.

"These suggestions point out that OPA employes are working in a non-air-conditioned building and the men already are shedding their coats and ties. The adoption of the suggestion will result in male employes presenting a neater appearance and being more comfortable, which undoubtedly will increase efficiency and morale."

Precedent Established

And for the first time in history yesterday noon a group of Washington men dined in their shirt sleeves at the Occidental restaurant.

They were representatives of the Brotherhood of Sensible Men who had agreed it was the only sensible thing to do. Although air conditioned, the surroundings in the Occidental failed to cool the ardor of the exponents of sensible attire to combat the sweltering summer weather.

Almost as if by design the table around which the group had gathered was located beneath a placque on the wall bearing the historical words of President Woodrow Wilson:

The supreme test of the Nation has come . . . We must speak, act and serve together."

3 Musketeers of Coincidence To Enter Navy Together Soon

Norman D. Right, Raymond C. Roberts and R. Glenn Kaiser look over the picture of their Eastern High School graduating class

The 1943 counterpart of Dumas' musketeers is a trio of young Washingtonians who yesterday were looking forward to continuing in the United States Navy, the friendship they began about 15 years ago.

"Plans—Naval Air Corps" was written in the Eastern High School yearbook under the names of Raymond C. Roberts, Norman D. Right and R. Glenn Kaiser, who yesterday were graduated from that school.

Friends for 15 Years

But Eastern wasn't the first school they labored through together. Neighbors when they were but small fry, the three friends entered Bryant Elementary School together and continued in Eliot Junior High School.

Then, as they approached eligible draft age, they decided to cast their lots together with the Navy. All agreed that they'd like to serve their country in the air, so they took the Naval Aviation Cadet exam on March 2. Still together, they were sworn in March 17, and, an even greater coincidence, recently learned that they all had been transferred to the Navy's special college training program.

They've been told to anticipate call to service on July 1 or November 1, but, anxious to get into the fight, they'd prefer the earlier date.

Other Coincidence

They all play the piano, were in the school choral club and share extra-curricular interests. Ray and Glenn were Boy Scouts together, while Ray and Norman played with the Irish Aces—a football club coached by Ray's dad, Capt. Raymond Roberts, deputy fire marshal for the District.

Ray, who celebrated his eighteenth birthday on Monday, resides at 115 Eighteenth Street Southeast. Glenn, who will be 18 on July 17, is the son of Benjamin W. Kaiser of 1703 Lyman Place Northeast, while Norman, 18, last June 2, is the son of D. A. Right of 1422 A Street Southeast.

4 Overcome by Heat, Offices Closed, No Relief in Sight

Four persons were overcome by heat yesterday as the mercury soared again to 93 degrees and forced early closing of non-air-conditioned offices in the District Building and Board of Education in Franklin School Building.

In closing the offices in the District Building, the Commissioners established a precedent for the present board, while the offices of the Board of Education were closed for the first time this year during a work day.

At the same time, the Weatheer Bureau held out no hope for relief from the heat today. The forecast was continued very warm with the temperature reaching yesterday's high of 93 degrees. Yesterday's low was 74 at 5:25 a. m. and the maximum was recorded at 3:55 p. m.

Victims of yesterday's heat who received emergency treatment included: At Providence Hospital—Robert Martin, 28, of 121 Eleventh Street Southwest and Elizabeth Green, 30, who lives at 823 Second Street Southwest. At Casualty Hospital—Henry Ashton, about 25, of 1514 C Street Southeast and Albert Rogers, 42, of 937 O Street Northwest. All were discharged later.

The largest week-day attendance of the season at the city's swimming pools was reported as school children, happy that lessons were over and school doors closed for the summer, hustled to the nearest swimming spot to find relief from the heat and celebrate the end of another scholastic year. Anacostia pool was crowded with 900 persons, East Potomac with 400 and Takoma Park with 1400.

Apparently, the heat tempted many motorists to seek cooling recreation despite the ban on pleasure driving. District Office of Price Administration investigators reported yesterday morning that they had discovered 71 alleged violators of the regulation on Monday night, bringing the total for the entire campaign to 1991.

The inscription was noted and indorsed by those present, as was a similar plaque on the opposite wall bearing the words of Patrick Henry, "Give me liberty or give me death."

"The luncheon was entirely informal," explained Les Graubner of BEW, who a week ago was proclaimed the "Most Sensible Man" in Washington. "There was no one presiding, there were no minutes to read, and in fact we have no constitution and by-laws . . . we're very informal."

"And sensible," added J. Gordon Townley of Petroleum Administrator for War, gilding the lily.

Silver Spring Girl Stricken by Heat

Patricia Mar, 17, of Silver Spring, Md., was overcome by heat yesterday at a carnival, and fell and struck her head. She was taken to the Washington Sanitorium at Takoma Park for treatment.

Her injuries were not serious, it was announced at the hospital.

Butchers Here Get Rollback Prices Today

Washington butchers went through their second day of the meat-price rollback at the old prices yesterday, but they won't today, for the District OPA has copies of the new price regulations in the mails for them.

A District OPA spokesman blamed the delay of the price rollback on the nonarrival of forms from the regional office in New York.

But they still haven't arrived at District OPA headquarters.

To get the new schedule of lower prices to meat wholesalers and retailers the national office of OPA was forced to jump into the breach. It furnished the District office with some 2000 copies of the entire set of regulations governing the rollback, so what the butchers will receive in the mail today will be quite official.

Several volunteers were called in and even OPA officials took a hand at the rush job of addressing envelopes and stuffing the new regulations into them, to make sure all got in the mail last night.

The District's meat dealers seemed to be content to rock along at the old—higher—price levels, for local OPA reported few calls for information on reducing prices.

Meanwhile, the supply of beef in the city was at a low ebb. Hamburger was fairly plentiful, but some stores were out of even that staple commodity. Steaks also were available at many stores, and dealers attributed this to the higher point values of choice cuts. Notably absent were the cheaper roast cuts.

At that, beef supplies were far above the period immediately prior to and after the start of meat rationing, and the OPA said the supply would be supplemented by the end of the week.

Army Air Force Dinner

Gen. H. H. Arnold, commanding officer of the Army Air Forces, yesterday was host to Air Chief Marshal Sir Christopher Courtney, R. A. F., at a dinner given at Bolling Field.

Besides Lieut. Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, deputy Army chief of staff, and other general officers of the Army, guests included Air Marshal Sir William L. Welsh, chief of the R. A. F. mission in Washington, Robert A. Lovett and A. L. Gates, assistant secretaries for air of the Army and Navy, and chiefs and members of the air missions of Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa.

Graduation Season Now In Full Swing

Dunbar to Have 3 Valedictorians As 240 Receive Their Diplomas

A trio of valedictorians, students who all maintained A averages up to the fifth semester, will participate in graduation exercises for 240 at Dunbar High School today at 8 p.m., as Washington public schools continue commencements.

The speaker will be Marie Cotten, "Youth's Part in Promoting Inter-racial Understanding in the United States"; Edward Howard, "Youth's Part in Reconstruction After the War," and Florence Watson, "Youth's Part in Laying the Foundations for Perpetual Peace."

On the same program, four District educators will be honored by the Dunbar class of 1923, which will present a memorial plaque to the school. The men to be honored, all of whom are now dead, are J. C. Wright, former teacher of typing at Dunbar, who waged a successful 25-year fight for 3-cent carfare for pupils in the District of Columbia schools; Neval H. Thomas, historian, who repeatedly sought congressional funds for improved school facilities for colored pupils here; Ulysses S. G. Bassett, former mathematics instructor, and Walter L. Smith, late principal of Dunbar.

Symposium at Dennison

"After Graduation—What" will be the theme of a symposium in which several graduates of Dennison Vocational School will participate at 8 p. m. today. Addressing the 34 graduates will be Jean Graham, who will discuss stenography; Mary Walker, child care; Anna May Myers, foods; Beverly Bartnovsky, general business; Ruth Hays, office machines; Virginia Bissell, dressmaking, and Beverly Lind, cosmetology. Betty Lou Wrenn will deliver the valedictory, and Elizabeth Miller, class president, also will speak.

Four short speeches based on "United States Work for a Just and Lasting Peace" will be featured at Coolidge High School, where 193 will be graduated at 8 p. m. Speakers will be Irving Cooper, "In the Federated World;" Carol Brooks, "Hand in Hand With South America;" Herbert Gorin, "On the Economic Front;" and Antoinette Call, "Through Education." The valedictory address will be given by Ruth Cooper. Marjorie Read will sing "Morning Meditation" by Speaks, while Betty Mork will recite "High Flight," poem by Aviator John G. Magee.

At Central High School, where 240 will be graduated at 4 p. m., Donald Loyd will deliver the valedictory. Also participating will be William Wallop, class president, welcome address; Gwendolyn Warren, piano solo; Barbara Gill, class history, and Elizabeth Armes, class poem. Boise L. Bristor, board of education statistician, will present diplomas.

In the absence of Morris Rosenberg, Domenic Pulvirenti will deliver the valedictory at McKinley High School today at 8 p. m. Geraldine Johnson will be salutatorian. Presiding officer will be Dr. Chester W. Holmes, assistant superintendent of schools.

At Roosevelt High

The valedictorian at Roosevelt High School, where 250 students will be graduated at 4:30 p. m., will be Gloria Halpern. C. Melvin Sharpe of the board of education will be presiding officer.

Addressing 111 graduates at Powell Junior High School, 2 p.m., will be Julia Wann, salutatorian, and Jaqueline Fulton, valedictorian. The major chorus will sing a patriotic cantata, "Song of Victory," by Fletcher. Miss Fulton and Warren Gould will receive the annual American Legion awards, while Benjamin Sheldon and Anna Vick will receive D.A.R. awards.

Robert L. Haycock, acting superintendent of schools, will present diplomas to 324 graduates of Alice Deal Junior High School at 2 p.m. today. George Conant will give the address of welcome, while the valedictory will be delivered by Nancy Groseclose.

Thomas Roberts, specialist in the personnel division, Department of Agriculture, will address 129 students of Francis Junior High School at 10:30 a. m. today. Mildred Tinner will be valedictorian and Vauda Hall, salutatorian. Miss Hall and Marcus Cannady will receive American Legion awards.

Principal speaker at Shaw Junior High School, where 179 will be graduated at 2:30 p. m., will be Mrs. Crystal Bird Fauset, special consultant to the director, OCD.

At graduation exercises at Woodrow Wilson High School last night, 33 awards were made, including a $350 scholarship to Wellesley College to Jean Armstrong, a $300 scholarship to Harvard to Clarence Danford, a regional scholarship to Maynard DeWitt at Lehigh University and a scholarship to Daniel Gold to Princeton.

Scholarships and awards also were made at Eastern High School last night, five of the students winning scholarships to American University. They are Rosalie Corrado, Florence Lyman, Barbara Simmons, Patricia Simmons and Ruth Snyder. David L. Lenarduzzi and Dorothy Eggeling won scholarships to George Washington University.

New Police Band Rehearses In Municipal Center Showroom

Lieut. Charles Benter, director, straightens a few rough spots in the bass section. Left to right, Benter, L. C. Bowers, C. A. Judy and F. W. Springfield

A different sort of line-up appeared in the "showroom" of Municipal Center detective headquarters yesterday as the first Washington police band rehearsed under Lieut. Charles Benter (U. S. N., retired).

The ideal choice for organizing the District's newest band, Lieutenant Benter was founder of the famed United States Navy Band in 1918 and whips up the same enthusiasm among his police recruits which he drew from servicemen two decades ago.

The sounds that emanate from the showroom are like nothing the Police Department ever heard before—and it's sweet music to their ears. In between strains of "The Bowery" and service songs, comes the booming voice of Lieutenant Benter—"All right, soft now. . . . Sock those notes out. . . . Let's hit it. . . . Come on, just like we know how."

Proud of Achievement

"The Metropolitan Police Band marching down Pennsylvania Avenue," he prophesied, as the boys went into "Military Escort" while Maj. Edward J. Kelly and other police officers beamed at the prospect. They were all tremendously proud of their coming band, which managed to do a topnotch job, although yesterday's was merely their third rehearsal. Amateurs for the most part, none of the men had ever played together before—and the majority of them had never even met before they answered Major Kelly's call for musicians.

The band, 35 strong, was formed at the suggestion of Commissioner John Russell Young to Major Kelly. Attempts to gather together a similar group had been made on many occasions, but the current aggregation is the first to be informed. The men rehearse twice weekly for two hours on their own time.

Aid to Morale

Commented Major Kelly: "It will be a great help in morale building among the men and, I believe, will result in the creation of good will between police officers and the public."

"It will be as good as any band in town," Leader Benter asserted, adding that he expected they would be ready for a public debut in about four months.

But there's one drawback—instruments. "We need everything," said Benter, appealing to future listeners of the band to contribute instruments or funds to aid the project. Some of the men are using their own instruments, while others were obtained from pawnshops and the like, but some of the bandsmen must sit by, merely reading the music they would play had they the wherewithal.

Ballerina Says Garden Helps Form as Well as War Effort

VAN DEN BERG

Atty Van Den Berg, beauteous ballerina who will appear tonight with the National Symphony Orchestra at the Potomac Watergate, said yesterday that she cultivates a victory garden to keep in dancing form as well as help her country win the war.

A dark-eyed girl from The Hague who defied her mother's plans for her to become a school teacher, Miss Van Den Berg was interviewed soon after her arrival at the Raleigh Hotel. She spoke freely on subjects that ranged all the way from jitterbug dancing, which she likes to watch but considers too strenuous for herself despite years of ballet training, to a description of the "lovely vegetables growing in my New York garden."

The 26-year-old dancer, who smiled often under her veil and swayed the azure blue feather on her hat as she spoke, commented: "I think facial expression is just as important as the way in which a dancer moves the rest of her body. For example, I am going to give 'The Prodigal Daughter' on the program tonight. It is one of my own creations and is definitely on the humorous side. I try in pantomime to give some idea of the many adventures through which the heroine goes before she finally reaches the happy ending."

Reminiscing on her past career, Miss Van Den Berg recalled that she made up her childish mind at eight years after the first dancing lesson to go on the stage. "Mother was determined that I should be a dignified school teacher. But she wanted me to be happy. So I finally won out." She began professional appearances at 14 years, toured Europe many times, made three cross-country tours of America before coming here to live four years ago.

Mrs. Cora Van Den Berg, the ballerina's mother, sat silently while the talented daughter gave highlights of her career. Then she added: "It broke my heart when Atty insisted on becoming a professional dancer. But now, I've changed my mind. Maybe she wouldn't have been as good at school teaching, anyway."

Victory Sidelights

Army Planes 'Bomb' Capital, Other Cities in Air Attack Drill

Simulated bombing attacks were carried out on Washington and other nearby cities yesterday by low-flying Army medium bombers which then flew on to Langley Field, Va., for actual bombing practice.

Fighter planes took to the air to "intercept" the bombers while antiaircraft crews took aim at the "invaders" but held their fire.

The bombers took off from an undisclosed base at 10 a. m., flew over the Atlantic and swept in to make their attacks. The morning drill lasted until 11:30 a. m. Other cities "attacked" were Philadelphia and Newport News, Va.

Flowers Needed

Flowers are needed to brighten the rooms of wounded men at Walter Reed Hospital and the Naval Medical Center at Bethesda, Edwin D. Sampson, founder of Flowers for Cheer, an organization dedicated to this service, announced yesterday.

Flowers sent to these two hospitals will be received by the Gray Ladies of the American Red Cross. Donors are asked to notify the women in advance so arrangements may be made for distribution.

Nursing League to Meet

The District League of Nursing Education will meet tomorrow at 8 p. m. at the Medical Society Auditorium, 1718 M Street Northwest, to receive a report on the national convention of the league, held recently.

Legislators' Names Enter Viereck Case

Congress Target For Propaganda Publishing Firm, Hauck Testifies

The names of Senators and Representatives entered the records of District Court yesterday, as Federal Prosecutor George A. McNulty demonstrated how American legislators were circularized with isolationist, anti-British publications printed by Flanders Hall, the publishing house subsidized and controlled, without knowledge by the State Department, by German agent George Sylvester Viereck.

Under questioning, Sigfrid H. Hauck, 28-year-old former manager of Flanders Hall now employed in an airplane plant, told the court that Prescott Dennett (now awaiting trial under a Federal conspiracy indictment) had been hired by Viereck to handle a publicity campaign directed at Congress.

Hauck identified a letter written him by Dennett, boasting that one Senator had promised to "see how he could use the Congressional Record" for insertion of Flanders Hall material. Another letter from Dennett stated that former Congressman Martin L. Sweeney (Democrat) of Ohio, described as "a fighting 100 per cent American," would introduce a "complete address" in the Record "which will give you more publicity."

A group of eight letters was introduced into the testimony from legislators who had written the "publicity man," commending a Flanders Hall publication. However, Prosecutor McNulty pointed out, many of the writers were unaware that Viereck was behind the Flanders Hall venture and that some of the books they were receiving through Dennett's publicity activities were prepared from manuscripts written by the agent.

Writers of the letters were identified as Representative Fred Bradley (Republican) of Michigan, Representative Usher L. Burdick (Republican) of North Dakota, Senator Pat McCarran (Democrat) of Nevada, Representative John M. Coffee (Democrat) of the State of Washington, former Representative George H. Tinkham (Republican) of Massachusetts, and others. McNulty maintained that their favorable comments had been "extracted" from them through "camouflage" of the material they were sent.

Challenged by the defense on Viereck's right to withhold his identity with the publishing company, McNulty declared that the issue "is whether Viereck willfully camouflaged his activities when he registered with the Secretary of State" as a foreign agent. All decisions of the outfit were known to and approved by him, Hauck said of his former employer.

Such legislators as Representative at Large Stephen A. Day (Republican) of Illinois and former Senator Rush D. Holt of West Virginia actually entered into negotiations with Flanders Hall to have their books published, the witness revealed, but subsequently, because of "adverse publicity," withdrew the arrangement. Day had offered to furnish a mailing list for circulation of his book, according to the testimony, while Holt had sent Hauck a check and note each for $500 to cover initial printing costs and editorial work. But despite various deals of this nature, the two largest purchasers of Flanders Hall books were the German Library of Information and Viereck, himself, Hauck told the court.

The defendant smiled modestly as Defense Attorney Leo A. Rover, through persistent questioning, elicited from Hauck an admission that he had at one time written Viereck that he considered him "the foremost poet in America today." He had at the time "honestly espoused the cause of nonintervention in the war, Hauck stated, but following Pearl Harbor had abandoned such views.

With the completion of Hauck's testimony yesterday, witnesses scheduled for today are Thomas H. Morgan, FBI accountant, who is expected to give a picture of Flanders Hall's financial setup, and Dr. Werner Ellinger, who will compare the contents of books published by Viereck's outfit with several put out by the German Information Office in Berlin.

Columbia 'Tech' Graduates 250; Many in Services

The Columbia Technical Institute held its graduation exercises last night at the Statler Hotel. The speaker was Dr. Harold O. Hofmeyr of the government of the Union of South Africa.

Of the 250 students scheduled to receive diplomas, 100 were missing at the exercises either because of service in the armed forces or night shifts of Government work.

The school's honorary diploma was awarded to Edward A. Hyde, architectural engineer. Assisting Dr. Hofmeyr in awarding the diplomas were H. Gordon Malcolm, Francis X. Leverone, and Misses Loys Blake, Mary Myers, Irene Notter, Mrs. Madeline Lutz and Mrs. Jean Hammett.

Pass the Ice

By Jeanne Contini

"With the heat sizzling like ham and eggs on the sidewalk this is a fine time to be thinking about a winter coat!" Well, it is. Particularly if you skate along on the brink of a narrow budget.

Having paid the second installment on your income taxes, you just about have time to catch your breath before the collector of internal revenue starts slicing 20 per cent from your salary to protect you from yourself. This plus victory tax plus social security, plus war bonds is bound to reduce your cash on hand to a shadow of its former size. Consequently when it does turn cold again (and believe it or not, it will) you won't want to dish out all at once what it takes to buy a winter coat.

The magnificent disregard of the wholesale market for logical timing enables you to get a comprehensive preview of fall and winter styles right now. Most stores have long-term payment plans whereby, for a small deposit, they will hold your choice in a demothed, refrigerated compartment until you are ready to wear it out. After which you pay off by installments instead of through the nose.

This year's candidate for the coat Hall of Fame is the wool box-coat with a fur lining. It is warm, nonperishable, and perfect over your suits. Having the fur on the inside gives a sense of luxury more profound than a dozen white fox capes.

A knockout in the fur-lined category is a wine-red, pure wool chesterfield whose insides are cozily upholstered with silver muskrat (a pretty, soft fur that won't wear out until you bite holes in it). It comes also in green, brown or black and is first-class value . . . about $118 plus tax. For information, call National 4200, extension 324.

Well, as one manufacturer said to another—"Vacation, phooey. Why June, July, August—and the summer's over."

THE GENTLER SEX

By Malvina Lindsay

Kicking the Cat

I

Oh things are going grievously,
My whole life is upset,
I can't buy steak and now my tax
Is running me in debt.

II

Now who can be to blame for this,
It couldn't by myself!
And it must be someone easier reached
Than a gremlin or an elf.

III

If at Hitler I could take a swing,
I might regain my self command,
But he's far beyond my flabby reach,
I must find someone close at hand.

IV

Ah there I see an angry mob,
I'll join it right off!
A Congressman shouts "Tallyho!"
The quarry is a "prof."

V

Down with the dreamers, theorists too!
I'm on the scent of blood,
Its due to them and all their kind
I've missed my daily spud.

VI

And yonder is a shooting t...ong,
The pigeons are of clay,
What fun to blast at all those birds!
They're labeled OPA.

VII

And since I am still full of fight,
And no table leg is nigh,
I'll fell another to the ground,
That smart aleck OWI.

VIII

Bring on your alphabets in full,
I never liked their sound,
I'll join with Congress in the chase,
And run them underground.

IX

There's also left the bureaucrats
(Hitler beat me to the Jews)
But I'll let off steam by making them
The butt of my abuse.

X

And Congress is a lousy lot
(The ones not on my side)
Yes turn them out and let us have
Some even more pie-eyed.

XI

Then there are all the various "theys"
To blame for food and gasoline,
And rubber, coal and fuel oil,
I'll vent on them my spleen.

XII

I'm going stronger all the time,
I'll take on the warriors bold,
The brass hats and the generals,
I never liked their gold.

XIII

And still things go from bad to worse
Yet who is there left to fight,
For Roosevelt is such old stuff,
And Wilkie's also trite?

XIV

Perhaps there'll be a change of scene
New targets for my fire,
New enemies to absorb my gall,
And save Hitler from my ire.

Mary Haworth's Mail

After Nine Years' Loving and Happy Relationship With Step-Daughter, Now 17, Woman Is Stumped By Quarrel That Developed Over Disreputable Suitor

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am one of those horrible characters portrayed in books,—known as a step-mother. Next to being President, I guess it is the most thankless job a person can undertake. I didn't stop to think what a serious task I was undertaking, when I got married. I was engaged to another man and we were to be married in two weeks, when I met my husband and he swept me off my feet. We were married in a few short months. Although I have never regretted my choice in a mate, I sometimes wonder if I were wise.

To get back to the problem, his youngest child (a girl) was eight when we married. There were five children in all,—a boy then 12 and three who were grown. This girl was a dear little thing and one couldn't help loving her. I often thought that if it were possible to have a daughter of my own, I couldn't have loved her more. Also, she even told me once, when she was quite small, that she loved me, too. This little girl is now 17; and after we had been getting along beautifully for nine years, she and I have had our first fuss,—over a school boy the same age. She now admits she cared nothing about him, except as a friend.

I objected to him because he was here every night, staying until 2 and 3 a. m. And when he was here, half the time he was stretched out on the couch or glider, with his head in her lap. For one thing, it didn't look well; and for another thing, it deprived the rest of the family of a place to sit. Also, he wouldn't allow her to go out with other boys; and I would hear her making excuses to him, for going several places without him. After she took up with him, she started changing right away; and never came home until 6 in the evening. I heard from a teacher at her school that she would have been on the honor roll this year, if it hadn't been for him. Frankly, I was worried,—for when a boy has so much influence over a girl that she succumbs to his every wish, anything is likely to happen.

Always Made a Point Of Being Kind to Girl

We asked her to ask him not to come here quite so often; but she must have been afraid of him, because he kept on coming. Then one night I told him to go home. And I hinted in a thousand ways that we didn't want his company every night. In fact, I did everything but forbid her to go out with him. Being a step-mother, I felt I couldn't do that,—as I have never told her she could not do anything. Well, when we had the fuss, she told me that I insulted everyone who came into the house. That hurt more than anything she said. I cried all that night and until noon the next day; but now I am through crying. I have gone out every night since then, to keep out of the way of her and her friends.

I guess that is the wrong attitude; but that is the way I feel. If it were only myself who disapproved of the boy, I might think I was entirely at fault. But everyone in the family, and even her girl friends, also dislike him. When I got married, I was so afraid of being branded a story-book "step-mother," (the cruel type), that I have probably gone to the other extreme. In fact, several people have told me I was too good to her. I have never asked her to do a bit of housework; and I have gone without things I have badly needed, lots of times, to buy things for her,—such as music lessons, jewelry, etc. I was so much hurt by her accusation that I offered to leave, if that would make her happy. But her father seems to have a better opinion of me than she does. Thank you in advance for advice.

WORRIED.

Don't Make Too Much Of Step-Mother Status

DEAR WORRIED: It is well for you to realize, first off, that even if this girl were your "own daughter," you might have had just such a painful "run in" with her, over an undesirable boy friend,—after having enjoyed a consistently happy relationship with her, previous to the boy's appearance as "the fly in the ointment." The fact of your step-mother status merely makes this situation somewhat more delicate and difficult to manage wisely. It is a fairly typical specimen of "family crisis" growing out of the moot universal "problems of adolescence."

The next point to realize is the importance of YOUR behaving like an adult throughout the crisis,—a principle you have failed to observe since your "feelings" were "hurt" by the girl's unfairly accusatory outburst. In offering to "leave" the home, if that would make her happy, you were transiently indulging in the same childish emotionalism that characterized her spitfire display of resentment. And your subsequent performance in being out of the house every night since then, "to keep out of the way of her and her friends," is cut from the same piece of cloth, and is a sulky, non-constructive, "chip-on-shoulder" bit of business which tends to perpetuate a quarrel that you, in your presumably greater wisdom and understanding, should have been openly ready to "drop" at the first hint of softening on her part,—without, of course, yielding your well founded objection to the loutish lad who caused it.

To Command Situation, Be Generous in Thought

If you would be spiritually mistress of this situation, you must put aside any thought or feeling of being personally "wronged" by the girl's attitude; and must above all resist the childish tendency to think back, bitterly, "on all you have done for her,"—only to have her figuratively "bite your hand" today. You must keep in mind that your position in the situation is sound and irreproachable; whereas hers is untenable and definitely censurable;—and that therefore you can easily afford to be completely generous with her, in working toward a better understanding, and in trying to help her over this ignominious infatuation with a thoroughly disreputable associate.

My advice to you is to turn quite simply (though confidentially) to her father for instruction and leadership in steering a personally "right" course through this crisis. Not in a petty spirit, you understand; not in a spirit of indignation, as though seeking a champion; nor in a spirit of despair, as seeking consolation. Rather, the idea should be: "John, you know how much I love Mary Ann; and how much I have wanted her to love me as a mother. But after all, I am only her step-mother, and perhaps too conscious of the fact; so that I feel very unsure of myself, in this matter of trying to rescue her, against her wishes, from that perfectly impossible Joe Doakes. Mary Ann's mad with me, as you know; and I was mad with her too, for a while, until I came to my senses and realized I wasn't meeting the situation as it should be met, from the 'mother' angle."

Time for Girl's Father To Come to the Rescue

Then go on to explain: "But the truth is, John, I just don't quite know HOW to cope. And I wouldn't have Mary Ann think I was 'plotting' with you,—in a conspiracy to 'manage' her for her own good,—for anything. But WHAT do you think we ought to do? I have been thinking that maybe you, as her very own flesh-and-blood, could do a lot more for her just now than I can; and pull us all out of the soup. I am going to do my very best to make friends with Mary Ann again, so that she will know I love her no matter what our differences; but, on the other hand, it worries me to think she might feel I was running up the white flag where Joe Doakes is concerned. And John, we simply CAN'T have it on our collective conscience to stand by and let that lovely child go on wasting herself and her wonderful possibilities on that dreadful boy. So, frankly, I am herewith passing the buck to you. And if you'll just plot us a course and tell me what my part is, I will follow through and never falter. Mine not to reason why; mine but to do or die, in this dilemma. Lead on, Horatius!" Etc. M. H.

Miss Haworth will be glad to help you in solving your problems. Write her in care of The Post Woman's Page.

Tiny Electric Light A Great Medical Ally

By Logan Clendening, M.D.

THE electric light was a great invention and when they made electric lamps small enough so that they would go into any part of the body, the medical world started something which certainly would have surprised the fathers of medicine of 75 years ago.

Of course, 75 years ago the medical fathers had more or less gotten used to being able to see up the nose and into the ear and down the throat and into the back of the eye, but they had never conceived of an electric light connected with a series of mirrors in a tube so small that it would go down into the stomach and be able to reveal the entire surface of that organ.

The instrument which examines the stomach (the gastroscope) is only the latest of the many electrically lighted instruments which have been devised to explore the cavities of the body. I have no doubt that some day—even before I die—somebody will have an electric instrument that will go down along a hair follicle and watch the hair grow.

As a matter of fact, this is not at all impossible and reminds us of the old sneer of one of the men who, when the stethoscope was first introduced into England, wanted to know whether you could put one end to the ground and the other to your ear and hear the grass grow.

The whole group of these instruments are called endoscopes and the science is called endoscopy, but it doesn't mix. Every man has to specialize in his own form of endoscope and to ask an oculist, who looks at the back of your eye with an ophthalmoscope, to interpret what he would see in the stomach with a gastroscope would be to make a lifelong enemy of him. In fact, the mere suggestion would probably throw him into shock.

They are wonderful little gadgets, but it takes the specialist at the other end to interpret what he sees. In other words, the most important part about Johnny at the rat-hole is not the rat-hole but Johnny.

They fascinate me and some of my younger friends are kind enough to allow me to take a look occasionally through one of their instruments. For instance, one is called the peritoneoscope, which has saved many a person from operation. It is used to look at the organs inside the abdomen.

All the surgeon has to do is to give the patient a local anesthetic, make a small hole in the skin of the abdomen under aseptic conditions, put in the peritoneoscope, turn on the light and look around. It hurts very little—not one-thousandth time as much as a regular operation on the abdomen—and the information which the surgeon gets is often enough to prevent any further operative procedure or to indicate just how much should be done.

When, as I say, some of my younger friends are kind enough to let me look through one of these things, I have the greatest confidence in what they see, but all I see myself is something that looks kind of red and bubbly and shiny, so I am afraid I will never get much advantage out of the instrument to poke down a hair follicle and watch the hair grow.

Martha Ellyn's Platter Chatter

By Martha Ellyn

Martha Ellyn

Consider the bean when you want to make a nutritious salad to serve these hot summer days. Beans are not only a worthy food because of their nutritive value but they are not expensive as the price of foods go now.

Green beans are plentiful now and do not wreck the budget to buy several pounds of them. Kidney beans, both dried and canned also make an appealing salad. Of course you have to use points to buy dried and canned ones but the result is worth the expenditure.

Cold cuts such as tongue, ham and salami will fill the bill for the meat on your menu. The bean salad will team up with cold meat in a big way. Here is a suggested menu using bean salad.

Get out your salad bowl and mix up an appealing salad concocted from kidney beans, sweet pickles, hard-cooked eggs and celery. This type of salad is not only easy to make but is very nutritious. Cooked green beans may also be used to make an excellent hot-weather dish.

Dinner Menu

Cold Cuts Bean Salad
Buttered Carrots
Bran Muffins Jam
Fresh Pineapple and Strawberries
Hot or Iced Tea

Following are the directions for making the bean salads:

STRING BEAN SALAD

Cook 1 pound string beans. Drain them. Saute 4 slices bacon. Remove the bacon and mince it. Add to the drippings in the skillet ½ cup mild vinegar and ½ teaspoon paprika. Add the minced bacon. Heat these ingredients. Add salt if needed. Combine the dressing with the beans. Chill in refrigerator. One half cup chopped onion may be sauteed in the bacon fat before the vinegar is added. Herbs may be added.

You will have to decide if you want to use canned kidney beans or the dried ones. If it is the canned ones you use then all you have to do is open the can and get busy with the other ingredients. But when dried beans are used they must first be soaked, then cooked. They should be cooked no longer than to be kept firm though completely done. Then make the salad in this way:

KIDNEY BEAN SALAD

Drain beans thoroughly. Hard-cook 2 eggs. Dice 4 sweet pickles. Dice 2 stalks celery and 1 medium-sized onion. Combine all these ingredients. Add salt to taste. Mix thoroughly with cooled salad dressing or mayonnaise. Do not use too much dressing; just enough to moisten the ingredients.

Market Report On Vegetables And Fruits

This is the second successive week which has found potatoes at the top of the vegetable list. The market reporter, Food Distribution Administration, says there are liberal supplies of very good potatoes in the wholesale market . . . prices remain at the ceiling. Several other vegetables are in liberal supply this week—greens, such as spinach, kale, collards, turnip tops and mustard greens . . . also bunch vegetables like beets, turnips and spring onions. All these are excellent in quality and reasonable in price. There's plenty of both yellow and white summer squash at moderate price, but the quality is variable.

Moderate supplies of snap beans are coming from nearby producing areas and these will probably increase during the week. No change in price. The same is true of cabbage, which is good news to most people, since cabbage can be used many ways, both raw and cooked.

Asparagus, carrots, broccoli and sweet corn are rather scarce right now, and also expensive, though quality is good. More sweet corn should be arriving soon from North Carolina. Green peas are light in supply and only fair in quality.

The first New York State celery has just arrived in market. It's very good, but also in higher price brackets. As for lettuce, you'll find plenty Eastern iceberg, of fair to good quality, reasonably priced; the Western iceberg is scarce, of variable quality and high in price. You can find good tomatoes for salad bowl, however, . . . not in the canning variety, but very good eating. Prices remain about the same on the best quality. Radishes, another bowl addition, are plentiful and reasonable.

The summer fruit story, with one exception, follows the theme of light supply and high prices. This applies to cantaloupes, watermelons, strawberries black raspberries, Western cherries and plums, blackberries and peaches. All but the peaches are excellent in quality, however. Cultivated blueberries are the exception that proves the rule . . . you'll find a liberal supply if you're prepared to pay the price.

Oranges and grapefruit also are scarce, though the quality is fair to good. You can get your vitamin C from lemons and limes, however, because you'll find good supplies of both, at the ceiling price.

Whether you class rhubarb as a fruit or a vegetable, there's plenty still to be had at a moderate price.

RATION POINTS

FROZEN FOOD CEILING PRICES for the 1943 pack will be about the same as current maximums for the 1942 pack, according to O P A. Frozen asparagus and strawberries, however, will increase in price—asparagus about 1 cent a pound and strawberries 3 or 4 cents.

Jobs of Many Kinds Are Available to Women In Capital's Hotels, Cafes and Laundries

This is the first of a series of articles dealing with employment opportunities for women and children in the District of Columbia. Tomorrow's story will the school girls' and boys' angle.

By Genevieve Reynolds

Overshadowing the cry and demand for more typists and stenographers is the pressing need for dieticians, hostesses, waitresses and counter girls for hotels, restaurants and cafeterias. Termed essential civilian wartime work, there is a definite shortage in this line, according to Miss Kathryn N. Fox, Chief, Divisions of Recruitment, United States Employment Service for the District of Columbia.

GENEVIEVE REYNOLDS

"Here then is a definite place where housewives with a few hours leisure time can contribute to the war effort," she explained. "The Government cafeterias as well as private agencies will take part time workers, but of course prefer full time employes when possible."

Further delving into the job openings available in the District, Miss Fox revealed that the laundries and dry cleaning establishments also need washers, ironers, sorters, sprinklers, etc.

"So great is the need for typists and stenographers—especially the latter—that the Government will employ part-time workers," said Miss Fox. "Even private industry and business is beginning to think in terms of temporary and part-time work."

While there are many openings for women in war plants, the Government hesitates to take on temporary or part-time workers. A visit to the War Production Training Center, Ninth and H Streets Southwest, run by the United States Government through the District of Columbia Employment Center under the auspices of the board of education, revealed openings for more women. There women are trained to operate lathes and to do welding. When the man or woman completes his or her training—no salary while learning—placements are found in the Navy Yard or other war production plants in and near Washington.

Shortage of Men

J. A. Super, principal of the school (War Training Center), who conducted me on a tour of the shop, explained that in addition to welding, the center trains workers in machine shop, drafting, aircraft sheet metal work and radio maintenance, repair and communications.

With the Signal Corps nabbing all the men trained in radio, there is a big opening in that branch for women. Nearby radio plants in Maryland can use trained radio women workers. Also you will find openings at the Naval Hospital Center in Bethesda Md.

"Women artists, architects, interior decorators, can use their art training by diverting it to drafting," said Mr. Super. "Training classes go around the clock in four or eight-hour shifts. So a woman who wants to learn welding, radio, drafting or sheeting, should find some convenient hour during the day or night to learn a trade."

At the center you will find women from 16 to 60 working at the welding machines. There's a former fashion editor of a well known magazine, housewives, beauty operators, school teachers and people from all other walks of life."

Places for the Handicapped

But back to the over-all employment problem in the District, K. Vernon Banta, Director of the United States Employment Service for the District of Columbia, declared: "Only unplaceables now are among those who make specific demands regarding certain types of jobs. Even those with physical handicaps can find employment."

He admitted that at present there are many people being laid off in construction work, but so far they are being placed in other types of work.

Should you have no hankering for restaurant jobs, welding, radio or typists, there is still store work—saleswomen are being sought daily. Yet it is one type of work that still pays very poorly but does offer temporary and part-time employment.

Your Baby and Mine

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

Picnics always are fun. When the children's appetites wane, because of warmer weather, one can revive an interest in food by serving it out of doors. Picnics and outdoor meals are the special privileges of the summer season and one should take advantage of them.

It makes little difference whether one eats this meal in a park or one's own yard under a tree or just sitting on the back step or at a small table on the screened-in porch. The chief attraction is the picnic-type food and the fascination of taking it out of a small basket or box.

Noon meals served this way have the double advantage of enchanting the children and decreasing the work for the parent. If several of the children's friends can be invited to share the meal, it becomes not only a picnic but a party.

It's no trick at all to boil some eggs hard while one is "doing" the breakfast dishes. Scraps of last night's meal offer material for sandwiches. Tomatoes are easily skinned and slipped into the icebox to cool and a piece of fruit and some cookies or cake or doughnuts make the classic dessert.

Those sandwiches can have fillings made of last night's roast, or finely chopped fresh vegetables, or raisins or peanut butter or celery and pickles—almost anything. Be sure the bread is enriched bread, that there is sufficient coating with butter or fortified margarine and make the fillings moist with salad dressings. Dry sandwiches are no picnic.

If the expedition is no farther away than the backyard, then cup custards or puddings in paper cups can be transported without difficulty, as well as the usual glasses of milk and fruitade.

Children seldom get tired of outdoor meals despite the sameness of the setting. They feel free of the restrictions of adults, with nothing but the blue sky and the grass and trees to dominate them.

From the mother's standpoint the necessity to set a table and wash dirty dishes is avoided. And a meal on the kitchen table, eaten with a paper or magazine at hand, is a picnic for any mother who, as a rule, must censor the children's mealtimes.

Don't measure the children's appetites by what they will eat in the house, for the setting invites loitering until every crumb is gone. Try picnic meals at noon, you'll be enthusiastic, too.

Our leaflet, "Meals for the School Child," will suggest suitable combinations for the picnic lunch. It may be had by sending a 3-cent stamped self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

Do You Know's For Beauty Care

Do you know that pure cosmetics are definitely beneficial to the skin because they provide necessary protection from the elements? . . .

Do you know that hair is not only a part of beauty but is invaluable as a protective covering for the head? . . .

Do you know that poor eyesight is too often merely the result of some systemic disturbance? . . .

Do you know that if you wear eyeglasses, it is even more important to make up the eyes carefully so that your eyes remain the dominant factor? . . .

There's a lot been said about stockings lately—about specifications—about grading—about ideas of professors and about the role the businessman plays.

But—doesn't the average woman depend upon her store for value in stockings as in other things?

Now here are three rayon stockings—

—all full-fashioned!

The professor, we think, would like you to wear this one—

1. Rayon with Cotton toe, sole and heel—a 75 denier, 51 gauge stocking—semi-sheer—in a beautiful gay-heart shade. $1.10 Pair

But mother may want this one—

2. High twist Rayon but heavier looking because 75 denier and 45 gauge. We call it semi-sheer. It has reinforced cotton toe—and O. P. A. tells us to sell it at 92c pair. Sky glo, Sun gay shades. 92c Pair

However—you probably will choose this one—

3. Fine Rayon, cotton reinforced toe—65 denier, 48 gauge (sheerer than the one above); beautiful in sky glo and sun gay—and it is only 98c Pair

Capitol Hill Secretary Finishes Course as Nurse's Aide

Took Training After Duty Hours In Senate Office

Today she will be capped as a nurse's aide, after having completed the 80-hour training course required by the American Red Cross and the Office of Civilian Defense.

So Ann I. Uhrig, secretary of Senator Harold Burton of Ohio, has fully qualified for the roster of "really busy" persons in a busy Capital. After her duties in the senatorial office, which vary from a 44-hour week to a 56-hour week—a Senator's secretary being on call—she has devoted three hours a day three times a week to her nurse's aide training course. Her training was done, of necessity, at night. Last fall she began her course but went back to Ohio for several months. She resumed her training with another class in March and finished two weeks ahead of schedule. From Emergency Hospital, where she was in training, she will go to Walter Reed, where she'll begin to devote the annual 150 hours of duty required—all because she "always wanted to be a nurse" and because she longs for a chance to go overseas and do her part.

A young woman of wide interests, Miss Uhrig has had an active part in a variety of pursuits. In other words, she has borne out the promise that prompted her to be named "Perfect Girl of Cleveland, Ohio" the year she was graduated from high school. Later, she came to Washington to serve as secretary to the late Representative Chester C. Bolton of Ohio. Then she was secretary to John D. Hamilton, former Republican Party chairman, and it was at that time that she was in the group that made the nation-wide trip known as the "first political aerial expeditionary force."

She had her own part in the gigantic trade expansion program of Cleveland when she was secretary to the late C. H. Handerson, director of the program sponsored by the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce. She even had a fling with Government agencies, having been employed at OWI for several months. And after working hours she has found time to become a champion basketball player, skater, swimmer and horseback rider. And now she's a nurse's aide.

Senor Don Carlos Manuel Escalante, the Costa Rican Ambassador, has returned from Kansas City, where he attended the meeting of the Inter-American Institute of the Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Holcomb at Virginia Farm

Mrs. Thomas Holcomb, wife of Lieut. Gen. Holcomb, commandant of the U. S. Marine Corps, is spending a week or so at the Holcomb farm to supervise the victory gardens there.

Having left Washington last Saturday, Mrs. Holcomb will be at Rose Croft, the Holcomb estate in St. Marys, Md., until the latter part of this week. Rose Croft, purchased by the Holcombs a couple of seasons ago, is already producing a full complement of farm materials from victory garden to dairy products.

'What Shall I Say When I Write to My Soldier?'

By Elizabeth Henney

Maybe you're having trouble in thinking up what to say to that soldier of yours way out on the battlefront. When you sit down in the evening after the whirl of the day's troubles and trivialities are over, you just can't seem to think in grand phrases "morale building" ideas.

But maybe you've just never stopped to think what those "morale building" phrases are. They're those little trivialities that happen over and over in the household, but somehow always with a new twist to keep life from boring you to death. And it's those funny little details (not the troubles, or if you do put the troubles in, at least make them sound funny and as if you took them lightly) that bring home so close to that soldier.

It's knowing whether the family cat still has spunk enough to go after the neighbor's dog when it comes prowling into your garden, or whether you got the back fence fixed up this spring or not.

And incidentally when you're writing bravely of how well you're getting along and carrying on, don't overdo it. When you write and tell him about fixing up that fence, be sure to tell him how you whacked your thumb with the hammer in the process. And when he gets that news you can just see him smile and say to himself "well, she's a brave little woman all right, and she's doing a pretty good job, but I guess she really will be glad to have me home again, so we'll just tighten up the belt and get this blamed war over with quick and get back."

In other words he wants to know you're doing all right as things are but he doesn't want to feel that you're doing just as well or better than you would be if he were home. Don't ever forget in your letters that the good old masculine ego needs just a little nourishment now and then, even if "mama" is doing a welding job in an air plant. He certainly wants to know that his own little girl is doing a perfect job in the air factory, but he'd still like to feel that no one could keep the carburetor of the car in order, the lawn mowed and the garden growing as well, or the furnace in such perfect running condition as he would if he were home.

That gives him something concrete to come back to; and incidentally it's something he can think about (the leaky faucet, etc.) in the middle of a tight spot; at a time when letting himself think about how much he wants to come back to you, just you, would be something that would tear him up so emotionally that he can't let himself even begin to dwell on it.

But remember to keep those letters coming, as often as possible, for it isn't possible to overdo the sending of letters to servicemen. Send one a day, anyway, and more, two or three if you can manage it. Don't ever fall into the habit of saying, "but there's really nothing to write about." If there isn't, just spill out your thoughts. Finding something to write about is simply a matter of habit or training, and you can train yourself to it.

Chaplain Alvie D. McKnight of Cleveland, Miss., who had just returned to the United States after five months of duty on Guadalcanal stresses over and over in his speeches since his return, that the soldier needs more and more and more mail. "There is nothing as depressing as seeing a soldier turn away from mail call empty handed.... Something to live for and go back to is what keeps a soldier going. It is what gives a man fight. Home life is everything to the man at the front."

Vallette McNair Is Bride of Lieut. David Boyd in Annapolis

Grace Born Is Wed at Mitchel Field; Mary Lou Whitley Recently Married

Lieut. David Boyd, U. S. N. R., and his bride, the former Miss Vallette McNair, daughter of Capt. Frederick Vallette McNair, U. S. N., retired, and Mrs. McNair of Annapolis, are on their honeymoon in the North and will return to Annapolis the end of this week. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vinton Watkins Boyd of Pittsburgh.

The ceremony on Saturday, June 19, was held in the Naval Academy Chapel at Annapolis with Lieutenant Kuhn, Navy chaplain, officiating. White lilies and smilax were used in decoration.

Captain McNair gave his daughter in marriage. Her gown was of white lace and satin made with a long train and she wore an heirloom lace veil which had been worn by her mother and grandmother at their weddings. She carried a bouquet of white roses and gardenias. Miss Duer McNair, who was her sister's maid of honor, was in white mousseline de soie, the gown fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, and her headdress was of white lilies with white veiling tied in a bow. She carried a small old fashioned bouquet of white roses. Miss Janet McNair, another sister of the bride, was also an attendant and wore a costume similar to that of the maid of honor.

Serving as best man was Maj. Keith McCutcheon, U. S. M. C., and the ushers included Lieut. W. S. Lanterman, Lieut. Daniel Rex, Lieut. Bernard K. Crawford, Lieut. Walter Carlson, Lieut. Edward Zant and Ensign William Millett, all U. S. N. R.

A wedding reception at the home of the bride's parents followed the ceremony. Lieut. Boyd is a graduate of Carnegie Institute of Technology in the 1936 class.

Houghton—Born

At Mitchel Field, N. Y., on Saturday, June 19, Miss Grace Born became the bride of Lieut. Edward G. Houghton, U. S. A., in a 4 o'clock ceremony held in the field chapel, and followed by a reception at the Officers' Club.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Comdr. Arthur S. Born, wore a white marquisette gown made with a full skirt and tight bodice and carried a bouquet of gladioli and baby's breath tied with white tulle. Mrs. H. E. Born, sister-in-law of the bride, was the matron of honor and only attendant. Her frock was of pink marquisette and she carried an old fashioned bouquet of roses and larkspur. Maj. E. S. Cobb served as best man, and the ushers were Lieut. Clifford Randolph and Lieut. R. W. Bendheim. Mrs. Houghton is the sister of Brig. Gen. Charles Franklin Born and Lieut. Howard E. Born, U. S. N.

Hubbert—Whitley

Now at home in Arlington, Va., at 1906 N. Kirkwood Road, are Lieut. and Mrs. Cecil F. Hubbert whose marriage took place last week in Washington.

The former Miss Mary Lou Whitley, daughter of Dr. Sam H. Whitley, president of the East Texas State Teachers College, and Mrs. Whitley, became the bride of Lieutenant Hubbert at an evening ceremony at St. John's Church with the Rev. Howard A. Johnson officiating.

The bride was given in marriage by Frank O. Barden, jr., and was gowned in beige with green and brown accessories. She wore a corsage of violets and talisman roses. Mrs. Henrietta Healey was the matron of honor and Lieut. Allan W. Denny was the best man. Following the ceremony there was a reception at the Hay-Adams House.

The bride was graduated from East Texas State College and attended Peabody College at Nashville, Tenn.

Lieutenant Hubbert was graduated from Southern Methodist University and studied law at Cumberland University, Lebanon, Tenn. He practiced law at Fort Worth, Texas, before his induction into the Army and at present is on duty in the publication division of the Adjutant General's office in Washington.

West Pointer And Bride Make Home at Fort Sill

Now making their home at Fort Sill, Okla., are Lieut. and Mrs. Walter G. Mitchell, jr., whose wedding took place on June 16 in the Walter Reed Memorial Chapel. Chaplain Richard Braunstien officiated at the 4 o'clock ceremony.

The bride is the former Miss Jeanne Kathryn Sorenson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Sorenson of Washington, and her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter G. Mitchell of Takoma Park, Md. She was given in marriage by her father in the military rites.

The bride wore a white satin gown made with a sweetheart neckline trimmed in Chantilly lace, long sleeves and a full-length train. Her veil of illusion was shirred to a Juliet cap of Chantilly lace and she carried a shower bouquet of white roses and stephanotis.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Walter M. Bastian, jr., a sister of the bride. Her dress was of aquamarine lace and tulle and she wore a Juliet cap of matching aquamarine lace. Her arm spray was of Talisman roses. Miss Carol Mitchell, sister of the bridegroom, was the other honor attendant, wearing a similar dress of lace and tulle in rose and carrying a spray of Johanna Hill roses.

Lieut. (j. g.) Walter M. Bastian, jr., served as best man and the ushers were Lieut. Jonas Blank, Lieut. Walter Magathan, Lieut. William Calman, Lieut. John Moses, Lieut. John McNiel, and Lieut. Lawrence Swank, all of the Army. Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Oregon Avenue home of the bride's parents.

The bride was graduated from Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill., and Lieut. Mitchell was a June graduate of the United States Military Academy.

Gen. and Mrs. B. F. Cheatham of Stratford Hall, Va., are at the Mayflower Hotel for a few days.

June Strohm Wed to Lieut. Flanders

Ceremony Takes Place in St. Anne's Episcopal Church In Annapolis, Md.

At a 5 o'clock ceremony in St. Anne's Episcopal Church Saturday in Annapolis, Miss June Lockwood Strohm became the bride of Lieut. James F. Flanders, jr., M. C., U. S. N. R.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Stromh of Annapolis, and Lieutenant Flanders is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Flanders of Dublin, Ga. Officiating at the ceremony was Chaplain Allan A. Zaun and a reception followed at the home of the bride's parents.

Mr. Strohm gave the bride in marriage. She was costumed in white marquisette over taffeta. Her finger-tip length veil was held with a coronet of marquisette and pearls and she carried a bonquet of sweet peas and gardenias. Matron of honor was Mrs. R. G. O'Connell, wearing pale green marquisette with matching coronet hat and carrying talisman roses. Bridesmaids were Miss Margaret Ann Black, Miss Mary Elizabeth Gilmour and Mrs. A. B. Clark. They were attired in yellow costumes. Lieut. Donald P. McDonnell was best man and ushers included Lieut. James T. Mason, Lieut. Ralph R. Snowbell, Lieut. Gewin Tucker, Lieut. Maurice Royalty, Lieut. Paul Sunderland, and Lieut. F. Claibourn Beattie.

Following a wedding trip to New York the couple will make their home in Annapolis. The bridegroom is a graduate of Georgia Military School, Mercer University and the University of Georgia School of Medicine.

Poetry Is Discussed At Tea Party

There was no idle chatter—but a serious discussion, going on over the tea cups yesterday as Ellen Wood, poetess, gathered a little group together at the Shoreham Terrace. Definitely it was a party with a purpose.

The purpose, according to the hostess, is to do something about the average layman who has a "fear" of poetry. Ellen Wood would like to put over the idea that poetry is a vital thing; that it's not something only to be enjoyed or understood only by a specialist who has taken a course in the development of understanding. Poetry speaks a universal language, Ellen Wood believes. It may be written in Chinese, Arabic, Spanish, In the end it is the same. There's a type of poetry for each mind, too, says Ellen Wood, and finding that the seeker of beauty and expression has found the key to a new world.

Ellen Wood gave particular thought in selecting her guests yesterday. Finally, those five "minds" with superior capabilities turned out to be Mme. Robert Tsonhynin Huang, whose book of Chinese folk music translated into English is to come off the presses in the fall; Mrs. Thomas Moran, wife of Captain Moran, U. S. N., a serious thinker; Senora de Danis, wife of the Minister-Attache of the Spanish Embassy, Miss Margaret R. Lane and Mm. Chen Shih-hsing.

Comparative trends in world poetry came up for discussion among the group and much of the conversation was devoted to the works of Mme. Li H'Ing Chao, famous Chinese poetess of the Sung dynasty, and Gabriela Mistrial, outstanding poetess and educator of Chile.

Miss Houghteling Is Widely Feted Before Wedding

Miss Margaret Stuyvesant Houghteling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Lawrence Houghteling, whose marriage to Capt. David McLean Greeley, Medical Corps, U. S. A., will take place on Saturday, will be guest of honor at a luncheon to be given on Friday at the 1925 F Street Club by Miss Carolyn Nash.

Mr. and Mrs. Houghteling will entertain at dinner Friday evening for their daughter and her fiance, members of the wedding party and out-of-town guests and a small group of Washington friends of the young couple. Other parties at which the bride-to-be and Captain Greeley have been honor guests include those given by Lady Lewis and her son, Lieut. John Hull, and Dr. and Mrs. William B. Marbury and their daughter, Miss Lucy Marbury. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Finkenstaedt will have the out-of-town guests at a buffet luncheon on Saturday preceding the wedding, which will take place at 5:30 o'clock.

Miss Louise Houghteling will be her sister's maid of honor and the bridesmaids will be Mrs. James L. Houghteling, jr., Mrs. Philip M. Kaiser, Mrs. Eugene V. Connett 4th, the two latter, sisters of the bridegroom. Ensign H. McLean Greeley, U. S. N. R., brother of the bridegroom, will be best man and the ushers include Philip M. Kaiser, Lieut. Eugene V. Connett 4th, Pvt. James L. Houghteling, jr., and Frederick D. Houghteling.

Some Senate Wives Wait for Adjournment; Others Vacation

Mrs. Millard Tydings at Farm; Mrs. Austin Gardening in Vermont

By Martha Rhyne

To adjourn or not to adjourn—that's the Number One issue facing Congress at this time. And the hopes, fears and doubts of the Senate wives hang in the balance since vacation plans for them depend upon the decision.

Some of the Senate ladies have voted their own adjournment and are already home. Mrs. George Aiken, who is seldom in Washington anyway, is at home in Vermont, as is Mrs. Guy Gillette in Iowa.

"Up on the farm" at Havre de Grace, Md., is Mrs. Millard Tydings with her hands full of farm management. The Senator is at home, too, and commutes each day to and from his senatorial duties. He's most enthusiastic about his farm, which last year produced 240,000 cans of corn, 40 per cent of which was commandeered by the Government; 4000 pounds of beef cattle, 75 hogs, 300 turkeys, 400 tons of hay and 2000 bushels of field corn. And he hopes that this year's record will surpass even that. Incoming and outgoing trains he finds crowded but on time.

Mrs. Warren Austin Is Cultivating Garden

In their lovely old home in Burlington, Vt., are Senator and Mrs. Warren R. Austin. Though he'll be back to work soon, the Senator is enjoying his favorite pastime, looking over his orchard, while Mrs. Austin will remain for the summer and cultivate her gardens, which form a beautiful picture from the large porch in front of the Austin home.

Down South in Raleigh, N. C., is Mrs. Josiah W. Bailey, who left the Senator to his legislative duties while she vacations. And down in Jasper, Ala., at the Bankhead home and near Summer Lodge is Mrs. John H. Bankhead 2d. Senator and Mrs. Alben Barkley, who have been in Hot Springs, Ark., while the Senator was recuperating from a recent illness, have returned to Paducah, Ky., where Mrs. Barkley will spend the summer. Home in Dexter, Me., a small New England town, is Mrs. Ralph O. Brewster. Mrs. "Happy" Chandler is on the West Coast but hopes to meet the Senator in Kentucky for a short vacation when, as and if the adjournment. Mrs. Henry Cabot Lodge, jr., is already vacationing in her suburban home in Beverly, Mass., near Boston.

The Senator, having no campaign to make last summer, remained in Washington all last year, but this year Mrs. Charles O. Andrews vows that whether "school keeps" or not, they'll be enjoying a Florida vacation and a visit in Highlands, N. C.

Mrs. Joseph H. Ball will be right here at her Porter Street home for the summer holding down the "home front" for her busy husband, who will go on a speaking tour on the West Coast in July. Daughter Jenifer, 18, and son Peter, 10, will be away at summer camp, but the baby daughter Sarah and her mother will be here.

Mrs. Bennett Champ Clark is as "undecided" as is Congress over the vacation situation, but Mrs. D. Worth Clark says emphatically that she "certainly is going to spend the summer in Washington. The Senator is in Idaho on a business trip, but Mrs. Clark, not having a house in Boise, decided to remain here and properly attend to her Victory garden, which she readily admits is a good one—and big Daughter Nancy Lee will work this summer and continue her duties in the auxiliary, A. W. V. S., and the other two children will be in Washington.

Senator, Mrs. Connally To Visit Texas

Two homes has Mrs. Tom Connally and she and the Senator will visit both in Marfin, Tex., and Texarkana when, as and if—

Mrs. Allen J. Ellender is counting the days until their return to Louisiana and a small town named Houma, just 30 miles from the Gulf of Mexico.

With her fingers crossed, Mrs. Homer Ferguson is hoping for a vacation and vows she'll go to Detroit as soon as possible if the Senator can get away. Of course, Senator Ferguson is on the Truman Committee, which means he is on call at any time. But still, Mrs. Ferguson has hope. Mrs. W. Lee O'Daniel will remain in Washington if the Senator from Texas does but will go back to Texas if that adjournment comes about.

Thursday Mrs. Robert M. La Follette, jr., will leave for Madison for a quiet summer at home.

But with Mrs. Burton K. Wheeler as with many, "It all depends."

Mrs. Webb Returns

Mrs. Jesse Lee Webb who has been visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Delmar Evans Webb and their little daughter, in Florida, has returned to her home in Allison Street. Delmar Webb is manager of the Social Security Board office in St. Petersburg.

Miss Petschek To Be Bride of Naval Officer

Mrs. Vera Petschek of New York City and Ernest Friedrich Petscheck of Scarsdale, N. Y., formerly of Czecho-Slovakia, announce the engagement of their daughter, Annelise, to Lieut. Comdr. W. H. G. Fitzgerald of Washington and New York. Miss Petschek attended the Roedene School in Brighton, England, and Lady Margaret Hall at Oxford. She made her debut in London in 1939.

Lieut. Comdr. Fitzgerald was graduated from the Unites States Naval Academy in 1931 and was in the class of 1937 at the Harvard Law School. He is at present on duty at the Navy Department. He is the son of Comdr. W. G. Fitzgerald, U. S. N. retired, and the late Mrs. Fitzgerald.

The marriage will take place at St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York City on July 2. A reception will be held at the Ritz-Carlton following the ceremony.

Miss Edna Orame Becomes Bride Of L. B. Elkins

Married last evening at 5 o'clock in a candlelight service at Foundry Methodist Church were Miss Edna Gladys Orame of Harpers Ferry, W. Va., and Leonard Barbour Elkins. The Rev. Frederick Brown Harris officiated.

The bride, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Arthur Orame, was given in marriage by John Hino. She wore a gown of blue marquisette with long bodice of lace and sweetheart neckline. She carried a shower bouquet of white orchids. Mrs. Juliet Hino sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a gown of pink marquisette and carried an old-fashioned bouquet of sweetheart roses.

The bridegroom, son of Nathaniel Greene Elkins and the late Mrs. Ida Mae Elkins, had as his best man Lieut. Maxwell P. Smith, U. S. M. A., of Kansas City, Mo. Ushers were Elmer Pratt, Allen Stuart Mitchell, Girard Robichaud and David Duffey.

The bride attended the National Art School and George Washington University. The bridegroom was educated at Charlotte Hall Military Academy and Southeastern University Law School. He is with the War Shipping Administration here. They will make their home at the Embassy Apartments.

Margaret Troutt To Be Married

Mrs. Margaret Bye Troutt of Arlington, Va., announces the engagement of her daughter, Margaret Alice Troutt, to Ralph A. Sheals, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Sheals of Greenfield, Mass., formerly of Arlington.

Miss Troutt is a graduate of Arlington Hall School for Girls and attended Mary Washington College. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Dye of Red Rock Farm, Centerville, Va.

The prospective bridegroom is a graduate of Duke University and is now attending Georgetown Dental College. He is a member of Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity, of which he was president, and the Delta Sigma Delta fraternity.

MISS ALICE JOAN GILES

whose engagement to Ellsworth Tenley Simpson was recently announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Trowbridge Giles. The bridegroom-elect is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth L. Simpson of Arlington, Va. The wedding will take place at All Souls' Episcopal Church on June 30.

Purely Personal

Mrs. Leighton McCarthy, wife of the Minister of Canada, left Monday for Toronto for a stay. Later in the summer she will open the McCarthy house on Georgian Bay, where her husband will join her in August. Her daughter-in-law, Mrs. John McCarthy, will leave today with her young daughter Renata for a visit with her mother in Katonah, N. Y. Her husband is expecting to join her in New York in August.

Mrs. J. Gordon Douglas, the former Mrs. C. Mathews Dick, has gone to Newport to visit her sister-in-law, Mrs. William Fitz Hugh Whitehouse.

Mr. and Mrs. Carleton Holdrege have returned to the Capital after spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Lacy in their home in Leesburg, Va.

Mrs. Earle Stewart entertained at an informal cocktail party yesterday afternoon after 6 at her home at 2100 Connecticut Avenue.

Miss Aileen Havlin Harris will entertain at a luncheon today at the Washington Club in honor of her house guest, Miss Mary Culbertson of Marion, Ohio, Miss Culbertson will stay with Miss Harris until she and her father, George Harris, leave for the West later in the month.

Mrs. David Donovan is spending several days in New York at the St. Regis.

Mrs. Edwin Abbott will return to Washington tomorrow from a visit in the South. She is making her home at the Wardman Park with her parents, Justice and Mrs. Justin Miller.

Mrs. Albert Sigmund is in Charlotte, N. C., for a visit with her mother, Mrs. Norman Schiff.

Mrs. Jesse Kornicker, who has been the house guest of her mother, Mrs. Nathan Kahn, has returned to her home in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Seidenman have had as their guests, Ensign and Mrs. Emil Hess of Birmingham, Ala.

Mrs. Robert Jackson Graduated As Volunteer Air Spotter

Listening to the sound of plane motors or with a quick glance at the sky, Mrs. Robert H. Jackson, wife of the Supreme Court Justice, can call out a flying plane's letter and number with an air of educated nonchalance.

Mrs. Jackson was recently graduated as a recognition observer for the Army Air Forces from a class which devoted 15 hours of training to the recognition of planes "as far as the eye can see." As a volunteer air spotter Mrs. Jackson will stand at a Virginia post near her home at McLean, Va., and phone in her observations to the Army filter centers.

This is one of Mrs. Jackson's many activities in her rural community. Other civilian defense duties and her large Victory garden serve to keep her pretty busy. Although the Jackson home, Hickory Hill, was bought in the pre-gasoline-worry days, Mrs. Jackson manages to come into Washington quite regularly as a member of a car pool.

A group of 21 women were in Mrs. Jockson's air spotter class and won diplomas for their study. After the presentation, the members of the class lunched together at the Army-Navy Country Club. The instructer for the class was Mrs. Trendly Dean, who is already organizing another class that will include men students.

Films' Most Vicious Hun Still at It After 25 Years

Erich von Stroheim Up to His Old Tricks; Legion's "40 and 8" Adopts Palace Film; Items of News and Gossip of the Theater

ONE OF THE MAJOR PENALTIES of our recent quadrennial recurrence of the old bubonic plague was missing the preview of "Five Graves to Cairo," imminent, we are led to believe, at the Earle.

Our interest and petulance center not so much in the movement of a unique plot as in the fact that it is Erich von Stroheim who assumes the role of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel in the picture. This enthusiasm over Mr. Von Stroheim, when cast as any of the more heinous of the Huns, dates back a fair string of years—exactly 25, as a matter of fact, to 1918.

ERICH VON STROHEIM

It was in that year that one of the major releases was "The Unbeliever," a quasi-psychological study of love and violence in World War I. Marguerite Courtot, as I recall it, was the victim of most of the Boche atrocities, and Kate Lester, then the cinema's most imperious grande dame, and Winter Hall, one of its most competent and kindly character actors—both long since deceased—also were prominent in the distinguished cast.

But it was Erich von Stroheim, as the brutal young Prussian officer, who left the deepest and most lasting imprint on the film and memory of it. Boy, was he a dirty dog! But in the most polished, impeccable and immaculate way. He was so outrageously punctilious about the whole thing that it made his tortures all the more exquisite.

That sort of performance was new to the screen back there in 1918, and so, comparatively, was Von Stroheim, having been prevalent only since 1914, and, during that period, more as writer and assistant director than as actor.

I suppose my anxiety over "Five Graves to Cairo" all simmers down to a vast curiosity whether the old boy is as good now as he was then.

There was more to "The Unbeliever," however, than its story and Mr. Von Stroheim. It was one of the biggest "war pictures" of its day, made in large measure down at Quantico, with actual United States Marines playing themselves in the battle scenes. That was one preview we didn't miss, but left so hepped-up over what we had seen that our then-boss booked it on our say-so and then, by way of making the punishment fit the crime, commissioned us to "prologue" it suitably—which we did, with the invaluable assistance of Colonel Lyman, U. S. M. C., who brought as much of Quantico as we needed up to the ample stage of the Strand Theater, just as he did, also, for our old pal of the Tropics, the late "Roxy" Rothafel, over at the Strand in New York. Them was the days!

Film Is Officially "Adopted"

At a ceremony performed yesterday before the Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia, John B. Keller, Grand Chef de Gare of the District's "40 and 8" Society, on behalf of the American Legion, formally "adopted" United Artists' release of "Stage Door Canteen," opening tomorrow on the screen at Loew's Palace Theater.

With its 48 stars, the picture unfolds the love story of an American soldier and a worker at a stage door canteen. Those 48 stars include the greatest there are on stage or screen. More important is the fact that by far the greater portion of the box-office receipts of the picture is going to the American Theater Wing to aid in their work of sustaining stage door canteen and providing entertainment for the United Nations servicemen.

After weeks of diligent preparation, the Washington Workshop's production of "It's Up to You," a living-newspaper-musicalization of the food problem, opened last night in the Department of Agriculture Auditorium for a 10-day run. It will be further elaborated upon here on a later and "looser" newspaper day.

One of the reasons it's pleasant to return to the desk: "Dear Mr. Bell: I just came up to the home office to see Harry Anger and he reminded me that goodbyes would not be complete unless I said goodby to you. I am joining the Army next Tuesday, June 22, and went you to know how much I appreciated everything you have done for me and hope you will permit me to keep in touch with you. Kindest regards, sincerely, Mario." That, naturally, would be the male half of the dancing team of Mario & Floria, probably the most popular youngsters who ever toed a stage in the Capital.

Boys Shying Away From "War"

Heretofore, there has been a fair smattering of "war pictures" among those established as the "box-office champions" on the basis of attendance at War Department Theaters. The latest listing of "champs" released by the U. S. Army Motion Picture Service, however, discloses a considerable shift in trend. The five champions for the month of May, in the view of the lads in uniform, were "Crash Dive," "Lady of Burlesque," "White Savage," "The More the Merrier" and "The Human Comedy."

That seems to add up to 4 to 1 in favor of levity, although Saroyan's "Human Comedy" is a shade away from anything that might be be termed frivolous.

"Lady of Burlesque," incidentally, has been reclassified by the Legion of Decency and released from the complete ban. It has not, however, been given full approval, but denominated a "B" subject in its moral and ethical qualities.

Is Living Up to a Celebrated Name

a glamorous, dark beauty, in private life the wife of Bramwell Fletcher, able actor of both stage and screen, since "Nightmare" has been tending her house and her victory garden and raising chickens. Universal now is calling her back to the cameras to costar with Robert Paige and Louise Allbritton in something called "Fired Wife," costarring Robert Paige and Louise Allbritton. Her stature as an actress is growing at a rate that would make her late father, John Barrymore, proud of his daughter.

HEDDA HOPPER

Buffoons on the 'Bool'!

Hollywood, Calif., June 22.—It took Olsen and Johnson of "Hellzapoppin" to bring back showmanship to the billion-dollar movie industry. They're doing "Crazy House." We'll all be crazy by the time they finish, but we'll have had fun . . . They started off the picture by giving themselves a welcoming parade on Hollywood Boulevard. First came majorettes, then zaney stars on a couple of stuffed horses mounted on a truck. The director was in a strait-jacket with a butterfly net over his head. A bunch of beauties with their telephone numbers slung across their chests came next, then a hayseed band, special bicycle with six riders dressed as butlers, and finally a calliope . . . Only one accident occurred—to the producer, who was in an ambulance. The door wasn't closed tightly and going around a corner he flew out into the arms of shouting tourists and soldiers standing on the sidewalk . . . As the parade tried to get through the studio gate, a couple of guards with machine guns kept them out. Deanna Durbin saw them, screamed—and fainted. In order to get into the studio they had to swim the Los Angeles River and crowd in under a fence. After they got in they took Frankenstein, mummies, and the Phantom of the Opera apart and put 'em back together again with their beloved enemies. They sure are crazy—like a fox.

Round the Town

Donna Drake, who's been hitting the high spots in New York with Peter Arno, is wanted by Metro . . . When Guy Kibbee heard a producer had fired five comedy writers he said, "How can that be? Doesn't he know you've got to keep your wits about you at a time like this!" Ernest Hemingway wrote Ingrid Bergman that he'd be on hand to see her in "For Whom the Bell Tolls" when it opens on Broadway. But Ingrid won't be there to welcome him. David Selznick wants her to rest for "Gaslight" . . . It isn't true that Archie Selwyn and his divorced wife are getting together . . . The little time Howard Hughes has between airplane duties he's dividing between Betty Hutton and Ava Gardner . . . If Martha Raye finishes "By Jupiter" on time Columbia would like her for its first picture with Frank Sinatra

Crying Shame

At the Brown Derby I ran into Jeanne Rognan—the surviving member of the dance team of Rognan and Lorraine—and heard a story that made me heartsick. It's been three and a half months since her husband lost his life, together with the lives of several others, in that Lisbon crash when they were going overseas to entertain soldiers for the U. S. O. And for three and a half months, Miss Rognan, who had a broken leg, has had no help from any one with her expenses, doctor's bills, nurses, etc. I understand the families of the others have had the same treatment. Why, oh why, do we treat our own so badly? . . . Immediately after the crash I suggested a benefit either in New York or here for the care of those people and the families dependent upon them, but nothing was done. Actors are always the first called upon to put over any kind of a drive, whether for war, flood, fire, or disaster. They've never turned down a plea for help. But now we must take care of our own, too. Nobody else will do it for us. How about some help for those casualties of war, who are without benefit of uniform, but who have risked giving their lives nevertheless.

Gossip From Gotham

New York, June 22.

While Vice President Wallace was in South America he finished his work in one country, had his bags packed and asked how far it was to the airport. "It's only 30 minutes if you walk," the bell captain told him. Wallace, who hadn't exercised, decided to walk . . . In the hotel lobby he discovered a corps of diplomats, waiting to see him off. And when he started walking they followed him. Wallace walked, and walked, and decided that the bell captain must have miscalculated the distance. He started to trot, then ran, and barely made the plane. The Vice President arrived at the airport on the run, with a diplomatic corps running behind him.

MGM made a wholesale raid on Broadway last week—signing Skippy Homeier, the boy who plays the Nazi in "Tomorrow the World"; Bill Johnson of "Something for the Boys"; Mark "Red" Kramer, the liquor salesman for J. T. Wile, and the studio soon may sign Virginia Peine, wife of Quentin Reynolds . . . Because of the manpower shortage, Renee Carroll, who checked hats at Sardi's, now is the head waiter there . . . Leo Durocher, manager of the Dodgers, will make a USO tour overseas when the ball season is over. Durocher already has his papers . . . Eileen Farrell, the rising young opera star, will replace Gladys Swarthout on the C. B. S. Sunday shows.

Keenan Wynn, the young movie actor and son of Ed Wynn, now is in Hollywood, under contract to the MGM studios. Keenan and his wife have a 2-year-old child, Neddie. And, as has been happening in so many families, their servants left to take more important jobs in war industries . . . Their next-door neighbor in Hollywood is Marlene Dietrich. And so when Mr. and Mrs. Keenan Wynn want to go out at night Marlene Dietrich comes over to their home—to mind the baby.

Britain soon will have a new Lord Privy Seal . . . Oona O'Neill, the new Mrs. Charles Chaplin, received much of her publicity because she is the daughter of Eugene O'Neill. As a matter of fact, the playwright hasn't seen his daughter since she was an infant, when the parents were divorced . . . Gloria Swanson's daughter has turned to playwrighting. "She finished her first play," Miss Swanson reports. "It was supposed to be a three-act play, but it's really a one-act play in three parts." The girl's father, Michael Farmer, still is in a Nazi prison in France, although he holds an Irish passport . . . Joan Merrill of the Versailles, whose husband is in North Africa and whose brother is in Guadalcaanl, has volunteered for entertainment in Attu.

MGM has notified Jimmy Durante that the delay in his return to Hollywood—a delay caused by the demands on his radio show—is upsetting the writers. Jimmy replied that he is well aware of screen writers' problems, for he himself had been a screen writer, during a trip to England a few years ago. At that time his manager obtained $25,000 for his appearance in the Richard Tauber movie, "Land Without Music." The high fee was made possible by the manager's inducement that Durante would also help write the screen play . . . On the first day, Jimmy began to dictate the lines to a secretary, in the presence of the producer—who said: "Hold on, sir. Mr. Tauber cannot say 'dees,' 'dose' and 'dem.' I don't believe you're a writer, sir" . . . "Yeah?" Jimmy challenged. "Who sez I ain't no writer?"

Donald O'Connor, the youngster who became a star in his current movie, "Mister Big," was asked whether he objected to his being described as "another Mickey Rooney." He answered: "That's better than being called just 'another actor'" . . . Morton Downey, in finer voice than ever, will sing at the Waldorf Starlight Roof, starting July 1 . . . William Gailmor, the commentator, will do the narration in Randall's Island Stadium next Sunday at the American-Soviet celebration . . . The income from the Theater Guild's "Oklahoma"—together with the pending sale of the movie rights—is expected to be higher this year than the income of the State of Oklahoma.

Joe Fields, author of "The Doughgirls" and coauthor of "My Sister Eileen" and "Junior Miss," now is writing a new play, alone. He's working in Stamford. When he was asked why he isn't working with a collaborator, Fields explained: "I can't get anybody to come up to Stamford"

Second Jap Role For Naish

J. Carrol Naish's current role as a wealthy publisher and propaganda minister in RKO-Radio's "Behind the Rising Sun" is the second time in his career that he has accepted the part of a Jap.

In "Shanghai Gesture," on Broadway in 1930, Naish played the role Victor Mature portrayed on the screen. Soon after the show closed, he came to Hollywood for his film debut.

2 Men Control BEW Billions, Says Clayton

By the Associated Press

Subsidiaries of the Reconstruction Finance Corp. (RFC) have spent $1,873,000,000 on foreign purchases and development work, much of it as a result of directives issued by two officials of the Board of Economic Warfare (BEW), Will Clayton, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, told the Byrd Economy Committee yesterday.

Expenditure of more than twice that total has been obligated, Clayton said the Rubber Reserve Co., Metals Reserve Co., and other subsidiaries of the big Government financing agency had made commitments since July, 1940, for the purchase of $3,400,000,000 worth of critical and strategic materials from foreign countries.

In general, he expressed the belief that there had been no noticeable increase in efficiency under the present system where purchases are made by BEW directives.

Clayton Appears for Jones

Clayton appeared for his chief, Secretary Jones, to answer questions of the Byrd group—known formally as the Joint Committee on Reduction of Nonessential Federal Expenditures—concerning the financial relations between the war-born BEW and the RFC.

He said that since an executive order was issued April 13, 1942, defining BEW's duties, it had initiated commitments aggregating 350 million dollars for various development and purchase programs. Most of the directives, he testified, were signed by Morris Rosenthal, chief of BEW's Office of Imports, and by Arthur Paul, Rosenthal's assistant.

The four RFC subsidiaries which carry out the bulk of BEW's directives, he added, are the Metals Reserve Co., the Defense Supplies Corp., which handles nonmetallic purchases; the United States Commercial Co., principally interested in preclusive purchases of materials which it is desired to keep out of the hands of the enemy, and Defense Plants Corp.

"Were you consulted about the various development programs carried out by BEW?" Chairman Byrd (Democrat) of Virginia asked.

Views Seldom Adopted

"Members of our staff were allowed to express their views," Clayton replied, "but they were very seldom adopted. There have been numerous instances where our views differed materially — but theirs prevailed."

Responding to questions, Clayton testified that:

In general, no funds have been advanced for erecting housing and supplying living quarters for workmen in foreign countries.

Czech Ace Here to Tour Plane Plants

Flight Lieut. Karel Kuttelwascher, commander of the First Czecho-Slovak Flight in the Royal Air Force and holder of the United Nations record for shooting down 16 enemy planes at night, would be "very happy to operate from continental bases again," he told a press conference yesterday when asked about the readiness of the R. A. F. to support an invasion of Europe.

Kuttelwascher

"The R. A. F. is ready for any task," he added.

Here on an invitation of the War Department, Lieutenant Kuttelwascher's presence in the United States is bound to spell more disaster and unpleasant surprises to the Axis.

For his is not only an outstanding fighting record, including the destruction of a total of 26 Nazi planes, 2 E-boats, 1 tanker and 3 locomotives, but possibly the most remarkable individual contribution to new flying techniques.

"I will tour your airplane factories," he said yesterday, "and fly your planes to see if I can discover some new possibilities."

The potential meaning of these simple words can best be gauged by the story he told yesterday when he met a score of reporters in the Czecho-Slovak Legation.

It is a story of innumerable innovations and records established by himself and his flight, among them:

"Intruder" tactics, in which the R. A. F. fighters try to catch the enemy bombers at their weakest point, that is, when they are landing or taking off at their airdromes. This has cost the Nazis heavily and is among the things with which Lieutenant Kuttelwascher will acquaint American fliers.

The Gallup Poll

Canadian Survey Shows Most Favor Staying In Empire, but Many Want to Join U. S.

By George Gallup

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., June 22.—Many conflicting claims have been made by public speakers and writers, on both sides of the Canadian-American border, about the attitude of the Canadian people toward their Dominion's future role in the British Empire.

To determine whether the majority of Canadians want to continue as part of the British Empire, or join with the United States, or become an entirely independent nation after the war, the Canadian Institute of Public Opinion has conducted a survey throughout all the eight provinces of Canada.

Field reporters put the following question to a cross-section of the Canadian population so selected as to reflect accurately the views of the whole country:

"Which of these things would you like to see Canada do after the war?

"(1) Continue as a member of the British Commonwealth as at present

"(2) Leave the British Commonwealth and become a part of the United States.

"(3) Leave the British Commonwealth and become a completely independent nation."

The results are:

Continue as member of the British Commonwealth	49%
Become part of the United States	21
Become an independent nation	24
Undecided	6

Taking out the 6 per cent of the population which is undecided, the results show some 52 per cent of those with an opinion on the matter would chose remaining in the commonwealth, 22 per cent would favor union with the United States, and 26 per cent would like to see Canada become an independent nation.

Race Lines Important

Since the Canadian population is a composite of many nationalities, it is not surprising to find opinion dividing farly sharply on the basis of ancestry.

For example, Canadians of British ancestry are, by a big majority, in favor of continuing within the orbit of the Empire. Cnaadians of French ancestry, however, are more inclined to favor a completely independent nation, outside the commonwealth.

Canadians whose origin is neither French nor British lean toward union with the United States. Many of the latter are either of United States origin, or those who came from Europe via the United States.

This table show the way opinion divides when the results are viewed on the basis of country of origin:

	Brit.	French	Other
Continue in Commonwealth	66%	22%	34%
Join U. S.	19	19	37
Become Independent	11	50	18
Undecided	4	9	11

Back of these figures, the polls have shown, is a fundamental difference in the way nationality groups view the position of Canada in the Commonwealth. The majority of French-speaking Canadians, for example, unlike a majority of English-speaking Canadians, do not view Canada as an independent nation in an association of similarly independent nations but as still dependent on Great Britain. This was revealed when, some months ago, the Institute put this question to the electorate: "Do you think of Canada as an independent country or as still dependent on Great Britain?" A majority of French-speaking Canadians answered "still dependent," while a majority of English-speaking Canadians replied "an independent country."

Ontario Favors Britain

Of the eight predominantly English-speaking provinces, Ontario contains proportionately more people who favor the Commonwealth affiliation than do the other provinces, although in each of the eight provinces the largest number voted for continuation of this arrangement.

In the Maritime provinces, in Ontario, the Prarie provinces, and in British Columbia, union with United States ranked as second choice to remaining a member of the Commonwealth, with complete independence third. In Quebec, where the largest group favored complete independence, the second largest group favored remaining within the Empire. This is shown in the following table:

	Stay in Commonwealth	Join with U.S.A.	Become Independent	Undec.
Maritimes	58	23	13	7
*Quebec	24	18	50	8
Ontario	64	20	11	5
Prairies	57	28	11	6
B. C.	48	33	15	4

*Includes French and English-speaking.

Lt.Cmdr. Edmonds, Inventor of Safety Devices, Dies at 76

Twice decorated by the United States Government for outstanding service in the Coast Guard and inventor of several types of life-saving equipment, Lieut. Comdr. Samuel Preston Edmonds, U. S. C. G., retired, died Sunday at his home in Biloxi, Miss. He was 76.

Always proud of the interest taken in his life-saving inventions by President Roosevelt, Lieutenant Commander Edmonds developed life-saving pillows, mattresses and the Edmonds collar-life-saving jacket, which were first adopted by the Navy in the first World War.

Lieutenant Commander Edmonds was born in Miami, Mo., in 1867 and when 22 years old was graduated from the United States Naval Academy as a cadet midshipman. He subsequently entered the Coast Guard.

At the close of the Spanish-American War, Lieutenant Commander Edmonds was awarded the Spanish Campaign Medal for his service on the Coast Guard cutter Windom during the attack on Cienfuegos, Cuba. Following the first World War, he was awarded the Victory Medal.

Services Today For Mrs. Kaiser

Services for Mrs. June Fay Kaiser, 52, wife of Julius A. Kaiser, who died unexpectedly Sunday at her home, 27 Derrick Avenue in Kensington, Md., will be held from her home at 2 p. m. today. The Rev. George MacDorman, pastor of St. Paul's Methodist Church, Kensington, will conduct the services and burial will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Mrs. Kaiser was born in Colorado and, before coming to Kensington 25 years ago, lived in St. Louis, Mo., for many years. Besides her husband, she is survived by a daughter, Miss Huntley Fay Kaiser of Kensington; a son, Lieut. Julius A. Kaiser, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and a sister, Mrs. Joseph E. McGraw, Granite City, Ill.

Mrs. Pollio Dies; Funeral Friday

Mrs. Assunta Pollio died early yesterday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Principe, 4820 Langdrum Lane, Chevy Chase, Md. She was 77.

Funeral services will be held at the Church of Our Lady of Lourdes, Bethesda, at 9 a. m. Friday. Burial will be in Fort Lincoln Cemetery.

OFFICIAL NOTICES

COMMISSIONERS OF THE DISTRICT OF Columbia, June 9, 1943. Notice is hereby given that under authority granted in Public Act No. 307, approved December 13, 1930, authorizing the closing of streets, roads, highways and alleys in the District of Columbia, and in accordance with the provisions of an item authorizing changes in the permanent system of highways contained in D. C. Appropriation Act for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1944 (Public Act No. 435, 62nd Congress), approved March 4, 1913, as amended by an Act approved April 30, 1926 (Public Act No. 188, 69th Congress), the Commissioners of the District of Columbia will give a public hearing in the Board Room in the District Building, Washington, D. C., on MONDAY, June 28, 1943, at 10 o'clock a. m. to interested property owners to determine as to any property rights which may be affected or as to the equity, justice or advisability of closing the streets, roads and alleys, and concerning the proposed changes in the permanent system of highways, all in the District of Columbia and described as follows: 1. Closing of streets and alleys in the Fort Reno area, Northwest section, bounded by Chesapeake Street, Nebraska Avenue, Fessenden Street and Belt Road, including a transfer of jurisdiction to the Commissioners, D. C., for the widening of Chesapeake Street between De Russey and Sheridan Streets, N.W. 2. Closing of streets and old roads in Piney Branch Parkway, U. S. Reservation No. 333, in the Northwest section, which includes the closing of parts of 14th Street Road, 17th Street, Spring Road and Mt. Pleasant Street in the area west of 16th Street and south of Shepherd Street, N.W. 3. Closing of streets, roads and alleys in the Fort Stanton Park area, Southeast section, which includes the closing of parts of 16th Street, 17th Street, 18th Street, 18th Place, 19th Place, 20th Street, Butler Street, Stanton Road, W Street, Grand View Place, Harrison Place, Capitol View Place, City View Place, Nayley Road and 27th Street; and the closing of parts of alleys and old roads in this area; including a transfer of jurisdiction to the Commissioners, D. C., for a connecting street between 15th and 16th Streets through Square 5797. 4. Closing of 30th Street between Hillcrest Drive and V Place, S.E., W Place between Hillcrest Drive and 31st Street, S.E., and closing public alleys in Square 5657, including a transfer of jurisdiction to the Commissioners, D. C., for a public alley to said Square 5657. 5. Closing of the part of the public alley in Square 5637 running south from S Street, between 29th and 30th Streets, S.E. 6. Closing of the part of the public alley in Square 5351 running east from Texas Avenue, between B and C Streets, S.E. 7. Closing of 10th Place between Mississippi Avenue and Valley Avenue, S.E., abutting Squares 5931 and 5932. 8. Closing part of 10th Place, including a dedication to provide a realignment of said 10th Place, between Mississippi Avenue and Congress Street, S.E.; and closing of street area at 11th Place and Trenton Place, S.E., including a dedication to provide a street realignment at this location, and for the establishment of building restriction lines in Squares 5933, 5934, 5935 and 5936. 9. Closing of New Jersey Avenue between M and N Streets, S.E., and closing M Place, Quander Street, N Street and Francis Place, all immediately east of First Street, S.E., and closing alleys in Squares 743 and 744. 10. Proposed change in the plan of the permanent system of highways in the Northeast section, providing for a change in the location of a proposed street extending south from W Street, proposed, between Brentwood Road and 13th Street, N.E. 11. Proposed change in the plan of the permanent system of highways in the Southern section of the District of Columbia covering area bounded on the north by Atlantic Street, on the east by Livingston Road, on the south by Southern Avenue, and on the west by the westerly line of First Street, S.W., and South Capitol Street, providing for the elimination of part of First Street, S.W., proposed, and for the elimination of other proposed streets through U. S. Reservation at this location. 12. Proposed change in the plan of the permanent system of highways affecting property in the Northeast section along the line of 50th Street between Washington Place and Grant Street. Maps showing the street, road and alley areas proposed to be closed and showing the proposed changes in the permanent system of highways are on file in the office of the Surveyor, D. C., Room 405, District Building (same being known as Maps 2871, 2872, 2873, 2874, 2875, 2876, 2877, 2878, 2879, 2880, 2881 and 2882) and may be examined by interested parties during business hours prior to the hearing. Said maps will also be displayed at the hearing and the Commissioners will consider any suggestions or protests concerning the proposed changes and the proposed street, road and alley closings as shown on above-mentioned maps. JOHN RUSSELL YOUNG, C. W. KUTZ, GUY MASON, Commissioners of the District of Columbia 9-24.

THAT WE HAVE BEEN ABLE TO BRING SO MANY SMILES TO UNFORTUNATES LYING ON BEDS OF PAIN MAKES US VERY HAPPY—AND VERY VERY HUMBLE. AS THE POET HAS SO APTLY PUT IT—LAUGH AND THE WORLD LAUGHS WITH YOU.
AND THAT REMINDS ME OF THE FARMER WHO HEARD A GREAT COMMOTION IN HIS HEN COOP ONE NIGHT. GRABBING HIS SHOTGUN HE RUSHED OUT. "WHO'S IN THERE?" HE SHOUTED. A MILD VOICE REPLIED: "BOSS, DEY AIN'T NOBODY IN HEAH BUT US CHICKENS." HA! HA! HA! THEN THERE IS THE STORY THAT HAS BEEN GOING THE ROUNDS IN WASHING

TERRY AND THE PIRATES — Supported by Marines — By Milton Caniff

MAY I SIT OUTSIDE, GUARD?
I RECKON SO, MA'AM...
I WILL GET YOU IN TROUBLE IF I TALK TO YOU, MARINE?
WELL, MA'AM, I DON'T RECKON YOU CAN RUN AWAY 'IF I'M LOOKIN' RIGHT AT YOU...WHICH AIN'T TOUCH TO DO...
DO YOU THINK I'M A SPY?..
OH, I SHOULDN'T ASK YOU A THING LIKE THAT...
THAT'S RIGHT, MA'AM...BUT I'VE GOT A SISTER BACK HOME...YOU REMIND ME OF HER...
I'VE BEEN THINKIN' WHAT SHE'D DO IF SHE WAS RAKED BY A JAP TO SPY AGAINST AMERICANS...SHE WOULDN'T LEAVE NOTHIN' OF HIM BUT THE TEETH!... AN' YOU REMIND ME OF HER...SEE WHAT I MEAN?
MARINE? YOU AND YOUR SISTER ARE MY FRIENDS FOR LIFE!

MR. TOWERS SUGGESTED THAT I COME IN AND TALK TO YOU..
ABOUT WHAT? DID HE NOTICE THAT I WAS ...UPSET?
OH, NO! HE'S BEEN LECTURING ME ON HOW TO BE A SUCCESSFUL MODEL.. HE TOLD ME I SHOULD PATTERN MY LIFE AFTER YOURS!
MY LIFE?...THAT'S A LAUGH!..PLEASE GO AWAY!..I...I WANT TO...THINK!

MICKEY FINN — Down the Hatch — By Lank Leonard

GEE, TOM—I-I DIDN'T THINK IT WOULD FEEL ANY DIFFERENT FROM A TRAININ' CRUISE—BUT IT DOES—I'M KIND OF JUMPY INSIDE!
I KNOW, MICKEY—THAT'S BECAUSE YOU KNOW THIS IS THE REAL McCOY—BUT YOU'LL SOON GET OVER THAT FEELIN'!
HOW LONG WILL WE STAY ON THE SURFACE?
UNTIL JUST BEFORE DAYBREAK, PROBABLY THEN WE'LL GO DOWN TO ABOUT 100 FEET—SO A PLANE OR BLIMP WON'T SPOT US!
GOSH—IT'S KIND OF FUNNY HAVING TO DUCK YOUR OWN SIDE—AS WELL AS THE ENEMY!
WELL, IF A PLANE SPOTS US UNDER THE SURFACE, MICKEY, WE'RE JUST ANOTHER SUB—THEY HAVE TO HIT FIRST AND ASK QUESTIONS LATER!
YEAH—I KNOW! THEY TOLD US THAT AT THE SCHOOL!
WELL, C'MON! LET'S GO BELOW—AND MEET SOME OF THE BOYS!

KID, GET YOUR SLICKER! I THINK MERRY'S TIP IS ON THE LEVEL! WE'RE GOING TO RIDE!
YES, SIR!

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

IT IS NO SECRET that today's biggest worry among highup officials is Russia's reaction to current Allied strategy and the delay in establishing a Second Front in Western Europe.

For 18 solid months Stalin has been requesting an Allied invasion straight across the English Channel to the heart of the enemy. He has never been too sympathetic with operations in the Mediterranean, has regarded them as detours, has pointed out that the job of an army was to engage the enemy and that the way to engage the bulk of the Nazi army was by an attack in France, not by fighting Italians and six or eight divisions of the Afrika Korps.

When Stalin has been reminded of the tremendous losses sure to result from bucking the bristling guns and hidden mines Hitler has placed along the French coast, he has pointed to the millions of Russians lost in battle.

Therefore, it takes no mind-reader or even astute Ambassador Joseph E. Davies to know that our present "peculiar amphibious operations" in the Mediterranean must get a sour reaction inside the Kremlin.

Moreover, it needs no report from Joe Davies to guess that this sourness is sure to be taken out chiefly against the British. Real fact is that Stalin has never trusted Churchill. He also remembers the old Cliveden Set proposals that Germany be encouraged to attack Russia, so the two countries could bleed each other white.

So naturally, suspicion must linger that the British would like to see Germany and Russia continue bearing the main brunt of battle, both weakening each other, and leaving the British in a position to follow their traditional policy of holding the balance of power after the war is over.

That is why recent conferences between Foreign Minister Molotov and the Jap Ambassador in Moscow are being watched so carefully.

Mission to Moscow

ONLY INSIDERS know how delicate was Joe Davies' latest "Mission to Moscow." What he talked to Stalin about cannot be revealed for some time, except to say that his main job was to smooth out certain suspicions which might disrupt Allied relations.

But entirely aside from a ticklish Allied-Russian situation, Davies also was in a delicate spot with the United States Ambassador to Russia, Admiral William Standley. For his mission made it appear that Roosevelt didn't trust Standley, so had to send a special envoy to Moscow.

One year ago, sincere, tough-talking Admiral Standley vigorously resented Willkie's going over his head in Moscow, and discussed with Davies whether he should resign. Davies urged him to return to Moscow.

So, on his recent trip, when Stalin invited Davies to stay at a special palace for his distinguished visitors, Davies declined. He stayed at the American Embassy, took pains to report to Admiral Standley first of all, endeavored to work through the embassy. However, he also had a frank, friendly talk with Standley in which he said:

"Now, Admiral, it will be a help if you will let me talk to Molotov and Stalin alone. They don't like you, and you can't really expect them to, after the way you spoke out publicly against their handling of lend-lease publicity. After all, you know what would have happened to Ambassador Litvinoff in Washington if he had criticized Hull and Roosevelt publicly. He would have been kicked out. And coming at a time when Ribbentrop was reported making peace offers to Molotov, I can understand their feeling about you. I know you were taken in by some of the newspaper boys who wanted you to make that statement. But just the same you won't be offended I hope, if I see Stalin and Molotov alone."

Note: Admiral Standley had told American newsmen in Russia that the Russian government had not properly informed the Russian people regarding the help given them by U. S. lend-lease supplies.

Joe and Joe

AS A RESULT of this conversation, Admiral Standley went to the Kremlin, made the formal introduction to Molotov and Stalin, then bowed out. Actually, the Russians sent word that "Mr. Davies is an old friend of ours and needs no introduction," but Davies insisted that Standley make the introduction anyway.

Later Standley and Davies attended a lunch given by Molotov in honor of the British Ambassador, Sir Archibald Clark-Kerr, who is genuinely popular in Moscow. Churchill is not popular. He is too blunt, and somewhat like Sea Dog Standley, rubs the Russians the wrong way. But Sir Archibald edits a newspaper in the Russian language published by the British Embassy and has been making real friends. At the luncheon he made a speech in which, after paying tribute to the Russians, he added:

"Of course, we have our small misunderstandings. But these are nothing compared with our big objective. Sometimes when I bring my basket of fish to Molotov, I can't sell them all. One or two of the fish are bad, and I have to take them back and get some good fish. But that's the way it is in life."

"One Way Street"

The speech made an excellent impression. After lunch, several of the top commissars sat talking with Davies and Standley, when the blunt Admiral spoke up to Molotov.

"Commissar," he said, "I think you must remember that our relations should be a two-way street. When we give you information, you've got to give us information in return.

Standley was referring to Russian reluctance to permit our military observers to visit the front lines and to give them data on Russian war plans. Whether he was right or wrong, his statement at that particular moment struck a sour note. Sensing this, Davies remarked to Molotov:

"I want you to know, Commissar, that the American people assume and understand that our cooperation in this war is all for our mutual benefit.

"Just the same," piped up Admiral Standley, "our relations should not be a one-way street."

Shortly after this, the hard-working, undiplomatic admiral sent the State Department his resignation from the field of diplomacy, effective next autumn.

Without Painful Backache

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Guffey Says '$8000 a Plate' G. O. P. Dinner 'Will Outdo Biblical Feast of Belshazzar'

By the Associated Press

Senator Guffey (Democrat) of Pennsylvania told the Senate yesterday that Republicans were planning a dinner at Pittsburgh tonight that will cost $8000 per plate."

He said that 250 "hand-picked representatives of industry and big business" have been invited to Pittsburgh's Duquesne Club for a feast that "will outdo in many ways the biblical feast of Belshazzar."

"The object, I am told by one of the outstanding Republican leaders in my State, is to raise two million dollars for the 1944 campaign, the Senator said.

Guffey, chairman of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee, said invitations to the dinner were being sent out in the name of W. L. Mellon, chairman of the board of directors of the Gulf Oil Corp. "and the present head of the great Mellon dynasty"; A. W. Robertson, chairman of the board of directors of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co., of Pittsburgh, and Frank F. Brooks, president of the First National Bank of Pittsburgh.

"Ridiculous," Brooks Says

At Pittsburgh, President Brooks of the First National Bank, upon hearing of Senator Guffey's statements, said:

"Why, that's ridiculous! There will be absolutely no collection. It's just an ordinary dinner as far as I know—and we had a fine time getting a menu for that."

The club reported 110 persons had made reservations and about 150 were expected.

Quoting from Chapter 5 of the Book of Daniel on the Feast of Belshazzar, Guffey continued:

The "God of Aluminum"

"They drank wine, and praised the gods of gold, and of silver, of brass, of iron, of wood and of stone." Guffey commented:

"If that feast were being held today the quotation undoubtedly would include the god of aluminum and the god of oil.

"The lords of the feast, I understand, are to be addressed by Republican National Chairman Spangler and the former president of the National Association of Manufacturers, now the junior Senator from New Jersey, Hon. Albert W. Hawkes."
